TRACE HEINZE STOCK TO WALL STREET MEN

Jerome's Inquiry Shows Jacob Field's Clerk Last Held Missing Copper Shares.

LOANS PRESSED ON HEINZE

Offers, Suspected to Come from His Enemies, Refused—Trust Company's Account and Heinze Agent's Story Differ.

The mystery of the missing 20,000 shares of Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper stock originally put up with the Windsor Trust Company by M. M. Joyce, a friend of F. A. Heinze, and subsequently taken out of the trust company and sold, was traced yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Nott as far as John S. Sherwood, a clerk in the office of Jacob Field, the big Stock Exchange operator. With Sherwood the transaction began and ended, so far as Mr. Nott was able to get information yesterday.

Beyond Sherwood lay a mass of contradictory assertion as to whom he represented and what part the trust company played in the transaction, a 500-word statement issued by President John Alvin Young of the Windsor Trust at 8:30 last night, after three hours and a half of conferring with his attorneys, failing to clear up matters more than to add a new version.

Sherwood could not be found by detectives from the District Attorney's office yesterday, nor could Jacob Field be located for the time being. But there did come out a story of recent experiences which Heinze has had in the last few months, which in some of their details ran closely alongside the known facts in the present situation.

M. M. Joyce, the borrower, who originally had the Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper stock, which forms the basis of the whole case, was, it developed yesterday, not acting for F. A. Heinze when he accepted an offer of a loan of $50,000 on the stock on July 30, and closed the deal at the Windsor Trust on July 31. But the fact that he had often acted in matters where Heinze was concerned is believed to have given certain persons the impression that Heinze was himself concerned in the loan; that the stock behind it was his stock, and that the proceeds of the loan were to be used to help support Ohio Copper and Davis-Daly on the Curb.

That this impression had been reached by some one was the conclusion of Mr. Joyce and of Heinze when, on Aug. 2, immediately after the consummation of the loan transaction, some of the certificates which were deposited as collateral under it came back through purchases of Ohio Copper and Davis-Daly which Mr. Joyce's concern was making. That was what started the procession to the District Attorney's office. It was learned yesterday that such an experience has been undergone by Heinze before now, and in connection with loans made originally on the same stocks.

Heinze and Friends Whipsawed.

Where investigation has been made by Heinze and his friends the development has usually been that the collateral was rehypothecated by the original lender with some financially irresponsible person and sold by him. The only result of such occurrences has been to make Heinze buy in, in supporting his market, some of the very stock put up as collateral for the loans with which this support has been given. Expressed in a word, Heinze and his friends have felt that they were being whipsawed by somebody.

Strangely enough, it develops that Heinze, although the object of several Federal indictments and supposedly hard put in the financial world, has had many offers of loans made to him in recent months in which he has been turning his attention to Ohio Copper and Davis-Daly. In some of them has figured the name of Charles Katz, President of the Eastern Brewing Company in Brooklyn, who has as his manager Henry Ullman. It was several months ago when a broker named Joy came to Heinze's representatives with a proposition that Mr. Katz and Mr. Ullman would make him a loan of a large amount. The matter was referred to Levy, Rosenthal & Hermance, Heinze's counsel, and the offer was rejected after some inquiry, for the lawyers even then were scrutinizing prospective lenders as Greeks bearing gifts.

Not long after that a prominent law firm announced that it had a client who in turn had a client who wanted to lend money to Heinze on Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper. Inquiry developed that the client was still the loan broker Joy and the offer was declined. Then one "John Allen," a "wealthy retired merchant" of Scranton, Penn., turned up as a lender desirous of doing business with Heinze. "John Allen" was investigated and the only individual who could be located in Scranton bearing that name proved to be a brakeman on the Pennsylvania Railroad. These facts furnished some of the reasons why Heinze and his friend Joyce, among others interested in Ohio Copper and Davis-Daly securities have been careful what lenders they took up with.

Accordingly when W. J. Clark, a loan broker, with whom Mr. Joyce has done some business before now, came around on July 30 with a proposition to raise $50,000 on $100,000 market value of the copper securities, Mr. Joyce was cautious and said that he wouldn't talk business unless Mr. Clark showed some responsible principal who could be depended upon to keep the securities up as collateral where they belonged, which place, Mr. Joyce incidentally did not consider to be the Broad Street curb. At this point the contradictions begin, according to the stories told to Assistant District Attorney Nott yesterday.

Mr. Nott had before him almost everybody in the situation except Sherwood and Jacob Field, who were not examined because they could not be reached. President Young of the Windsor Trust was in to talk to him, as was Stirling Birmingham, who, it was explained, was really a bond man, and only temporarily in the loan department of the Windsor Trust. They were accompanied J. L. Rollins of Rollins & Rollins, counsel for the Windsor Trust, and a young man named Smith from Mr. Rollins's office, who described himself as the "great enigma." Clark was up there with his lawyer, and Charles Katz came, too. Mr. Joyce came again with Mr. Rosenthal, his counsel,

COUNTESS RECOVERS CHILD.

Said Czar Ordered Count Gizycki to Restore Daughter to American Wife.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The Daily News prints the following cable dispatch to-day, dated Vienna: "After months of ceaseless effort and the bringing of pressure to bear in the most exalted quarters in Vienna and St. Petersburg, the Countess Gizycki, formerly Miss Eleanor Patterson of Chicago, has finally succeeded in gaining possession of her little daughter, who was taken from her and concealed by her husband, Count Gizycki, in May, 1908.

The Daily News correspondent learns from a reliable source that when all other efforts seemed to be in vain an appeal was made to the Emperor Nicholas II., as Count Gizycki is a Russian subject. The Czar, upon learning all the circumstances, ordered the Count to return the child. In addition it is rumored that the family of the Countess paid to the Russian court a sum of money amounting to several hundred thousand francs.

Mrs. Robert Patterson, the Countess' mother, was in Vienna some days last week arranging the final settlement of the affair. It is asserted that now that the question of the custody of the child has been determined, the Countess will confine her efforts to obtaining a divorce. Further details cannot be obtained at present, owing to the absence from the city of the lawyers representing the two parties.

YOUNG ROOSEVELT TO FLY.

Theodore, Jr., Seeks Entrance to Aero Club—May Enter National Races.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., temporarily abandoning the carpet manufacturing business in Connecticut, came to New York yesterday to make arrangements for learning more about aeronautics. He lunched with A. Holland Forbes, Acting President of the Aero Club of America, and will file an application for membership this week.

Since making two trips in the Signal Corps balloons last year, young Roosevelt has determined to go in for the sport and may purchase a craft. At any rate, he will apply for a pilot's license, to qualify for which calls for ten trips in a balloon, one to be made alone and one at night. If he is successful he may participate in the National races to be held in the West this Fall.

He arranged to-day to make an ascension from near Pittsfield, Mass., with Mr. Forbes within the next two weeks. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, according to reports, has been contemplating making a trip with Mr. Forbes in the near future from Lenox, Mass.

ROOSEVELT TENNIS RELIC?

Workmen Find a Tennis Ball Imbedded "14 Inches" Below Ground.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Workmen engaged to-day in tearing up the tennis court behind the Executive office, on which President Roosevelt and members of his "Tennis Cabinet" played many a spirited match during the seven years of the last Administration, found a tennis ball imbedded "fully fourteen inches" below the surface of the ground. A negro with a spade uncovered it. The ball was immediately turned over to the foreman, who appropriated it, although efforts may be made to have it added to the collection of relics in the White House. The ball was unearthed near the edge of the court.

The work in preparing for the foundation for the addition to the Executive office began to-day in earnest. The laborers who are plowing up the old tennis court worked long over time and wires were being strung overhead, which indicate that before long the work will be continued under electric light through the night.

CENTRAL TO MOVE SHOPS.

New York Railroad to Leave Pennsylvania for Ohio to Escape High Taxes.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Aug. 9.—Owing to continued trouble with labor unions and high taxes in Pennsylvania, the New York Central Railroad has decided to move its Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad shops from Pennsylvania to Ohio, and with this object in point, has contracts for a large tract of ground near Hazelton, Ohio, in the Youngstown district, and will take its shops and all its motive power headquarters from McKees Rocks across the line into Ohio.

This means taking the work from about 1,400 men in the Pittsburg district, and many of them own their own homes at McKees Rocks. The workmen will be permitted to retain their jobs if they move with the railroad into Ohio, however.

Recently the New York Central wanted to remove its shops from McKees Rocks to Newell, Penn., thirty miles, but there was such a shout from the unions and threats made to strike that the company apparently yielded to the demands of the workmen and announced that for a time, at least, the headquarters would not be taken from McKees Rocks. In the meantime steps were taken to remove the headquarters of the motive power out of the Pittsburg district entirely.

"V. D. B." PENNIES ALL OUT.

New Issue of Coins Without Initials—Profit of $350,000 for Speculators.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The last of the Lincoln pennies bearing the initials "V. D. B." was given out at the Treasury Department to-day. When coining is resumed no initial will be on the pieces.

It was first thought a compromise could be effected by striking out the first two initials and leaving an inconspicuous "B." It was found, however, that this plan would necessitate the casting of an entirely new die and a delay for two weeks, so all the letters will be clipped from the die and the new issue will be resumed on Thursday or Friday. It is reported, however, that Mr. Brenner threatens to get out an injunction.

Since the commencement of the issue last Monday 22,350,000 of the pennies have been put in circulation, and small boys, and other venders, in Washington and other cities of the country are still making irregular sales of the coins at fancy prices. It is estimated that the new issue has sold so far on the street at an average profit of 150 per cent., the coins going ordinarily two for 5 cents. That means a profit to the venders of something like $350,000.

FIVE DIE AS MERCURY CLIMBS TO 93 MARK

SUNSHADE HATS ON SALE

They Come from Java and Are Cool, but Find Few Buyers—Cooler Weather Promised.

There was no let-up yesterday in the equatorial heat wave, which struck the city on Saturday night and drove half a million people to seek the seashore and the green woods on Sunday. The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 76, with the humidity at the same figure By noon the thermometer had risen to 88, while the humidity fortunately had fallen to 42, which was probably due to the wind shifting from the west to northwest at 11 o'clock.

At 3 P. M. the temperature was 93 and the humidity 37. This was the highest point reached on Aug. 9 since 1900, when the mercury climbed to 95. The record heat, according to the statistics of the local Weather Bureau, for August was 96, on Aug. 16, 1888.

The forecast given out by the officials yesterday offered a ray of hope that the tropical wave will soon be broken. It read:

> Showers and probably thunderstorms to-day, with cooler weather and northwest winds, light to moderate.

The highest temperature outside New York was Philadelphia, 94 degrees, and the lowest, 48, at Yellowstone Park, Wyo.

The casualties caused by the heat yesterday numbered five deaths and nine heat prostrations. The dead were Sumner Bernstein, 5 months old, 2,872 West Twenty-third Street; Norman Cochrane, 1 month, West Twentieth Street and Surf Avenue; Nancy Driscoll, 17 months old, West Seventeenth Street and Coney Island Creek, Rosie Dibend, 2 months, West Eighth Street and Surf Avenue, all of Coney Island, and Charles Floyd, 58 years old of Twenty-eighth Street and Sixth Avenue, Manhattan, who died in the Reception Hospital at Coney Island yesterday following heat prostration on Sunday.

The air yesterday in the narrow streets downtown, which were shut in by the high buildings, hung like a dense pall apparently about twenty feet from the ground.

The Captain of the Shimosa, which arrived in port from the Far East, reported sighting a small iceberg 300 miles east of Sandy Hook, and the Dock Superintendent asked him why he did not tow it in. Owing to the heat alongside the piers the Captain of the fruit steamship Atlantis, from Nipe, Cuba, with bananas, decided to anchor off the Highlands yesterday afternoon and go up to the pier in the East River early to-day to unload his perishable freight.

Thousands of people slept out in the parks and open places on Sunday night instead of going home. The number stretched out like a long, irregular line on the sands of Coney's Isle was so great that special patrolmen were detailed for duty on the beach by Inspector John O'Brien to keep order and see that the sleepers were not lightened of their valuables by pickpockets. A strong, fresh southwesterly breeze that rose up at dawn aroused hopes in the breasts of the city's al fresco sleepers that a cool spell was at hand, but it only lasted for a brief period, and at 6 o'clock there was a dead calm.

At 4 P. M. the sky became overcast, and there was every promise of the speedy downpour of a cooling shower, but it did not come. The temperature dropped to 90 and the humidity to 36, which was some relief to the men and women who were sweltering in the offices. The women and children of the lower east and west side districts poured into Battery Park to get the benefit of the afternoon sea breeze, while the dwellers on the east and west sides uptown went to the parks, where the jaded mothers put their little ones to sleep under the trees.

In the evening the mercury fell to 84 degrees at 8 o'clock, while the humidity rose again to 49.

Four peddlers, near the Post Office, attracted attention yesterday offering a new style of Summer hat for sale. It was made of palm leaves like an inverted calabash and lined with green linen. It was raised clear up from the head and supported by tiny pieces of bamboo that were set in a stiff band covered with light leather that fitted firmly to the forehead.

This left a space of fully three inches between the hat and the head for the breeze to play through and keep the brain cool. Fifty cents was the price demanded for them, and the attention the purchasers acquired when they put the combined hat-sunshades on was fully worth the money.

It was understood that the new headgear was brought by the steamships trading between this port and Sourabaya Java. The peddlers said that the "Ouge-Mouji," as the hats were denominated in Javanese, were equally useful and attractive for women as well as men, but with the exception of a woman who sold newspapers outside one of the Subway stations, the fair sex held firmly aloof.

After business hours yesterday there was a general rush to Coney Island, and many people took small bags with them to use as pillows as they slept on the sands.

Supt. Gumpertz of Dreamland posted notices stating that the beach and pier would be open to the public for those who wished to sleep there after midnight. The beaches at Staten Island were also well patronized by suffering New Yorkers.

Police Commissioner Baker issued orders to the patrolmen that the people sleeping in the city parks were not to be interfered with. Thousands took advantage of the order and spent the night in the open in Battery Park. The docks and piers along the North and East Rivers were also well patronized, and the recreation piers at the foot of 129th and 132d Streets on the North River accommodated about 300 sleepers each.

SIX DEATHS IN PHILADELPHIA

Where the Thermometer Was 98—Forest Fires in Lycoming County.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—The mercury in the official thermometer reached 98 degrees here to-day, while many instruments on the streets showed a temperature above the 100 mark. Six deaths were reported as due to the excessive heat. Among them was that of William Fullerton, aged 60 years, a well-known contractor and builder, who was overcome in his private office and died on the way to a hospital.

Throughout the State the suffering from the extreme heat and the lack of rain has been great. Even in the mountainous districts the temperature has been extremely high.

Fierce forest fires are raging in the Black Forest district of Lycoming County. Fires are also raging in the vicinity of Eaglesmere and Lake Mokoma.

GIRL LEAPS OFF BRIDGE.

Begs Rescuer to Let Her Die—Home Life Unhappy, She Says.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, Aug. 9.—Rosie Trotta, 16 years old, of 47 Ellison Street, Paterson, leaped from the Spruce Street bridge into the Passaic River to-night, and was being carried rapidly toward the falls 500 feet away when she was rescued by Thomas Bowers, a boatman, after a desperate struggle. Miss Trotta told the boatman she wanted to die and begged him to let her go.

Scores of people on their way home from work saw the young woman climb over the railing of the bridge, but none suspected her intention until she leaped into the water thirty feet below.

At Police Headquarters Miss Trotta declared that her home life was unhappy and that her mother abused her. She had made up her mind to end it all this afternoon, she said, after she had received a beating. Miss Trotta was held for examination.

STOLEN AUTO SMASHED.

Thieves Run Mrs. Lavery's Machine Into an Elevated Road Pillar.

A large touring car belonging to Mrs. Mary Lavery of 140 East Forty-first Street was stolen from the Boylston garage, adjoining her house, early yesterday morning, and the three men who were making off with it collided with an elevated railroad pillar at Third Avenue and Fifty-first Street and smashed its front axle.

The men hauled the auto to a garage at 127 East Fifty-seventh Street and asked if repairs could be made immediately. A mechanic informed them that the car was almost hopelessly damaged. The trio thereupon telephoned to Boylston's watchman that Mrs. Lavery's car was smashed, that a man had been killed, and that his body would be found at the Morgue. Mr. Boylston went to the Morgue within an hour, but no such body was there.

Central Office Detective Dietch, posing as a chauffeur, last night arrested Theodore Arnheiter of 623 Third Avenue and Alfred Lonsdale of 333 East Twenty-third Street, charged with larceny of the machine.

In the Night Court Lonsdale was discharged by Magistrate Kernochan and Arnheiter was held in $1,000 bail for examination to-morrow.

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

Blood Clot Formed on Brain of R. P. Curtis After Accident.

SOUTHPORT, Conn., Aug. 9.—Roderick P. Curtis, President of the Curtis & Curtis Co., who was injured in an automobile collision in Westerly, R. I., a few weeks ago, died at his home here to-night.

The death of Mr. Curtis is a direct result of injuries received in an automobile accident, when the car in which were Mr. Curtis, Prof. W. K. Shepard of Yale University, and Friend W. Smith, a lawyer of Bridgeport, was struck by a testing car from Providence. At that time the injuries did not appear to be serious, but afterward a blood clot on the brain developed and Mr. Curtis slowly became paralyzed, operations failing to relieve him. Prof. Shepard's skull was fractured.

Mr. Curtis was 49 years old and was born in New York City. With William Forbes he founded the Curtis & Curtis Co. in 1889. He was prominent in golf circles, being President of the Connecticut League Golf Clubs. He was also President of the Connecticut branch of the Sons of the American Revolution. He is survived by a widow and three children.

THREE HURT IN A RUNAWAY.

C. B. Scheidler's Horse Crashes Into a Truck—Two Men May Die.

A horse belonging to Charles B. Scheidler, a carriage manufacturer who lives at 352 West Fifty-third Street, ran away on the Long Island City incline of the Queensborough Bridge last evening at the rush hour, throwing Mr. Scheidler and his brother Frederick, who lives at 361 Webster Avenue, from the carriage. Then, dragging the shafts, which had broken from the carriage, behind him, the frightened animal ran into a truck driven by Andrew Younger of Prospect Street, Long Island City, and threw Younger into the street, fracturing his skull.

The horse was stopped by Bicycle Policeman John A. MacAdam and Policeman John D. Delton, and the Schiedler brothers and Younger, who were all unconscious, were picked up in an automobile and taken to St. John's Hospital, in Long Island City.

Frederick Scheidler has his skull badly fractured, and his brother received internal injuries. Younger was probably fatally injured.

JOHN W. KENNEDY ARRESTED.

Brother-in-Law of the Late Helena Mora Accused of $11,6933 Shortage.

John W. Kennedy, brother-in-law of the late Helena Mora, famous years ago on the stage as the only woman baritone singer, was arrested at his home at Eighty-second Street and Twenty-third Avenue, Bath Beach, last night by Detectives O'Connor and Goneringer charged by his nephew, William J. Mora, 19 years old, a son of Helena Mora, with having misappropriated $11,693.01 of the estate of Helena Mora.

According to the charges made by the boy, his uncle's misappropriations consist of $4,293.01 funds in the Bowery and Dry Dock Savings Banks; a $1,400 policy in the Equitable Life Assurance Society, and $6,000 worth of real estate in Bath Beach.

Mr. Kennedy was taken to Headquarters in Brooklyn, but he refused to make any statement. He will be arraigned in the Adams Street Court to-day.

TIGHT LID FOR ALABAMA.

Governor Signs Bill Forbidding Locker Clubs—Other Bills to Follow.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 9.—Gov. Comer at 6:30 o'clock this afternoon signed the Carmichael Prohibition bill in the presence of Mrs. J. B. Mell, President of the Alabama Division of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and other women.

Under this act it is unlawful to sell or to store any liquids containing more than one-half of 1 per cent. alcohol. Locker clubs are illegal, and the possession of a United States internal revenue license shall be considered prima facie evidence of guilt.

The Fuller bill and the Ballard bill are still pending in the House. They are more radical than the Carmichael bill, and are designed to aid in the enforcement of the latter. Both will be passed. The contest over the bill submitting to the people in November an amendment to the Constitution excluding liquors from Alabama forever will come up in the Senate to-morrow or Wednesday.

GIRL SLAIN AFTER DECORATING GRAVES

Anna Schumacher, 17 Years Old, Strangled in Rochester Cemetery and Crudely Buried.

FOUGHT FIERCELY FOR LIFE

Body Was Dragged Into Underbrush—Stolen Spade the Only Clue—Mother Suspects Cemetery Employe.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 9.—The badly bruised body of Anna Schumacher, 17 years old, of 192 Cody Street, was found this morning in a shallow grave in a secluded spot just outside Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, where she had been hastily buried by the man or men who had strangled her to death.

The brusises on the girl's arms and chest showed that she had made a desperate resistance. She had gone from her home to the cemetery Saturday afternoon with her hands filled with flowers to place on the graves of her father and sister.

An autopsy on the body of the girl, conducted by Coroner's Physician Dr. John L. Hazen of Brockport, and concluded at 8 o'clock to-night, showed that death was due to strangulation, small bones in the throat having been fractured by the fingers of the girl's assailant.

It is the theory of the police that Anna Schumacher was slain either by a tramp or by some employe of the cemetery or St. Bernard's Seminary, near-by. The seminary has a large amount of land and employs a large number of laborers.

The employes of the cemetery have been rounded up and are being examined closely. The police also are arresting all suspicious characters. It is believed that the murderer bears marks of his struggle with the victim, for particles resembling skin were found under her finger nails.

A Spade the Only Clue.

The only tangible clue the police have is the spade with which the murderer dug out the hole in which the girl's body was found. This was discovered in the pump house of Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. It was plastered with fresh earth and spattered with blood. Later in the day it was discovered that the spade had been stolen from the pig pen of St. Bernard's Seminary estate. This strengthens the belief of the police that the crime was committed by an employe of that institution.

The movements of Anna Schumacher after she left her home on Saturday afternoon have been traced past 3 o'clock of that day. A woman friend who rode with her as far as the cemetery saw her get off the car and enter the graveyard. At 3 o'clock, an hour after she entered, she was seen at the cemetery office getting water. That she was not molested until after she had performed her errand of love was shown by the presence on the graves of her father and sister of the flowers she had carried from the house. They had been placed in little glasses containing water.

When Anna did not return to her home on Saturday night her mother and brothers became alarmed, and late that night visited the cemetery, and by aid of a lantern conducted a search, but without result. The search was continued on Sunday by the relatives of the victim, and later in the day the police were notified. They in turn notified the authorities of the town of Greece, in which the cemetery is located, and early this morning a determined search was begun.

Constables Unearth the Body.

Constables Friedman and Baker struck the trail first. Marks of a struggle were found, and a trail as of a body being dragged. This led to a depression in a clump of undergrowth which the officers penetrated. Sticking out of some loose earth they spied a fragmenet of white cloth, and they began to dig. The first evidence of the body was the feet doubled back over the trunk. Then the body was revealed. It lay in the four-foot-long excavation, face downward, the mass of hair full of sticks and grasses, indicating that her slayer had grasped her by the feet in dragging her over the ground. Underneath her face was her hat, filled with torn fragments of her underclothing and containing her purse, which her murderer had opened and rifled of the small change the girl had with her.

Lifted out of the hole, the body gave evidence of the desperate struggle the girl had made. Her left cheek was bruised, and over her eye was a fresh cut. Her chest was black and blue, and her breast was black and discolored. Her arms to the elbows were bruised, and her torn hands showed that she had fought hard. The body was quickly identified and removed to the Morgue. Afterward the police closed the cemetery to the public and began a search for clues.

A man who, by his manner and actions, aroused the suspicions of officers at work on the case, was seen at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the spot where the girl's body was found. Officers began to approach the man, whereupon he turned and fled into the dense underbrush. The woods into which the man disappeared were surrounded and a telephone call for assistance was sent to Police Headquarters.

Chief of Police Quigley, who received the call, immediately dispatched two motorcycle officers, and sent three other members of the department to the scene in an automobile. At a late hour this man had not been captured.

Mother Suspects Cemetery Employe.

A number of reports were received at the Schumacher home before 1 o'clock today, and after hearing them Mrs. Mary A. Schumacher declared that she suspects a workingman in the employ of the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery of having murdered her daughter.

Mrs. Schumacher based her suspicions on reports which reached her of girls having been chased by a man employed in the cemetery. Two distinct stories of women being chased in the cemetery were told to men and women who yesterday searched throughout the old and new cemeteries for clues of the girl.

"You may say for me," said Mrs. Schumacher, "that I have suspicions of a workingman at the cemetery as having committed this crime."

Two of the girls who had been to the cemetery this morning returned and said that when they were searching the cemetery yesterday a man employed there said to them:

"If you don't find her (the missing girl) in Section H, there's no use looking for her."

This man was described as having a plain face, blue eyes, being of medium height, and wearing a straw hat. The girls did not know his name. It is also stated that this man said that a girl answering the description of Miss Schumacher was seen in company with a tall woman wearing a pink dress, who "acted wild."

The two were seen in the cemetery late Saturday, and the woman in pink was seen to leave the cemetery alone about 7 o'clock. There is no clue to her identity, and whether she knows anything of the murder remains to be seen.

ZEPPELIN REPORTED DEAD.

Rumor Heard at The Hague—Suffered from an Abscess.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at The Hague says that a rumor is in circulation there that Count Zeppelin, the famous German aeronaut and builder of the Zeppelin type of dirigible balloon, is dead. The correspondent adds that he has been unable to confirm the rumor.

A dispatch from Stuttgart last Saturday said that Count Zeppelin had been taken to a hospital at Constance to receive treatment for an abscess on his neck.

SEARCH FOR MRS. CHAMBERS.

Belief That Author's Wife Was Thrown from Horse That Returns Unmounted.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 10.—An alarming story reached Gloversville early this morning concerning Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, wife of the noted author. Mr. Chambers's Summer home is located at Broad Albin, an dhe is as usual spending the Summer there with his family.

According to reports, Mrs. Chambers, who is devoted to horseback riding, went out early last evening, mounted on a spirited horse. About an hour or an hour and a half later the unmounted horse appeared at the Chambers stable, and at 11 o'clock last night no trace of Mrs. Chambers had been found, although it was stated that large posses of men were searching every possible place where she might have been thrown and injured.

HURRY ORDERS FOR FURNACES

American Steel People Getting Fire Brick in Scotland.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Advices from Glasgow confirm the report of the boom in the American iron and steel trades.

Orders for the immediate shipment of quantities of fire clay bricks for the erection of additional furnaces in the United States and Canada have been given to Scottish makers, so these advices state.

ACAPULCO AGAIN SHAKEN.

No Great Damage Done, but Populace Is Thoroughly Frightened.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 9.—Acapulco felt another severe earthquake shock yesterday morning, according to reports reaching this city to-day. The people were greatly frightened, but there was no loss of life or great property damage.

Money for the distressed of both Acapulco and Chilpancingo is still appropriated from day to day by the State Legislatures. Following the arrival of the Federal relief in the gunboat General Guerrero, private ships carrying succor to the refugees are beginning to reach Acapulco.

LOFTY LANDING FOR AIRSHIPS.

Twelve Stories Up, on Top of Automobile Club's New Annex.

Balloons and airships of various kinds that happen to get caught out after dark will find a convenient place of refuge on top of the new annex to the Automobile Club of America's house, on Fifty-fifth Street, just west of Broadway, when that structure is finished.

Architect C. P. H. Gilbert, who filed the plans for the annex at the Building Department yesterday, said that the roof of the building is to be arranged as a convenient landing for members of the Aero Club, many of whom are also connected with the Automobile Club.

The annex will be twelve stories high and will cost $350,000.

RIOTERS SHOOT IN STREET.

Scow-Trimmers' Meeting Winds Up in a Free Fight—Two Bystanders Hit.

Striking scow trimmers held a meeting in the saloon of Paulino Carullo at 220 East 111th Street last night, and at 11 o'clock the meeting broke up in a fight. Men poured into the street and several pistol shots were fired.

Policeman Cohen sent a call for the reserves of the East 104th Street Station and they dispersed the crowd, arresting Carullo, Michael Derruco, and John Pepee, all of whom had pistols. All the men gave the saloon as their address.

It was discovered afterward that Joseph Pusbato of 232 East 111th Street had been hit in the left ear by a stray bullet and that Philomena Maddeo of 211 East 111th Street had been hit on the forehead by a spent ball. Their wounds were dressed by a doctor from the Harlem Hospital, and they remained at home.

ARCHBISHOP KEANE RESIGNS.

Will Go Into Retirement and a Coadjutor Will Be Selected.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 9.—The Rev. D. S. Phelan, editor of The Western Watchman, has received official news of the resignation of Archbishop John Joseph Keane, Metropolitan of the Archdiocese of Dubuque, and the calling of a meeting for the appointment of a coadjutor, Aug. 18, when the venerable prelate, who has long been in ill-health, will go into retirement.

Archbishop Keane is said to be in rapidly failing health. He has long fought the selection of a coadjutor. Rumors circulated some time ago, however, that the Archbishop was forced to consent to the appointment of a coadjutor have been denied, and the movement is said to have come voluntarily from Archbishop Keane.

DIAZ CANDIDATE ELECTED.

Reyistas Charge That Gigantic Frauds Were Committed in Sinaloa.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 9.—Diego Redo, administrative candidate, was elected Governor of Sinaloa to-day by a majority of 20,000 votes over the Democratic candidate, José Farrel. The election passed off without disorders, although the opposition asserts that gigantic frauds were committed.

According to The Mexico Nuevo, the official organ of the Reyista party, men forty years old were not allowed to vote by the election officers on the ground of minority, while boys were voted by the administration. The same paper declared that hundreds of Reyistas were imprisoned on false charges to prevent their voting.

THAW'S WIFE ASKS $500,000 OF FAMILY

Charles Morschauser Says She Has Made Demand for Settlement Upon Herself.

NOT EXCITED BY THREATS

Attorney Declares Evelyn Nesbit Has Aided Jerome and His Alienists—Thaw Defends Witnesses.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Aug. 9.—That Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is seeking to drive her husband's family into settling upon her a large sum of money, said to be $500,000, is the statement made to-night by Charles Morschauser, attorney for Harry K. Thaw.

Ever since Thaw was sent to Matteawan, Evelyn Thaw has been threatening him with divorce, and numerous stories regarding her contemplated procedure have been published. Mr. Morschauser summed up the matter as follows:

"Since Mrs. Thaw ascertained she could not force Harry into acceding to her wishes by threats of divorce she has resorted to an actual demand for the settlement of a large sum upon herself."

"Is it as much as $500,000?" Mr. Morschauser was asked.

"Yes, it's somewhere around that figure. We are not excited by her oft-repeated divorce threats, for we knew what she has been doing. She has been negotiating with District Attorney Jerome and his alienists and aiding them in this case, therefore she can look to them to take care of her."

This declaration that Jerome and his alienists may care for Mrs. Evelyn Thaw's welfare is taken as an indication that Thaw and his family have finally determined to cut the artist-model-chorus girl wife adrift for good.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Harry K. Thaw to-day gave out a statement in which he says:

"Mr. Morschauser before he returned to Poughkeepsie asked me to make a statement. It seemed to me enough was said in court. However, a few words about the 'Longfellow letters' may not be amiss. I shall write my opinion for whatever it is worth about our witnesses. Everybody knows they are honest, and I don't think anybody will pretend that they are lacking in sense and intelligence.

"Mr. Jerome apparently wanted no light upon those letters, for he asked none of our alienists or me for any explanation. They were written to an old friend and lawyer. They are carelessly written and not well expressed; however, incoherence is the antithesis of paranoia.

"Dr. Flint in all those letters thought he found two delusions, both absurd. The first is a simple, common expression; the other stated a fact about Hummel. The letters contain no delusions, but to understand them it must be noticed that the second letter is in answer to a cablegram from Mr. Longfellow stating that White and Hummel were preparing trouble. I thought Longfellow and Warren exaggerated the danger. This is clearly stated in the eighth letter, where I write to think they fear, 'rather than imagine dangers.'"

Mrs. Mary C. Thaw gave out this statement to-day:

"I wish to emphatically deny the interview in some of this morning's papers. It is absolutely false in every particular. I am confidently expecting that the opinion of the Judge will result in my son, a sane, acquitted man, returning home with my daughter and myself."

TAXICAB CRUSHES A CHILD.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schaefer Witness Accident from Doorstep—Boy May Die.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schaefer of 531 West 145th Street, sat in front of their home last evening, getting the air and awaiting the return of their seven-year-old son, Charles, Jr., whom his father had sent around the corner for an evening paper. Presently the child turned the corner and started across the street. Just then Chauffeur Adolf Wickstrom of the New York Taxicab Company drove his cab around the corner.

The heavy cab struck the boy and passed over his small body. Mrs. Schaefer screamed and fainted, while the father ran into the street and picked the child up. The chauffeur brought his cab to a stop and waited until Policeman Larkin arrested him.

Mr. Schaefer carried his boy to the office of Dr. Albee, at 542 West 145th Street, who called Dr. Crawthers from the J. Hood Wright Hospital. Both surgeons agreed that the boy was in a critical condition, and he was taken to the hospital. Meantime Dr. Chalmers Sangree of 571 West 139th Street, who was passing, had stopped and revived Mrs. Schaefer.

In the West 152d Street Police Station the chauffeur said that the boy had stepped directly in front of his cab. The father declared that the cab was without lights and was running at twenty miles an hour.

CORAL NECKLACES ON LEGS.

Steamship Passenger Also Had Other Dutiable Articles, Which Are Seized.

The fast-growing list of confiscated articles in the seizure room of the Custom House received a contribution yesterday from Aaron Greenberger of 331 East Houston Street. Mr. Greenberger was a passenger on the Red Star liner Lapland, which reached her pier from Antwerp late Sunday night. Special Customs Inspector Timothy Donohue, while walking about among the arriving travelers, rubbed against Mr. Greenberger and discovered that he carried a small package.

The man was ordered back on the steamship and there searched. In a pocketbook the man carried were found six diamond rings valued at about $100 each. In another pocket were found six more of similar value. Fastened about Mr. Greenberger's legs were strings, from which dangled twelve coral necklaces. He also had eight pair of women's gloves. The goods were seized and Mr. Greenberger will have to explain satisfactorily why he did not declare the articles.

SUTTON LETTERS IN EVIDENCE IN COURT

Mrs. Sutton Wrote That Spirit of Her Son Came to Her After Death and Accused Officers.

ASKED VENGEANCE OF HER

In the Letters Mrs. Sutton Says That Some of the Officers' Faces Are Enough to Convict Them.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 9.—The statement that her son, Lieut. James N. Sutton, had appeared to her after his death and had told her that his fellow-officers had beaten him to death and that Lieut. Adams had then shot him to hide the crime, was contained in a letter written by Mrs. Sutton, which became public at to-day's session of the naval inquiry into the death of Lieut. Sutton.

The letters, which were read in a closed session of the court on Saturday, were read to-day, together with the record of that day's proceedings. This followed a motion made by Major Henry Leonard, the Judge Advocate.

"There are sundry other mothers," said he, "who are entitled to know why their sons are accused of crime."

Henry E. Davis, Mrs. Sutton's counsel, did not formally object to having the letters read, though he failed to see the necessity, he said, as they had no bearing on the evidence in the investigation.

The letters were four, written by Mrs. Sutton to H. M. Swartz, a clerk in the Marine Corps Paymaster's office in Washington, whom Mrs. Sutton expected to aid her in her inquiry. She refers to the officers as "brutes" and "beasts." The faces of Adams, Utley, and Osterman, she wrote, were enough to convict them, and "Shearer looks like an ex-convict."

In the first one she wrote:

> I want to speak to you in confidence, but don't feel that I can do so until I hear from you, and if you were not Jimmie's friend I will admire you the more for you to say so than not to be and make believe that you were.
>
> These brutes that killed him are alive and seemingly doing well, while my boy is dead five months to-day. Tell me I can trust you and that you would have liked Jimmie and I will write you.

In the second letter, which was written on April 9, in evident answer to Swartz, Mrs. Sutton says:

> After Jimmie was killed Capt. Marix and Lieut. Utley took his keys and went through his trunk and everything. Can you tell me if they had a right to touch anything? To make it more horrible, Utley was with Adams and Osterman when Jimmie was killed. I believe he engineered that fight, that was all planned.

Mrs. Sutton then describes the meeting of the officers at Carvel Hall on the night of Sutton's death, and lays emphasis on the fact that, while her son was talking to Miss Stewart and Dr Coleman of the Academy, Osterman and Adams withdrew and had a talk. Her letter continues:

> Now at 1 o'clock Sunday morning Jimmie was beaten to death. That shot was fired to hide the crime. His forehead was crushed, nose broken, lip cut open, teeth knocked out, and an incision in the head one and one-half inches long. Just think what my poor boy's sufferings must have been as he was beaten to death by those wild beasts. Good God! Mr. Swartz, the work of wild men, and this on their own sworn testimony, and still they are walking the streets to-day while my poor boy lies in the grave stamped a suicide.

Criticises Shearer.

Referring to the automobile ride Mrs. Sutton declared that if "Jimmie" had been himself he never would have asked them (Adams, Utley, and Osterman) to ride with him. Adams and Utley hated him, she wrote. Mention is also made of Lieuts. Potts, Sumner, and Shearer, who were in another automobile on the night of the tragedy. She speaks of a money transaction between her son and Shearer, and several times during her correspondence with Swartz expresses a strong dislike for him in uncomplimentary terms. She wrote:

> On Oct. 1 Jimmie borrowed $211 from the bank. On Oct. 3 he gave Shearer a check for $130, and I wrote Shearer and asked him what it was for. He said he had just cashed it for Jimmie. I don't believe him and wrote and told him what I thought of such men who would let a man in a helpless condition be taken out and beaten to death.

On subsequent occasions when she had written Shearer his replies were curt, one letter said. She used to scold her son for being generous, and his answer was, "Mamma, my greatest happiness is when I'm making others happy."

"It was 'Jimmie,'" she wrote, "who loaned him his linen, and it was Adams that sent him to his grave."

On May 4 Mrs. Sutton promised to send Swartz a copy of the first inquest testimony, and a copy of what evidence she had later obtained. She recites her difficulties in obtaining anything definite about her son's death. She adds:

> Do you mean to say, if we prove what we know, these men cannot be punished simply because they belong to the navy? These men know why they are so secret about the affair, but we are not sleeping, and I think the United States will be compelled to sit up and take notice of what kind of men run the navy and shield a pack of low brutes.

Faces Enough to Convict Them.

Shearer then comes in for further attention. She suggests to Swartz:

> Just get a copy of the A. and N. Journal of Oct. 19 and see the expression on Potts's face.
>
> Adams, Utley, and Osterman's faces will be enough to convict them. You will see Jimmie is the smallest in this class, and yet it took three big men to do him to death. Shearer looks like an ex-convict. Willing turns in the picture a little from Jimmie, showing they were not on good terms.

On the cross-examination Mr. Birney insisted that Mrs. Sutton explain why she made these deprecatory comments. She retorted that she could express an opinion about Potts's face without intending to mean that every one criticised was implicated in her son's death.

She further insisted that the contents of her letters to Swartz had been arrived at through reading the testimony and a sense of deduction, and that she still held to her original belief.

Sutton's Ghost Came.

In this same letter to Swartz Mrs. Sutton says that her son came to her and told her that he did not kill himself, but that Adams had done so. She wrote:

> The love between Jimmie and myself was the greatest that could exist between two persons. If Jimmie met with an accident, I felt it at once. Well, the night those beasts were laying their plans for Jimmie an awful fear came over me and my two daughters so we could not talk and each kept away from one another from fear of betraying our feelings. The next day Mr. Sutton came in and asked if I could stand some awful news. He told me that Jimmie was reported to have killed himself.
>
> Oh, God, Mr. Swartz, if Jimmie had not spoken to me I would have died. Then Jimmie came up to me and said: "Mother, dear, don't you believe it; I never killed myself. Adams killed me; they beat me to death and then Adams shot me to hide the crime."
>
> He told me how they laid a trap for him, how he walked into it; how Utley grabbed him to pull him out of the automobile, how they held him and Osterman beat him, about his forehead being broken, his teeth knocked out and the lump under his jaw, and how, when he was lying on the ground, some one kicked him in the side and smashed his watch.

Ghost Asked Vengeance.

> He begged me not to die, but to live and clear his name. Well, after three weeks, I proved some things he told me were true, and after repeatedly demanding the evidence, after four months I got it, and within the last month I have proved everything he told me.
>
> Nothing could separate Jimmie from me, not even death, and Adams, Utley, Potts, and Osterman will never know a moment's rest on earth. Why should they?

Mr. Birney demanded to know upon what evidence Mrs. Sutton based her accusations. She replied that the testimony to her mind proved it, together with certain letters that she had in her possession.

She asked Swartz to make a confident of no one, unless he was sure of the person to whom he spoke, saying that she did not want any one to suspect anything until she was ready. She criticised the fact that the officers after the tragedy had been sent to different posts. She wrote:

> I cannot understand why every one cannot see they are trying to hide the real crime and protect those men. If we cannot get justice through the courts, every newspaper in the United States shall view these facts as we have them and then see what the opinion of the world will be.

The fourth letter was dated May 16. In it Mrs. Sutton told of having received a letter from Owens, the chauffeur, and said that she would inclose a copy of that letter to Swartz. She adds:

> You can see from that that Adams sat on the front seat. I suppose he thought by stopping the car it would start a fight, and when he found it would not be started at Jimmie any way.
>
> I firmly believe it was Jimmie who called "Sentry!" when he saw Owens leaving, and realized what those wild beasts were up to, and I suppose the blow in the forehead was what silenced him.
>
> Speaking of hazing at the Academy, he used to say, "You are perfectly safe out on the grounds, for if any one jumps you, all you have to do is to call a sentry," and that is why I believe it was Jimmie who called when he saw what they were up to.

She inclosed a copy of the letter which Owens had written which was in line with the testimony Owens gave on the stand.

Mrs. Sutton wept quietly when her letter which said that her son had appeared to her was being read.

Refers to Miss Stewart.

The reading of the record of Saturday's proceedings showed that Mrs. Sutton had been asked many questions as to the evidence in her possession. She referred to letters received by her from Miss Stewart, Prof. Coleman, and to the testimony taken at the first inquiry as sufficient evidence.

After the record of Saturday's proceedings had been read yesterday, Mrs. Sutton was cross-examined by Mr. Birney, and said she got her information relative to the wounds she believed her son had from the testimony at the first investigation, which she had believed was given under oath.

Following a recess the cross-examination of Mrs. Sutton was resumed by Mr. Birney, after certain papers called for during the morning had been read into the record. These were a letter to Mrs. Sutton from Col. Doyen, Commandant of Marines, and an affidavit as to the automobile ride, by Owens, the chauffeur. Mr. Birney's cross-examination ended after two or three minor questions.

Mr. Davis, her counsel, then questioned Mrs. Sutton as to her acquaintance with Swartz and brought out the statements that she had never given him permission to part with the letters put in evidence this morning and that on their last meeting he had wished her all success in her efforts to bring to punishment those responsible for her son's death.

Commander Hood, President of the Court, questioned Mrs. Sutton as to newspaper interviews attributed to her, which she denied.

It was brought out in evidence that Swartz is an enlisted man in the Marine Corps, and might, under certain circumstances, be required by his superior officers to give up the letters sent to him by Mrs. Sutton.

At 3:30 P. M. the court adjourned until to-morrow morning.

MAN AND WIFE IN DUEL.

Woman Dead, Husband Dying—Two Babies in Next Room.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Jealousy led to a revolver duel to-day between a husband and wife which was fought with their two infant daughters in an adjoining room. The woman is dead and the husband is in the People's Hospital mortally wounded. The duel took place in a flat at 2,818 Lowell Street, and Philip Spizzirri and his wife fought it.

The shooting was done in the parlor of their flat. Before the pair engaged in their last quarrel both rear and front doors were locked and barred. No sounds were heard by the neighbors until a revolver startled every one in the block. A second shot followed, and after a short interval two more shots came in quick succession.

When Policeman John S. Loop, hurriedly summoned by persons in the neighborhood, battered down the rear door of the flat, he found Spizzirri lying face downward on the parlor floor. The woman's body was lying full length on a couch in the same room. One revolver lay several feet in front of the man's head, as if he had flung the weapon forward when he fell. Another revolver lay alongside his body, and a stiletto was on the head of the couch near the woman's face.

A sob from a rear bedroom attracted the officer's attention, and he ran in to find the two babies, wide-eyed and white-faced. Emma, 2 years old, was sitting in a little crib, and Mary, 3 years old, was standing crouched against her small sister. They were too terror-stricken to talk and too frightened to cry out.

A movement from the man drew the policeman to the parlor again, and he asked:

"What has happened here?"

"I don't know," the man on the floor answered feebly.

"Did you shoot her?"

"No."

"She shot first and then you fired?" the officer asked.

"Yes, that's it."

The man moved his hands to his throat and the officer and a neighbor tore them away. He had torn a letter written in lead pencil into small pieces. He refused to tell the police the contents of the letter, but upon further questioning said that his wife had been receiving the attentions of other men, especially a barber named Louis Puzzo, who lives at Nineteenth Street and Archer Avenue.

"We quarreled about it," the man muttered, "and she shot at me."

Upon investigation the police found that the woman had been shot twice in the middle of the chest and above the heart. Two stiletto wounds were found over the heart.

The man had received two bullet wounds, one in the chest and the other in the right ear, the bullet having come through the back of the neck. All of the cartridges in the revolver lying in front of the man had been snapped, but failed to explode. One theory of the police is that the man shot his wife twice and, the other cartridges failing fire, he plunged the stiletto into her heart.

The Greatest Train in the World

For Regularity
For Long Distance Speed
For Completeness of Equipment

"Pennsylvania Special"

(The Pennsylvania Railroad's 18-hour Train between New York and Chicago)

83% ON SCHEDULE TIME FOR 4 YEARS

From June 11, 1905, to June 11, 1909, four years, the "Pennsylvania Special" made the run in each direction between New York and Chicago in eighteen hours (its regular schedule time) on 83 days out of every 100.

In these four years the train was in operation 52,596 hours, or 3,155,760 minutes. It made 2,922 trips between New York and Chicago and covered a total of 2,653,176 miles.

Over all these 2,653,176 miles, and during all these 3,155,760 minutes this pioneer fastest long distance train in the world was exactly on its schedule 83 per cent. of the time at BOTH TERMINALS.

It will be noted that the period covered by this remarkable record includes all seasons of the year, winter as well as summer, and all conditions of weather, foul as well as fair.

It can be safely said that no other train in the world on so fast a schedule can duplicate this record—

A RECORD FOR REGULARITY UNSURPASSED IN RAILROAD HISTORY

The Pennsylvania Special runs between New York and Chicago between suns. It takes no man's time from his business. IT SAVES HIM A DAY BY RUNNING AT NIGHT.

The train is an office or a club as the passenger makes it. He can continue his work with a stenographer at his elbow, or just loaf with the comforts of the club at call.

IT'S THE TIME SAVER

The Pennsylvania Special leaves New York every day at 3.55 P. M. and arrives at Chicago 8.55 next morning.
Returning it leaves Chicago 2.45 P. M. and arrives New York 9.45 next morning.

NEW YORK TO SEE FLIGHTS BY WRIGHTS

Orville, on His Way to Europe, Says Hudson-Fulton Exhibition Is Probable.

SELLS RIGHTS IN GERMANY

Company Formed There to Make the American Aeroplanes—No More Record Flights by Brothers.

Orville, the younger of the famous Wright brothers of Dayton, Ohio, arrived in this city late yesterday afternoon with his sister, Miss Katherine Wright. They spent the night at the Park Avenue Hotel preparatory to going aboard the Kronprinzessin Cecilie of the North German Lloyd Line, which sails at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. Wright allowed it to become known that some flights by the Wrights will probably be made here during the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

Mr. Wright slipped into town in his usual quiet fashion, the hotel management being unaware that he was coming, and after his arrival all inquirers were told that Mr. Wright and his sister had a dinner engagement and could not be seen.

Late in the evening they returned to the hotel, and the aviator received the reporters. Mr. Wright had a fine color, and looked the picture of health in contrast to his appearance when he last went abroad after his recovery from the accident at Washington, in which Lieut. Selfridge was killed. He still walks with a limp, however, and says that he feels the constant strain under which he and his brother have been working. He was as taciturn as ever to volunteer information, but answered readily all questions.

In outlining his plans during his stay abroad Mr. Wright said he expected to be gone two months, although some unforeseen possibilities might make it necessary that he remain there a considerably longer period. He plans now to land in England and make his headquarters in London, where he will stay for a short time.

While there he expects to run down for brief visits to Shell Beach, where the Wright aeroplane factory is located. He will make no flights in England, but simply attend to the business end of the contracts which he gave out on his former visit before returning to this country. From England he will go to Germany, where he will make some flights under the auspices of a German newspaper, the Lokal Anzeiger.

Some similar flights will not be under the auspices of the "Studien Gesellschaft," an organization started for the purpose of studying aeronautics, which fostered several former flights, but a number of men who were members of this society are now interested in the Wright Company, and it is under their auspices that the flights will be made.

When asked about this company, which has been organized in Germany for the purpose of manufacturing Wright aeroplanes, Mr. Wright said:

"This company is capitalized at $150,000 in American money, and at its head is Capt. von Kehler, formerly of the German Army. We have sold our patent rights in Germany to this concern, and hold some stock in it ourselves. There are a great number of scientific and financial men interested in the company, and not a few are friends of the Kaiser, although I do not know whether he is directly interested in it himself."

When questioned as to the probability of the Wright brothers taking part in the Hudson-Fulton celebration this Fall, Orville answered:

"The people of New York will soon have an opportunity to see and judge our aeroplane. Overtures were made to us both in Washington and in this city by William J. Hammer, Vice President of the Aeronautical Society, to take part in the celebration, and we are considering them. The great difficulty is to get ready in time, as we have to fulfill the time limits of the contracts which we have on hand."

It was suggested that some rash individual had declared lately that the Wright brothers would have to take a back seat in flying in the future in view of the recent successes abroad. Mr. Wright merely smiled and said:

"We consider that our machine is the best in the world. We have reached the stage where we are not trying for record flights any more, but what we are constantly striving for is to make our aeroplane of practical use to the general public.

"This can only be done by increasing the fuel supply and making the engine as reliable as the steam engine so that after once starting it it will not stop until the operator desires to cease flying. At the present time we can carry enough fuel to support one man in the air for twenty-five hours, or if traveling at the rate of forty miles an hour enough to carry him a distance of 1,000 miles.

"I am sure that we hold the record for speed at the present time. According to official figures abroad the best speed in an aeroplane has been 38 miles an hour over a marked course, while at Washington recently we made against time a record of 50 miles an hour on the level with a diagonal wind and 42½ miles an hour across country. The reason that we can do this is because our surfaces are arranged so as to give the highest possible efficiency. However, I shall attempt no record flights abroad or speed tests, as we have gotten beyond that, and desire now to fulfill our contracts and aim for reliability and durability."

Mr. Wright would not discuss the recent flights of Roger Sommer and Bleriot. He said he was acquainted with the Sommer type, but had not seen the particular machine.

"As to monoplanes," he went on, "they undoubtedly increase the speed by reducing the surface, but they lose much more in other respects. And let me tell you this: There never was a machine that would rise from the ground abroad until our plans became known abroad. All the monoplanes which have made successful flights abroad in recent years have been practically built upon the original Wright plans filed in Europe about 1903."

When asked about the interest displayed in aeronautics in this country as compared with that abroad, Mr. Wright answered:

"The American people, that is, the general public, want to see stunts done. They want to see acrobatics in the air, and are not content merely to see a man fly. They want the element of danger brought home to them and are impatient when everything works smoothly and a successful flight is made. Now, it is different abroad. There the common people, the peasants, walk for miles and miles merely on the chance of seeing a man fly, and they feel the poetry of seeing a man navigate the air. They applaud seeing a man-made machine rise from the ground and they realize in a measure the science involved. This seems to be lost on the general American public, who demand more than mere flight and are careless of the scientific viewpoint."

Mr. Wright was very optimistic on the commercial practicability of the aeroplane in the future.

"We already can carry three men in the air," said he, "and there is no reason to doubt that later on machines will be made to accommodate more. That is not desired at present, however, as there is no demand for a machine which can carry more than two men. We do not advise our pupils to fly over cities, for the reason that should their engine stop it would cause a disaster which would hurt aeroplaning, though it might not happen once in a hundred cases."

Asked if he would experiment as a target for the new aeroplane gun recently brought out in Germany, Mr. Wright burst out laughing.

"That's not my way," he said.

Joyce and Banker Young Differ.

Mr. Joyce told Mr. Rand, and later asserted positively in a statement to the newspapers, that in the making of the loan he knew no principal but the Windsor Trust Company. This, he said, he was led to believe by Birmingham, who had acted as loan clerk, and by Vice President Ford. He declared that Broker Clark took him to Birmingham and that Birmingham took him to Ford, with whom the deal was finally closed, under a loan contract that gave the borrower the right to take it up at any time upon the payment of the full interest of $1,500, covering the six months' period for which the loan was to run.

The version of President Young of the trust company is somewhat different on these points. He said to Mr. Nott, and also in his statement to the newspapers, that Clark and Sherwood, Jacob Field's clerk, were brought into the trust company by Kauffman, who explained that each of the pair he introduced had a client in a loan transaction and wanted to use the trust company as a clearing house.

This, according to Mr. Young, the trust company agreed to, and Sherwood announced that the principal for whom he acted was Charles Katz, the President of the Eastern Brewing Company of Brooklyn, while Clark announced that his principal was M. M. Joyce. Mr. Young told the District Attorney's office that Clark told him that he had explained the situation as between the principals to Joyce, and that Joyce understood all the conditions of the loan. On this understanding, according to Mr. Young, there was no detailed discussion with Joyce about the position of the trust company, as this had been made very clear in the talk with Clark.

In his statement of last night Mr. Young laid great stress upon the fact that the form of loan contract was nothing like the contract usually used by banks, and by the Windsor Trust Company among others, which by itself he considered sufficient proof for one familiar with Wall Street practices, that the trust company was not making the loan for its own account. Another circumstance which to Mr. Young's mind differentiated the deal from one in which the trust company might be a principal was the fact that the loan was paid over in currency which Sherwood brought over from his supposed client Katz.

On the other hand Mr. Joyce asserted in his statement that not only was he told that the loan was made by the trust company itself, but that Vice President Ford told him that a condition of making it would be a deposit of the $50,000 and the maintenance of an "average balance." But there was one thing that Mr. Katz did not know about, and to the explanation of which Mr. Young's statement of last night did not run save for the concluding sentence: "Any statement inconsistent with the foregoing facts is denied." That was the commission arrangement. On the loan of $50,000 for six months interest of $1,500 was to be paid, and was deducted from the face of the loan at the time of making it. This "interest" allowance, however, was split up between Kauffman and the trust company, according to the admissions of all parties to Mr. Nott yesterday afternoon. The trust company got $1,000 for "clearing" the transaction and Kauffman got $500. Some of the parties also said that Birmingham got $250 on a split up with Kauffman, but Birmingham denied this yesterday.

In this state matters stood until Mr. Katz was heard from. He denied strenuously to Mr. Nott, and also to the newspaper reporetrs, that he had any connection with the deal whatever or ever met Birmingham until after it had been consummated. Katz stuck to this story in the face of all questions that could be asked him, including inquiries based upon the discovery by Mr. Nott that Katz had for a considerable time made his headquarters in the office occupied by Clark and a young man named Persch, who was formerly in the law office of Carl Fischer-Hansen, the lawyer, who is now serving a term on Blackwell's Island for subornation of perjury.

Traces Heinze Stock to Wall Street.

Leaving the Katz discrepancies necessarily unexplained, Mr. Nott devoted himself yesterday to seeing what became of the stock after the trust company got it. The loan was closed on July 31. The same day Sherwood, Jacob Field's representative, got the stock for his client and took it away. That was the last the trust company knew about the matter until last Saturday, when Mr. Joyce walked into its office at 11:45 and tendered payment of the loan in cash.

Meantime Mr. Joyce had bought back on Aug. 2 or 3 some of the identical stock that he put up as collateral, and thereafter, upon consultation with F. A. Heinze and his attorneys, went to the District Attorney's office to have the investigation started. Mr. Joyce in his statement of yesterday declared that after the loan was originally made Clark came to him and said that the Windsor Trust was willing to lend another $50,000 on the same conditions, but that this was refused. This offer was accompanied also by the assertion that the original securities were still pinned to the note and safely in the possession of the trust company.

It was reported last night that Birmingham would shortly sever his connection with the Windsor Trust Company. Mr. Nott will continue his investigation to-day, and it is understood that Supt. Clark Williams of the State Banking Department is also watching developments closely.

SEEK TO FORCE HEINZES TO PAY.

Counsel for a Creditor Says They Owe $3,000,000—Decision Reserved.

Supreme Court Justice Goff heard argument yesterday on the application of Stephen A. McIntire, counsel for Otto C. Heinze, Arthur P. Heinze, and Max Schultz, to have vacated an order for their examination in supplemental proceedings as to their ability to pay a judgment for $32,353, recovered against them and others, by Anita Howell on Jan. 31, 1907. Decision was reserved.

Former Senator Clarence Lexow, appearing for the judgment creditor, stated that the debts of the firm of Otto C. Heinze & Co., of which the defendants were Directors, amounted to over $3,000,000; and that if $1,000,000 were added to the firm's credit it would not be solvent. Lawyer McIntire denied this, and said that investigation carried on in the Federal Courts had shown the firm had successfully fought off bankruptcy and was therefore solvent. Furthermore, he claimed that the order for the examination of the three defendants had been obtained from Justice Bischoff in violation of an agreement by the terms of which the defendants were to have until May 8, 1910, to pay off the amount of the judgment in question.

Mr. Lexow held that this agreement was not binding upon his client, that the Heinzes had got some of their creditors to take stock in the Western Development Company, one of their companies, in payment of debts, and had offered to pay the judgment in similar stock. He said that such transactions as that "might be in vogue in Montana, but would not receive the sanction of the courts in this State."

COURT CLERKS' SALARIES UP.

Many Increases in 1910 Budget Asked by Kings County Justices.

The clerk of the Board of Estimate received yesterday the request of the Justices of the Kings County Supreme Court for its 1910 budget, about which there is particular interest on account of a decision of the courts, following the cutting down of their budget a year ago, in which it was declared that the Justices could demand such sums as they pleased.

The salary increases, which led to the Board of Estimate's curtailing the appropriation requested last year, are large. A rise of $600 a year is granted to the departmental clerk; two sub-clerks are raised from $3,000 to $3,400, and two others from $3,000 to $3,300. The salaries of other clerks are increased from $2,700 to $3,100, from $2,500 to $2,900, and from $2,000 to $2,600. The salary of the Chief Court Assistant is raised from $2,700 to $3,300, that of the Warden of the Grand Jury from $2,400 to $3,000, three interpreters from $5,400 for all, to $7,500, and the salaries of two county detectives from $2,400 to $3,000.

NEW BANK IN FLATBUSH.

Brooklyn Business Men to Organize an Institution for Savings.

Plans will shortly be submitted to the State Superintendent of Banks for the organization of the Flatbush Savings Bank, which is to be located on Flatbush Avenue, near Church Avenue, Flatbush.

Among the organizers are Lewis H. Losee, Assistant General Manager of the Lawyers Title Company; Dr. Walter B. Gunnison, Principal of Erasmus Hall High School; Harry M. De Mott, assistant cashier of the Mechanics' Bank of Brooklyn; William E. Harmon, Trustee of the People's Trust Company and Chairman of the Brooklyn Board of the Tittle Insurance Company; William D. Buckner, President of the Prospect Park Bank, and Benjamin H. Knowles of the Home Trust Company. Eleven other prominent Brooklyn business men are in the association.

FOUND IN A CELL WITH BROKEN SKULL

Druggist J. P. Paul Removed from Jefferson Market Prison to Bellevue in Dying Condition.

BEATEN, DOCTORS CHARGE

But Jail Attendants Say He Fell While Drunk—Said to be a Friend of Policemen.

A man who is said by the keepers of the Jefferson Market Prison to be John P. Paul, a well-to-do druggist, of 6 Charles Street, was removed from a cell last night and hurried to Bellevue Hospital with a fractured skull, after being held a prisoner since Sunday morning on the charge of intoxication.

Paul, who is believed to have influential friends in the Police Department, and who was visited in the hospital by a well-dressed woman from New Jersey, was not expected to live until morning. The prison authorities said that he had received his injuries in a fall while intoxicated, but Dr. Burke, who examined him expressed the opinion that he had been beaten on the head.

Bellevue Hospital was notified late last night by some one not connected with the Jefferson Market Prison that a man was dying in one of the cells. Dr. Williamson, who responded to the call, found Paul in a stupor, and at first diagnosed the case as alcoholism and a scalp wound. The prison attendants asserted that the man had been taken with a fit, during which he fell down and received the wound on his head. Dr. Williamson, together with Keeper John Megher, transferred the man to Prison Ward 44 in Bellevue.

Paul was arraigned before Magistrate Barlow in the Night Court early Sunday morning and remanded for further examination last night. When he appeared in court Paul was in a weak condition and gave the appearance of being still under the influence of liquor. Magistrate Barlow sent him back to his cell to sober up.

Among those who called at Bellevue last night and made inquiries about Powers was Lieut. Barry of the Williamsburg police. Several Central Office detectives also asked for him.

According to other prisoners, Paul was nervous yesterday, walking up and down inside the inclosure, and thrashing his arms about. Late in the evening he stopped in the middle of his walk and fell to the floor, striking his head.

Keeper Meagher declared that he was informed of the man's fall at once, and that he summoned an ambulance from Bellevue, obeying the regulations imposed upon the prison squad. Meagher did not know the seriousness of Paul's injuries, but sent in the call to Bellevue without delay.

Lightning Causes Death of 3 Miners.

TELLURIDE, Col., Aug. 9.—Lightning struck the Liberty Bell Mine yesterday and indirectly killed three miners who were overcome by the smoke that filled the lower levels of the mine after the lightning had set fire to the buildings at the mine's mouth. Four other miners are in a serious condition. Several were overcome while attempting rescues.

PREVENTABLE BUSINESS FAILURE

A large percentage of business failures would never occur if those responsible knew where they stood from day to day—if wastes and losses and bad policies were clearly revealed before they crippled the business, before they began to approach disaster.

Our service makes provision for such information in every department of a business house—not once or twice a year, but day by day—not involved in a mass of detail, but reduced to the vital, speaking facts.

We solicit the privilege of outlining our methods of work.

TREASURY EMPLOYES FACE A BIG SHAKE-UP

Secretary MacVeagh Gives Orders for Searching Inquiry Into Efficiency of Clerks.

BARS POLITICAL INFLUENCE

Goes on Vacation While His Three Assistants Make Up Records—Thousands of Clerks Tremble.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Several thousand employes of the Treasury Department and the numerous bureaus that come under its control are trembling to-night because of an order given by Secretary MacVeagh, which is calculated to ascertain the actual efficiency of the force. After giving instructions that a thorough investigation be started immediately, the Secretary wisely disappeared from Washington. He has gone on his vacation to his Summer home in Dublin, and so will not be inundated by petitions and complaints from those clerks who fall beneath the standard of excellence. He left the three Assistant Secretaries, with Mr. Norton as their Chairman, to work out the reform.

The inquiry into the clerical force of the Treasury and its component and dependent parts is expected to result in a decided shake-up. Besides the Treasury proper the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the Revenue Cutter Service, the Life Saving Service, and half a dozen other bureaus will be affected. To-morrow or next day blanks will be distributed among these employes, with instructions to answer the questions propounded.

Wide Ground Covered by Questions.

These questions are couched so as to be searching, and if answered correctly will disclose how the clerk entered the service, the date of such entry, the character of his work in the past and in the present, the salary on entering the department and the salary he now enjoys, and from what part of the country he hails. In addition, there are many intimate questions calculated to reveal the entire history of the person. When the clerk has answered all the queries the blank is to be passed upon by the Chief of the division in which he is employed. Each Chief is instructed to note carefully the efficiency ratings of the clerks and to have all the blanks in the hands of Assistant Secretary Norton before the end of the week. These proposed ratings are the bugaboos that have created consternation among the clerks.

The blanks are extremely comprehensive. After propounding the questions touched upon, the real inquisition is found in the following queries to Chiefs of divisions:

> 15. Efficiency: quantity of work, per cent.; quality of work, interest manifested in work.
> 16. Is employe extravagant in use of Government supplies or careless in expenditures?
> 17. Is employe fully earning present salary?
> 18. Leave taken during 1908. Annual, sick; average for past five years.
> 19. Would service be improved if this employe were retired on a civil pension? If so, why?
> 20. Has employe observed the spirit and letter of Executive order of Jan. 26, 1906?
> 21. Remarks.

May Urge Civil Pensions.

Question No. 19 is considered to threaten the reopening of a question that has long vexed the Government. This is the pensioning of Government employes after they have reached a stated age and have been in the Government service a stipulated time. This has raised a storm in Congress several times. The Government clerks are practically without influence at the polls, and their ambitions along this line have been thwarted. Notwithstanding this, Secretary MacVeagh is desirous of getting a full poll of the superannuated employes of his department. What use he will make of the information in advancing the pension idea is known only to himself.

Secretary MacVeagh has also taken steps to rid himself of importunities in behalf of Treasury employes. Many clerks obtained their places through political influence, and in their behalf promotions have been urged, greatly to the annoyance of the officials. When an instance of that kind comes to the notice of the Secretary of the Treasury hereafter the Chief of the Employes' Division will receive a letter, as follows:

> Please say to John Doe that I am confident he is not responsible for the large number of persons visiting the department in the interest of his promotion, because he is doubtless familiar with the Executive order on that subject, of which I inclose copy.

The order in question was issued by former President Roosevelt and forbids employes to use outside influence to gain advancement.

The crusade in the Treasury is part of the general plan to reduce expenses in the various executive departments. Secretary Nagel set the fashion by discharging a number of clerks after a careful investigation into the efficiency of his force, and as a result the output of work in the Department of Commerce and Labor is declared to have nearly doubled. The same plan of campaign is to be carried to still other departments and the heads of practically all are now engaged in privately separating the drones from the workers in preparation for action in the immediate future.

Church Becomes a Synagogue.

Supreme Court Justice Brady gave permission yesterday to the Trustees of the Lenox Avenue Union Church to sell its property at 41 West 119th Street, to the Congregation Mount Zion for $80,000. The proceeds of the sale will be used for the payment of debts and to establish a fund for the erection of a new church property at a location not stated. The petition states that during recent years the neighborhood has been populated with people of the Jewish faith, and it is no longer possible for a Christian church to exist there.

NEW TARIFF RATES NOW IN OPERATION

Assessments Under Payne Act Began Yesterday—Question of Goods in Bond Gives Trouble.

AFFECTS CANADIAN RACING

Ogdensburg Collector Holds Up American Horses, Formerly Admitted Free, Pending Instructions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—This was the first day of the actual working of the Payne Tariff act, according to explanations made at the Treasury Department this afternoon. The new rates went into effect technically at midnight last Thursday, and actually at the opening hour of the Custom Houses at 9 o'clock the next morning, but until official copies of the new law could be forwarded to the Appraisers, assessments continued under the old arrangement, with the understanding that differences should be balanced later.

The official copies of the new law were sent out last Friday morning by the department, and that enabled the Appraisers at the Ports of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and all other Atlantic ports and most of the ports on the Gulf and Great Lakes to begin the new system of appraisements to-day. It is expected that the copies will reach San Francisco to-morrow, and that the new provisions will be applied on the Pacific Coast beginning Wednesday morning.

American Horses Held on Border.

Word has been received here from Ogdensburg N. Y., that customs officers there are awaiting instructions from the Treasury Department on a clause in the new Tariff bill which involves the future of horse racing in Canada. The Canadian tracks depend largely on American-owned thoroughbreds for their sport, and hitherto entries owned in the United States have passed free across the border and back again. Collector Daniel, however, finds no provision in the new law for reentry free of duty of American horses entering Canada for exhibition or racing. His interpretation is that all returning live stock must pay full duties.

Pending the arrival of advices from Washington, several horses consigned to the Montreal race track are held here.

The department as yet has received no returns under the new law, though from the ports where the new rates were put in operation to-day full accounts of receipts will be received to-morrow morning. Then the department will begin the compilation of data from which tables may be later made for comparison, if desired, with the estimates given out by the Senate and House committees. Returns under the new law will also show, said a Treasury Department official to-day, the relative quickness of Customs Appraisers in mastering the numberless details of the new law.

New Law Working Smoothly.

The smooth working of the new law is indicated, in the opinion of the department, by the few telegrams received to-day with interrogations as to particular points. The question of goods in bond is still giving trouble, however, and the department to-day notified officers at New York that hides held in bonded warehouses, though they were stored there while the Dingley rate of 15 per cent. was in effect are no longer subject to duty, and must be released under the free trade provision of the new law.

The same thing applies to Philippine cigars, which to a limit far in excess of the total production of the islands are admitted free. In Seattle vast quantities of the insular cigars had been imported and stored in bond in anticipation of the success of the President's efforts for free trade with the Philippines. These cigars can now be taken out of bond without payment of any duty, and as they are already on the ground it is thought their importers will reap large returns before the general working of the new provisions has had time to allow of general importations under the free list.

But while the Government loses on this construction of the law in regard to articles, the duty on which has been removed or lowered by the Payne law, it gains wherever bonded articles have come under a higher rate. Thus if any unwary importer left wines or spirituous liquors in bond after Thursday night, he will find himself debited to the full amount of the present tariff rates. The same thing is true of silks and many other articles here and there.

As a matter of fact, however, the department is aware that most of the articles subject to increases of duty importations have been rushed in to the country in the last month or two, and it is doubted that the Government will gain by increases in duty for some time to come. It was said at the Treasury to-day that estimates showed that sparkling wines had been imported in quantities sufficient to last the country for a year or more, and the few incoming ships that were caught by the early closing of the New York Custom House on Thursday afternoon were simply the last of a steady line of vessels that have been bringing in under pressure the articles on which will fall the burden of Mr. Aldrich's revision upward.

Secretary MacVeagh left Washington to-day for his vacation at Durham, N. H. That leaves Assistant Secretary Reynolds in charge of the initial work of the new tariff law, and gives him a heavy responsibility in regard to its smooth inauguration. Mr. Reynolds is optimistic about the work ahead of him, however, and anticipates no great difficulties.

Philippine Provisions of Bill.

To-morrow instructions will be sent out to Custom Houses, especially those on the Pacific Coast, in regard to the Philippine provisions of the bill. These provisions are absolute free trade between the islands and the United States, except that a limit is fixed on the importations of sugar and cigars. The instructions will deal chiefly with the registering of the imports of these two articles, with a view to having statistics on hand, but it is known that the limit can be reached under no circumstances for several years to come.

One phase of the Philippine provisions that bids fair to cause some confusion is that allowing to be classed as manufactures of Philippine material all manufactures from the islands containing not more than 20 per cent. of foreign matter. The regulations to be sent out to-morrow will prescribe methods of identification, and also prescribe certificates that must be filled out at the ports of shipment in the islands in regard to the amount of sugar and cigars consigned to this country.

CHEAP NEW TARIFF CIGARS.

Perfectos at Five Cents Already Here from the Philippines.

You can buy a first-rate cigar now for 3 or 5 cents, according as you prefer a panatella or perfecto. This may be hard for connoisseurs to believe, but they have only to ask older smokers, for confirmation, who knew the manila in the old days before the tariff became practically prohibitive.

This is the result of the new Tariff bill, which allows the importation free of duty of 150,000,000 manilas a year, which hitherto could not be imported at all without the payment of practically 8½ cents duty on each cigar; and ever since these cigars have been on sale in the United Cigar Stores Company's stores—that is, since Saturday morning—there has been a steady rush for them of people who have smoked them in the Philippines or in the old days here.

This company, which has made exclusive importation agreements with seven factories in the Philippines, put on sale Saturday 450,000 of these manilas in two shapes, panatellas for 3 cents apiece, and perfectos, La Flora de la Isabella, and Germinal, for 5 cents each. By nighttime there was practically none at all left.

There are still in the Custom House more than half a million more of these cigars, which are being distributed to the stores as fast as they are stamped; and as quickly as they can be packed and sent over from the Philippines 24,000,000 more are coming at the rate of 2,000,000 a month. That is the number the company contracted for this year, and the reason it contracted for no more was because the Philippines could supply no more with the present labor facilities there.

Edward Wise, Vice President of the company, said of these new cigars yesterday: "They are as fine as cigars made in Havana which sell at five times the price. They are made by Spanish hand work, like the Havanas. In my opinion, they will be very popular, because of the fine workmanship that produced them, their low price, and because they are suited to the American taste—the tobacco is mild and aromatic."

Mr. Wise went to the Philippines in May to make arrangements, anticipating that the tariff would turn out as it did.

In the Philippines they have been making tobacco and cigars for a couple of centuries, but for one century the Spanish Government had a monopoly of the industry. The reason it has not thriven greatly since then was due entirely to protective tariffs, for the fields there are more fertile than the Cuban ones, and the cost of living is so cheap that cigarmakers are paid but a sixth as much as those in Cuba.

Yet it will be five years, at the earliest, according to Mr. Wise, before the Philippines will be able to export to this country the 150,000,000 cigars they may bring in free under the new tariff; beyond that number they will have to pay the old duty of 8½ cents.

Three varieties will soon be on sale, all of the same quality of tobacco, the highest of the three grades grown, Ysabella. There will be the three-cent panatella, the five-cent perfecto, and a smaller cigar sold at ten for 25 cents. Mr. Wise did not think that this new low-priced cigar would necessitate any great readjustment in the tobacco business.

"Last year," he said, "which was not a particularly good year, either, there were manufactured for the United States 7,783,311,453 cigars; compared with that the whole 150,000,000, if we could get them from the Philippines, would be but a drop in the bucket."

KINKS IN THE TARIFF.

Local Customs Men Busy Trying to Decide How to Apply the New Law.

The real hard work in connection with the operation of the new tariff schedules has now begun at the Custom House. The legal division is going over the new law paragraph by paragraph and handing down opinions to the heads of the various departments as to how the work is to be done. It is considered probable that when it comes to enforcing the law there will be more than one legal suit, and certain cases will be appealed to the Secretary of the Treasury for interpretation. Already several snags have been struck, and in many cases there is a difference of opinion as to the exact meaning of certain sections of the new law.

The section of the law that refers to the taxing of foreign yachts is the principal one that is making trouble for the official departmental legal lights. The law provides that there shall be collected annually on Sept. 1 by the Customs Collector of the district nearest the residence of the managing owner, upon the use of every foreign-built yacht, pleasure boat, or vessel not to be used for trade, now or hereafter owned or chartered for more than six months by any citizen of the United States, a sum equivalent to a tonnage tax of $7 per gross ton. As an alternative to this annual tax the owner of a foreign-built craft may pay a duty of 35 per cent. ad valorem, secure American registry, and have his vessel exempt from further tax.

Just what this means in law cannot be figured out, it is said, and the local authorities will write to Washington for instructions. It was pointed out that as the law apparently refers to citizens of the United States, the question arises, Would there not be a loophole if a foreigner chartered a yacht and allowed an American to use it without charter or for a money consideration? This is only a supposition, the local officials say, but the whole section is a difficult one to apply, and Washington is to be consulted at once for an opinion.

Those who seek to find strange kinks in the law declare that the Government is annually a loser to the amount of possibly over a million dollars a year because of the failure of incoming passengers to declare the trunks and bags they have purchased abroad. These are dutiable under the law, and yet trunks and other articles for containing passenger baggage are brought in and pass the Inspectors without, save in rare cases, the collection of duty upon them.

"Smuggling under the eyes of the Government officials," is the way a customs man spoke of the matter yesterday. Nearly everybody who goes abroad purchases at least one trunk. Very few persons ever declare such an article in their lists of foreign purchases, and trunks come on the piers, are examined, and passed without the question of the duty on the trunks being raised.

Under the new tariff law as under the old there is a duty of 35 per cent. on trunks. It is probable that this phase of the tariff will now be given consideration by those who enforce the collection of revenue.

"It is hard to estimate the loss to the Government by the free entry of foreign-made trunks and bags," said an official. "It must be enormous when one considers the many ports of entry in this country. Take at this port in the busy season when thousands of passengers land here each day. Everybody brings home trunks purchased abroad, and such purchases are not exempt under the $100 limit either. It is safe to say that the customs receipts at this port would be greatly swelled if each trunk coming under the tariff law was assessed as the law requires."

There promises to be an unprecedented rush of Cuban sugar to this port within the next few weeks. There has been a very large crop of sugar in Cuba, but with the tariff agitation the shipments fell off. This was because the sugar men were waiting for the lowering of the rate on unrefined sugar. Now that the Tariff bill has been passed they are expected to begin rushing their sugar to market. The steamer Mercedes de Larrinaga has arrived in port with 44,307 bags of raw sugar. This is the largest sugar cargo that has arrived here in years.

THANKS FOR TAFT FROM PHILIPPINES

Told That Obstacles to Archipelago's Prosperity Are Removed by Passage of the Tariff Bill.

LOSES AT GOLF ON HOT DAY

Mr. Taft Tells How His Enthusiasm as a Yachtsman Waned After a Trying Experience Off Shelter Island.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 9.—President Taft to-day received from the Philippines a message of congratulation and thanks for his efforts in securing the passage of the Philippine Tariff bill. The President often has referred to this tariff bill as his pet project and is as deeply gratified over its enactment by Congress as any resident of the Far Eastern Archipelago. The message of congratulation came from Acting Gov. Forbes at Manila and the President sent a gracious reply. The exchanging of messages was:

> Manila, P. I., Aug. 9, 1909.
>
> The President,
> Washington, D. C.
>
> The Philippine Commission wishes to express their thanks and appreciation on the success of the years of devoted effort which has resulted in the supreme achievement of Aug. 5 which opens the markets of the United States to the Philippine people.
>
> Allow me to add my personal congratulations. The obstacles to Philippine prosperity are now removed, and we, your representatives here, will try to do our part in turning the privileges conceded to the greatest advantage to the Philippines.
>
> FORBES,
> Acting Governor General.

To this message the President has replied as follows:

> Forbes, Manila, P. I.
>
> I thank you and the commission for your expression of congratulation on the passage of the Philippine section of the new Tariff bill. It is a culmination of our united efforts which I am confident will result in great benefit to the Philippines and the people of the islands.
>
> WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Knox to Form Far Eastern Bureau.

President Taft has left entirely in the hands of Secretary of State Knox the formation of the Far Eastern Bureau of the State Department, recently authorized by Congress. Mr. Knox will cast about for a suitable head to this important branch of the service and the President will approve his choice.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer will visit Beverly some time next week. He is now in Canada. Mr. Meyer may take up with the President several matters affecting the Navy Department, but any recommendations based upon the report of the Sperry board or touching the reorganization of the department unquestionably will be left for the late Fall, when the President returns to Washington.

Secretary Carpenter to-day replied to many requests for additional stops on the President's long Southern and Western trip, to the effect that the itinerary is closed and that no additional invitations can possibly be considered.

The President to-day sent the following message to the Irrigation Congress at Spokane:

> Beverly, Mass., Aug. 9, 1909.
>
> George E. Barstow, President Seventeenth National Irrigation Congress, Spokane, Wash.:
>
> I greatly regret that I am not able to be present to hear the discussion and get the benefit of your deliberations. I have the deepest sympathy with the general object of the National Irrigation Congress, and you can count on my earnest endeavor to further the cause of reclamation by irrigation in every part of the country within the jurisdiction of the Federal Government.

> WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Tells His Yachting Experience.

President Taft sat on the broad veranda of his Summer cottage this afternoon overlooking Salem Bay and the open waters of the ocean lying beyond the rocks of Marblehead. Off the Marblehead shore scores of small yachts had spread their white sails to the breeze. It is Marblehead race week, and in addition to the daily regattas the bay is dotted with tidy little sonder class yachts that are in preparation for the race for the German Emperor's Cup.

It was an inviting day on the water, and Mr. Taft was asked if he were interested in yachting. The question brought a reminiscent smile, and he declared he had once been an enthusiast, but had lost interest after a very bitter experience many years ago off Shelter Island.

The President said he was spending a Summer along the Long Island shore, and one day at Shelter Island was shipped as a member of a yacht's crew. The President said he had the duty of hauling in and letting out the mainsail.

"The sheet, you mean, Mr. President," suggested one of the more nautical of the interviewers. Mr. Taft replied that he supposed that was it. "Anyway, after hauling her in and letting her out," several times, the President said the "sheet line" got tangled while the yacht was "turning around," or "coming about," the sail got to flapping, the rope cut his hand, and finally slipped through the block, the boom swung violently around, the rigging gave way, and the future President of the United States was put ashore as a hopeless landlubber.

The President likes the sea, but wants the firm decks of a big liner beneath him. He declared to-day that Charley Taft, his younger son, with his little North Shore sailing dory, would attend to the aquatic part of the Summer for the entire family. Although the naval yacht Sylph is lying in the bay at the President's disposal, he does not intend to make any particular use of it.

President Again on the Links.

Mr. Taft played golf to-day on the links of the Essex County Club, near Manchester. The day was again exceedingly warm and Mr. Taft was not up to his usual standard. The course was entirely strange, too, so it was little wonder that at the end of a spirited foursome the Chief Magistrate, playing with John Hays Hammond as a partner, was 3 or 4 down to Gen. Albert Ames of Massachusetts and W. J. Boardman of Washington. The President wasn't sure himself at the end of the game whether the victors had won by 3 or 4 holes. But he and Mr. Hammond declared a vendetta this afternoon, and on Wednesday morning they will go after Gen. Ames and Mr. Boardman again over the same links. To-morrow morning the President and Mr. Hammond are going to play a match round at Myopia.

The President had not determined this afternoon which of the two links he liked the better—Myopia or Essex. He will confine himself probably throughout his stay to these two courses, saying that if he manages to learn them well enough to get into speaking distance with Gen. Bogey he will be satisfied with his vacation's work with the sticks.

This afternoon the President had a visit from the former Minister from the Netherlands, Mr. Van Swinderen. The diplomat came all the way from New York to bid Mr. Taft good-bye. He is sailing for home in a few days, having relinquished his post at Washington some time ago.

Secretary Carpenter began his daily morning visits to the Presidental cottage this morning. Mr. Carpenter attends to most of the detail of correspondence himself at the executive offices and will take up with the President only matters of first importance.

Already the President's mail is filled with invitations to visit nearby places along the North Shore and in neighboring States of Maine and New Hampshire. Few, if any of these, will be accepted.

HELD UP AND SHOT.

Robbers Overlooked a $20 Bill and Were Angry at Finding Only 15 Cents.

Because two highwaymen found only 15 cents in the pockets of E. La Barberi, an Italian baker, when they held him up early yesterday morning in South Columbus Avenue, near Wolf's Lane, Mount Vernon, they fired two shots at their victim and left him for dead.

The shots penetrated the baker's hip and passed through a twenty-dollar bill in his hip pocket, which the robbers had failed to discover when they searched him. The baker drove to Mount Vernon to notify the police, and then went to the hospital.

Two years ago the baker was attacked by two Black Hand agents in his store, who demanded $1,000 from him. He fired on them with a shotgun, and nearly killed them both. He believes that the blackmailers are now seeking revenge.

COX TO BE TRIED IN IRELAND.

Begins Return Trip After Fighting Extradition for Two Years.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—After a two years' fight against extradition Patrick Cox to-day began his return trip to Ireland to face trial on a charge of killing Edward Murray of Mayo County. He was accompanied by two Deputy United States Marshals, who will turn him over to an officer of the British constabulary at New York.

Cox, Murray, and a number of companions had attended a wake near Rossport, and on their way home had become engaged in a dispute. Cox, it is alleged, attacked Murray with a stick. Murray apparently recovered from the attack and Cox was convicted and fined for assault and battery. Later Murray died, supposedly from the effects of the beating by Cox, who immediately fled the country.

Cox was arrested in Chicago in July, 1907, and had been in jail here since that time. A number of Irish societies of this city became interested in the case, and through their intervention the British Government finally agreed to dismiss the charge of murder against Cox if he would return and stand trial on a charge of manslaughter.

Exquisite Lingerie Dresses and Waists That Are the Styles TO-DAY in Paris.

TAKE SUBWAY TO A. & S. STATION AT HOYT ST.

THE LAST WORD IN LINGERIE WEAR are these beautiful hand-made Dresses and Waists just received from our representative in Paris. Simultaneous with their appearance in Paris they are offered to the women of this city as an exemplification of the styles of the present day, worn by the fashionable women of France at the famous seaside resorts that are pictured in the society papers of the Continent as the dressiest, fashion-defining places of the world.

THE LINGERIE DRESSES are of that inimitably beautiful character possessed by the hand-made apparel of Paris. They are of French batiste of unusually fine quality, trimmed with pin tucks that are so exclusively and unmistakably French, with hand embroideries, thread lace, Valenciennes lace, baby Irish—a simply superb collection quite beyond that ordinarily seen in the American stores and having the unusual advantage here of being comparatively very low-priced—hardly more than half, in fact, the price usually charged for such high-grade, imported articles of dress. Women will appreciate the new touch in the very effective new puff on the sleeves and other up-to-date touches.

The prices on the LINGERIE DRESSES range from $19.98 to $42.50.

THE WAISTS are also hand made, possessing the daintiest touch of the Persian experts, and the prices run the range from a daintily hand-made Waist at $4.98 to a fascinatingly beautiful creation for $27.50. The more elaborate types are of crepe and marquisette, trimmed with daintiest of baby Irish, real Cluny and exquisite hand embroidery. Among the Waists are these following examples of really remarkable value:

At $4.98, HAND MADE LINGERIE WAISTS.
Dainty yoke of fine Valenciennes and hand embroidery in several neat designs—pin tucking on either side of yoke and back. Shoulder seam and cuffs separated with fine beading—new sleeves—collar of tucking and lace, finished with knife plaiting at top.

At $5.98, HAND MADE LINGERIE WAISTS.
Three very attractive and fine quality models in fine French batiste. One particularly effective model has fancy yoke back and front embroidered in dainty daisy and scroll design, with insertions of French Val. trimming the bottom of yoke. All have new sleeves with either pin tucking or lace inserting—very pretty lace collar.

The Great August Furniture Sale.

TAKE SUBWAY TO A. & S. STATION AT HOYT ST.

Every day since the opening of this great August event an extraordinary increase in business has been shown over any corresponding day in our history. The reason has been ACTUAL VALUE GIVING.

The many visitors who have shopped in other stores and BOUGHT HERE have been remarkably corroborative of that fact. They frequently inform us that our REGULAR PRICES have been quoted by other stores as "unusual reductions." They tell us the many attempts to imitate some of the special features of the Sale, an evidence of how this Store LEADS IN LOW PRICING.

IT IS NOT ACCIDENT, not good luck, not mere chance, that brought to Abraham and Straus the biggest business ever done in the Summer time. It has been constant, true, solid satisfaction giving in a splendid series of SUPERIOR Sales.

CHINA DID NOT WANT NEW MILITARY LINE

Saw in Japan's Antung-Mukden Railway Plans Another Foreign Barrier Across Manchuria.

ADMITS SHE IS HELPLESS

England's Support of Japanese Coercion Has Made a Deep Impression on Chinese Statesmen.

PEKING, Aug. 9.—The Chinese Foreign Board and the Grand Council have been in consecutive conference with Prince Chun, the Regent, on the Japanese situation since the issuance of Japan's note announcing her intention of proceeding immediately with the reconstruction of the Antung-Mukden Railroad without China's co-operation. Liang Tun-yen, the President of the Board of Foreign Affairs, was received in audience by the Prince Regent yesterday and to-day.

The Regent showed great anxiety at Japan's attitude of coercion, which was supported by Great Britain, and he urged that the Foreign Board accelerate a settlement of the question, in order not to provoke Japanese violence.

It has been learned that the report from Tokio that China had withdrawn her objections is correct in so far as that she has virtually unconditionally conceded Japan's demand that the railroad be made of standard gauge and is willing to accept any reasonable compromise. China, however, is debarred from giving a treaty consent on account of Japan's suspicious attitude in forcing the gauge question, in claiming for the Antung line advantages existing on the South Manchurian Railroad, and through her refusal to negotiate the latter question. Japan insisted on postponing consideration of the South Manchurian line question until the Antung-Mukden Railroad was reconstructed.

China does not object to the expansion of the Antung-Mukden Railway commercially, but she does oppose a Japanese military strategic enterprise ending in another foreign military and commercial barrier across Manchuria.

China, in her formal reply to Japan's note announcing the latter's intention of reconstructing the Antung-Mukden Railroad, offered to waive her objection to the road being made of standard gauge, provided Japan waived her claim to the policing of the railway, as well as her mining and other privileges in the region which, if granted, China declared, would place the railroad on a similar political and economical basis with some railways formerly granted to Russia. However, the note said, if Japan was determined to go ahead with the reconstruction of the road, China was defenseless.

Japan's answer to this reply will determine whether and when the negotiations regarding the railroad, which heretofore have been conducted at Mukden, will be taken up between Baron Ijuin, the Japanese Minister at Peking, and the Chinese Foreign Board.

Great Britain's support of Japan has made a deep impression on Chinese statesmen, who point out that Great Britain's attitude developed simultaneously with the war scare in Europe. Extreme pessimism prevails in Government circles. High officials say that as Japan has the British support she supposes that she can do what she likes.

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—A request that Japan suspend work on the Antung-Mukden Railway in Manchuria is the substance of China's reply to Japan's recent note announcing immediate commencement of reconstruction work on the road. The reply, issued by the Foreign Office to-day, states that China wishes to continue the negotiations. China adds that she hopes for an amicable settlement of all outstanding differences.

Japan's reply to this request was polite but firm. It was made plain that the negotiations concerning the Antung-Mukden Road had been closed forever in so far as they related to that section of road between Mukden and Che-Siang-Tun, and that it would not be necessary to suspend work to reach an agreement upon that one strip.

Regarding all other matters, the reply continues, Japan will proceed with pleasure.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Leaving some questions pertaining to jurisdiction to be discussed later, China has manifested a willingness to yield to the demands of Japan in the matter of the reconstruction of the Antung-Mukden Railway, according to advices to the State Department from Henry P. Fletcher, the American Chargé at Peking.

China's action indicates that she has been brought to realize that the regauging of the road is necessary in order that the tracks may conform to those of other railroads and to make them of practicable use in commercial traffic. The jurisdiction of questions which are to be further considered is evidently such as China considers not settled by the conventional agreement between the two countries.

ROOSEVELT OFF FOR NYERI.

Ex-President, with Kermit, Goes Into Masai Country—More Specimens.

NAIVASHA, British East Africa, Aug. 9.—Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt and his son Kermit, accompanied by Edmund Heller, the zoologist of the Roosevelt expedition; E. J. Cuninghame, the British field naturalist, and Leslie A. Tarlton of Nairobi, left here at 8 o'clock this morning for Nyeri, a Government station in the Northwest of Kenia Province.

Major Edgar A. Mearns and J. Allen Loring, the other members of the Roosevelt party, will leave here Wednesday for Nairobi, where they will make preparations for an ascent of Mount Kenia, an extinct volcano to the north of Nairobi.

A second consignment of specimens collected by the expedition will be shipped to the United States on the steamer Admiral, which leaves Mombasa Aug. 16.

Nyeri is an important trade centre of British East Africa. India bazaars have been established there, and native markets and a small colony of coast traders. The neighborhood is the headquarters of the Masai tribe, warlike nomads who inhabit the Northwestern plain of Kenia Province.

The snow-capped Mount Nenia, which Major Mearns and Prof. Loring are to ascend, is an extinct volcano without a crater. It is also called Kinaja-kegnia, and is about 17,200 feet in height. It was ascended for the first time by Mackinder in 1899. The mountain supports numerous glaciers, and its timber line is 10,300 feet up.

KAISER DECORATES ELIOT.

Harvard's President Emeritus Gets Crown Order of First Class.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—The Kaiser to-day conferred the Crown Order of the First Class on Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, and M. Yamaoutchi of Japan; the Crown Order of the Second Class on Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke, director of the Metropolitan Museum of New York, and Hugo Reisinger of New York, and the Red Eagle of the Third Class on Edward Robinson of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The last three decorations were given in recognition of the services of the recipients in connection with the exhibition of modern paintings at the Metropolitan Museum during January and February of this year.

STOCKHOLM PAPERS SUSPEND

Printers' Strike Stops All But Trade Union Organ—King Drives Unescorted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 9.—All the newspapers here to-day take a temporary leave of the readers, stating that in consequence of the printers' strike they are unable to appear for some time.

The burden of their articles on the subject is that the labor party by forcing the printers to a breach of contract has made of a struggle between employers and employed on a question of wages a war against society. Society, the newspapers say, is quite able to defend itself, and attempts to throw it into darkness physically and morally will be frustrated.

The towns are lighted in spite of the strike of the men at the gas and electricity works, and the public will be kept informed of the course of events notwithstanding the non-appearance of newspapers.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 9.—The streets of Stockholm to-day presented a livelier aspect than on any day since the general strike began. Many carts and street cars were to be seen in spite of the threats of the strikers that they would stop all traffic. King Gustave, without an escort, drove through the city to-day, passing before the strikers' headquarters.

The gas and electric plants are working without interruption, and to-night it seems doubtful whether the employes of the railroads will go out, as it was threatened they would, Aug. 11. Moreover, rumors are again in circulation concerning a probable collapse of the strike, the workmen being dissatisfied with the speeches and the methods employed by their leaders in carrying it on. In many cases the men are refusing to obey the orders to go out. In any case, the strike fund is not strong enough to support the men longer than a fortnight without causing great distress.

The compositors struck this evening, but the walkout of the printers will not become general, as some of the provincial unions are refusing to break their contracts with employers.

As a result of the refusal of the news vendors to distribute the editions of journals not having Socialistic tendencies, the only newspaper which will appear in this city to-morrow will be the organ of the trades unions, The Answer.

Twenty strikers were arrested to-day at Vesteras, sixty miles northwest of Stockholm, for attempting to compel agricultural laborers to leave their work.

The Farmers' Association to-day appealed to citizens of all classes to help them save the cereal crop, the harvesting of which is prevented by the strike of farm hands. The Government supplemented this appeal by offering police protection to all persons assisting in the harvest. Not only were the street cars running on time in the capital, but on all lines to Gothenburg, a seaport and the scond most important Swedish town, the cars were running also, the strikers having been replaced by strikebreakers.

It was announced here to-day that a delegate of the Central Federation of Trade Unions, named Tholin, will leave Stockholm shortly for the United States for the purpose of collecting contributions for the strike fund from Swedish-Americans.

NEW CHINA LOAN CONFERENCE

Representatives of Parties to Meet in Peking for Conference.

PEKING, Aug. 9.—As a result of the modifications made by the European bankers in their stand with regard to the negotiations for the Hankow-Sze-chuen loan and upon representations made by Henry P. Fletcher, the American Chargé d'Affaires here that America was willing to modify her position, a conference will be held early this week between the European financiers, Mr. Fletcher, and Liang Tun-yen, President of the Board of Foreign Affairs.

The arrangement for the conference followed a consultation between the European bankers and the Chinese Foreign Board of Saturday and a meeting between Liang Tun-yen and Mr. Fletcher yesterday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Settlement of the Chinese loan question is in sight, according to advices reaching the State Department to-day. The department is holding aloof from the negotiations since it insured to American financiers a share of the railroad loan that British, German, and French bankers had all but completed. It is keeping an eye on the progress of affairs, however, and it was announced to-day that everything points to an early settlement of the matter.

According to a high official, the question now being discussed does not deal with the amount of money that each group of bankers is to be permitted to loan, but with allied concessions. These deal with the proportion of machinery for the construction of the road and its equipment to be furnished by each of the four countries, the apportionment of the work of surveying and building, and one or two other matters of a similar nature. It is understood that the American financial syndicate is insistent that there shall be an equal division of everything.

America would like to have one of her citizens as chief engineer of one of the lines of railway to be constructed, and so would, no doubt, the European nations be glad to name a man for such an important position.

The indication now is that the total loan to be placed by China will aggregate $30,000,000, an increase of $2,500,000 over that originally contemplated, and will be shared equally by Germany, France, Great Britain, and the United States.

The State Department is encouraged by the fact that the negotiations are proceeding in complete amity. The discontent shown by the three powers on the entrance of the American financiers in the loan at the twelfth hour has apparently given way to a general desire to co-operate.

RUSSIA PROTESTS TO CHINA.

Says Collection of Customs at Aigun Is in Violation of Treaties.

PEKING, Aug. 9.—Russia has filed a protest with the Chinese Foreign Board objecting to the collection of customs at Aigun, on the Amur River.

Russia asserts that the collection of customs at this point constitutes a violation of the treaties of Aigun and St. Petersburg.

MANUEL'S ENGLISH VISIT.

Portuguese King Will Sail Nov. 20 on Yacht Escorted by Warships.

LISBON, Aug. 9.—According to the official arrangements for King Manuel's foreign tour next Winter, his Majesty will leave here for England Nov. 20 on board Queen Amelie's yacht, Sea Royal, escorted by the Portuguese cruiser Dom Carlos I. and a squadron of British warships.

After leaving England King Manuel will spend eight days in Paris and three days at Madrid. No mention is made in the programme of a visit to Germany.

MRS. ROOSEVELT IN PARIS.

With Ethel, Archie, and Quentin, Met at Station by Embassy Staff.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Archie and Quentin and Miss Ethel Roosevelt arrived here this evening from Avignon.

The party was met at the Lyons station by Arthur Bailly-Blanchard, Second Secretary, and Commander Chapin and Capt. Guignard, respectively Naval and Military Attachés of the American Embassy, who escorted them in the Embassy automobile to the apartment in which they will reside during their stay in Paris.

W. A. Rublee Recovered.

VIENNA, Aug. 9.—William A. Rublee of Milwaukee, the retiring American Consul General here, who was operated on last month for stomach trouble, to-day left the sanitarium cured. Mr. Rublee will stay in Vienna for a few weeks so as to fully regain his strength before proceeding to Hongkong, where he has been appointed American Consul.

GREECE SAYS POWERS HOLD FATE OF CRETE

Protest to Turkey Against Complaints and Declaration for Continued Peace.

CRETE LOWERS GREEK FLAG

Danger of Immediate Conflict Thus Avoided—Austria and Germany to Support Peace Programme.

ATHENS, Aug. 9.—The Greek Government to-day handed to the Turkish Minister a formal reply to the Porte's note of several days ago, which asked Greece to express her disapproval of the annexation agitation in Crete and to declare formally that she had no ambitions regarding the island.

The reply is a long document. It protests formally against the complaints contained in the Turkish note and gives instances of Greece's constant endeavors to maintain frank and friendly relations with Turkey and to draw closer the bonds uniting the two countries. It recalls the enthusiasm with which the Greek element in Turkey worked for the triumph of the constitutional régime there and points out that had Greece cherished the designs attributed to her she would have tried to profit by the trials and difficulties against which the new Turkish Government has been contending. Instead, the note declares, Greece has done and still wishes to do all in her power for the appeasement of Turkey and for peace.

As to the Cretan question, the note continues, the Turkish Government itself has several times had occasion to proclaim that the conduct of Greece has been frank and loyal, but declares it would be beyond her lawful capacity or powers for Greece to make an announcement respecting the future of Crete, which matter rests entirely with the protecting powers, to whose decision Greece must conform.

The note repeats the assurance that Greece, being in no way implicated in the annexationist movement in Crete, will preserve the same correct and loyal attitude as in the past, and in conclusion says:

"We trust that these frank explanations will dissipate all misunderstandings and help to inaugurate an era of cordial and loyal relations between the two countries and to their mutual advantage."

CANEA, Island of Crete, Aug. 9.—The Greek flag, which was run up over the fortress and the Cretan military barracks here July 27, the day following the evacuation of the island by the international troops, was lowered to-day as a result of the protests of the four protecting powers.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—The Greek note in reply to Turkey's representations is interpreted here as tantamount to a refusal on Greece's part to renounce Crete, while at the same time she refers Turkey to the protecting powers in whose hands thereafter the settlement of the question will lie.

Thus the danger of an immediate conflict will probably be averted, as Turkey will have no grounds for attack while the matter is under discussion by the powers. In the meantime Germany and Austria, which have heretofore exercised their influence in favor of peace both at Athens and at Constantinople, will take no further action, as they are not directly interested. Should, however, the protective powers make any proposition tending toward a peaceful issue, Germany and Austria will offer their fullest support.

VIENNA, Aug. 9.—The Austrian Ambassador at Constantinople has been actively intervening to prevent the Cretan crisis from reaching a more acute phase. The Greek Government appears to have solicited the good offices of Austria, and the latter has instructed her Ambassador at Constantinople to represent to the Porte that any action threatening the disturbance of peace will result in alienating the sympathies of the four protecting powers.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—It is declared here that the French Government will recommend that the powers take up negotiations with Turkey for a definite settlement of the status of Crete and all questions relating thereto.

HARRIMAN LINE ENJOINED.

Federal Court Protects Right of Way of Oregon Trunk Railroad.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 9.—The Federal Government has intervened in the contest in the Deschutes Country between the Harriman interests and Porter Brothers, contractors for the Oregon Trunk Railway.

A restraining order was issued to-day by Federal Judge Wolverton, forbidding the Harriman interests from entering on the southern sixty miles of the Oregon Trunk right of way, between Madras and the mouth of White Creek. This injunction will be in force until Aug. 13.

Hills Off for Vacation.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—Dr. David Jayne Hill, the American Ambassador here, and Mrs. Hill left here to-day for Bad Wildungen for a short sojourn.

FEAR BOLIVIA SEEKS WAR.

Diplomats in Washington Think She Seeks an Outlet to Ocean.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Is Bolivia seeking a pretense to bring on a war with Peru?

This question is being asked—seriously, too—by South American diplomats who are watching every development in the situation in which Argentina, Bolivia, and Peru are directly interested, and Chile and Brazil indirectly. Some of the diplomats profess to think that the excitement in Bolivia over the Argentine award, which was favorable to Peru, is really a blind on the part of the politicians there to bring about an armed conflict with Peru, nominally to secure a more satisfactory adjustment of the boundaries of the disputed tract, but actually aimed at territorial conquest.

Bolivia has no sea coast. A successful war with Peru might give her an outlet to the sea by securing, as an indemnity, Moque Gua Province, the southernmost in Peru, and adjoining the Chilean frontier. In that province is the harbor of Ilo, at the mouth of the river of that name. The harbor is said to be an excellent one, and its acquisition by Bolivia would be of great advantage to her.

Much depends on the attitude to be assumed by the Bolivian Congress which opened its sessions Saturday. If Argentina's award is accepted, that should prevent further trouble. If, on the contrary, Bolivia refuses to abide by that decision and proceeds to occupy the disputed territory, serious trouble is ahead.

Chile's probable attitude in the event of hostilities between Bolivia and Peru is also being discussed with much animation. Her financiers have been spending considerable sums in the work of railroad construction in Bolivia, and the popular sympathies are believed to be with that country. Chile's unfriendliness to Peru dates back to the Chilean-Peruvian war of a quarter of a century ago.

NEW CITY PIERS TOO SHORT.

Government Keeps Them Within 820-Foot Limit—Hard on Liners.

Dock Commissioner Spooner said yesterday that it had been definitely decided by the Secretary of War that the city piers along the North River, which are now nearing completion, could not be extended beyond their present length. The longest pier is 820 feet. The Secretary said in answer to the appeals made on behalf of the White Star Line that the city had encroached quite enough on the Hudson River front and the further extension of the piers would deflect the tide and be a hindrance to navigation.

The new White Star liners Olympic and Titanic, which are 860 feet long and 92 feet beam, will, therefore, project out from forty to sixty feet into the river, according to the pier they use. This will prove a serious problem in the Winter time, it is said, when the tide runs strong from two to three miles an hour and piles the ice up against their huge sterns. The White Star officials admit the possible strain that may be put on the moorings of the two great liners, but say that the only way to meet the difficulty is to wait the arrival of the ships and then watch developments.

Commissioner Spooner pointed out yesterday that there would be ample room for the Olympic and Titanic to dock comfortably in South Brooklyn, where new piers are being constructed which will be 1,600 feet long. He added that if the White Star Line applied for one of these piers in time there would be no difficulty in its getting one from the city. These piers are a part of what is called the South Brooklyn improvement plan, and are located between Twenty-eighth and Thirty-sixth Streets.

The Lusitania and Mauretania of the Cunard Line were practically the limit of pier accommodations of the Hudson River. In the Winter of 1908 the Lusitania broke adrift from her moorings owing to the high wind, and ice piled against her stern and did considerable damage.

KID REGAN OUT ON $3,500 BAIL

He Is Accused of Four-Year-Old Manslaughter and Evidence Is Lacking.

Peter Regan, for years known as "Kid" Regan, who has been in the Tombs since Jan. 25 on a charge of manslaughter, was released yesterday by Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions in $3,500 bail. Assistant District Attorney Ely said that he would be unable to try the case before the Winter, owing to the difficulty in getting evidence.

Regan is accused of killing Roy Walter Joyce, a bartender in a saloon in West Thirty-first Street, known as the "Barrel," on April 13, 1905, in a quarrel over a woman. Joyce was stabbed repeatedly and died. Six men were arrested at the time, but all were released, and a search for Regan was begun.

Linen Company to Extend Its Plant.

NORTH BROOKFIELD, Mass., Aug. 9.—It was announced to-day that an industry which will probably be the largest in this town, giving employment to 4,500 hands, will be started next Spring by the Oxford Linen Mills Company as an enlargement of the present plant of the company. Besides three buildings already in the process of construction, the plant will include a building 700 feet long and 120 feet wide and four stories high, and another 600 feet long by 80 feet wide and of the same height.

The issue of Preferred Stock is comparatively small, less than 9,000 shares of a total of only 20,000 being now available. They are intended merely to provide an immediate fund for developing certain profitable book enterprises of the Company and increasing the circulation of THE CIRCLE MAGAZINE. Now is the only sure time to secure a part of this issue for which the demand is very active.

The Directors do not wish to have a large amount of Preferred Stock standing as a first charge against the profits of the business before the Common Stock can participate, because the officers and Directors have put their own money into the Common Stock exclusively and expect it to pay large dividends after the Preferred Stock has received its fixed 7 per cent.

Therefore a total of only 20,000 shares of Preferred Stock at $10 a share, par, have been authorized, and more than half was taken up at once by bankers, lawyers, physicians, business men, ministers, educators and others who were personally informed of the issue without any announcement to the outside public. It is expected, of course, that the small number of shares now offered will be quickly spoken for.

This Preferred Stock, with its 7 per cent. first lien on the profits of the Company's entire business, including THE CIRCLE MAGAZINE, and with the 40 per cent. bonus of the Common Stock, which shares all the profits above the 7 per cent., offers an unusually attractive investment for $100, $500, $1,000, or even $10,000, if subscriptions are made within the next few days before the chance is gone.

A FEW QUESTIONS ANSWERED

1. THE CIRCLE MAGAZINE will complete its third year in December. The CIRCLE PUBLISHING COMPANY was incorporated April 7, 1908. The issue of Preferred Stock was authorized Nov. 14, 1908. Two sections of 5,000 shares each were offered by letter to a restricted list and immediately oversubscribed. The balance was held until the first public announcement last week.
2. THE CIRCULATION of THE CIRCLE MAGAZINE during the past year has been largely in excess of a hundred thousand each issue, and plans are under way for greatly increasing the circulation before the end of this year. The new capital will be used in part for this purpose.
3. THE ADVERTISING RATE of THE CIRCLE MAGAZINE is 75 cents per agate line, and many substantial contracts are being made for future business. The rate will be increased to $1.00 a line after our present circulation campaign has been carried through.
4. THE CIRCLE PUBLISHING COMPANY owns a number of valuable book properties and has important plans in preparation for the aggressive development of its profitable book business. Some of the best plans have been held in abeyance until favorable conditions should exist. The tariff uncertainty is now over, and all are looking forward to a record season for business in all lines. The time is ripe, therefore, to push forward these plans, and to take advantage of this remarkable opportunity for investment on the eve of such development.
5. A LIFE SUBSCRIPTION for The Circle Magazine (regular price $1.50 a year) is sold for $10, and one or more such life subscriptions may be substituted for a corresponding number of shares of Common Stock as bonus with the Preferred Stock at the option of the purchaser.

OUR OFFER PLAINLY STATED:

The par value of all shares is $10. They are full paid and non-assessable. The taxes on the stock are paid in full. Nine thousand shares of the Cumulative 7 per cent. Preferred Stock (or such part as now remain) are offered at ten dollars a share, par. Every subscriber for five shares of Preferred Stock will be given a bonus of one share of Common Stock and will be made also a life subscriber for THE CIRCLE Magazine without additional payment. A subscriber for any multiple of five shares will be given a corresponding number of shares of Common Stock, as bonus, and will be allowed to present a life subscription for THE CIRCLE as a gift to some relative or friend for each five shares of Preferred Stock subscribed. Additional shares of Common Stock may be substituted in lieu of life subscriptions as bonus, or vice-versa. Thus, ten shares of Preferred Stock will entitle the subscriber to two shares of Common Stock and two life subscriptions for THE CIRCLE, or four shares of Common Stock. One hundred shares of Preferred Stock will carry with them a bonus of twenty shares of Common Stock and twenty life subscriptions for THE CIRCLE, or forty shares of Common Stock.

We must say now, however, that this offer with its bonus is conditioned upon your prompt acceptance, and we reserve the right to withdraw or modify the offer without further notice.

YOU NEED NOT SEND ALL THE MONEY NOW IF NOT CONVENIENT TO DO SO, but write at once, saying how many of the 5,000 shares you will take and how soon you will be ready to pay for them. Ten per cent., at least, of the amount of your subscription should be sent at the time of making the reservation. If more convenient to you the balance may be divided into several instalments. Please use one of the Application Forms below, or a copy of the same.

AN EARNEST WORD ABOUT THE CIRCLE PLAN

You ought to know something about the "Plan" and aim of THE CIRCLE. We are all deeply in earnest about this matter. Every one of the men and women who now control the editorial and the business policy of the magazine is pledged to the carrying onward to its highest possible success the work of making a great, high-class, popular magazine of world-wide circulation which shall portray and encourage the good in individual, social, business, and political life, rather than the evil; which shall stand for peace rather than war; which shall search out beauty rather than ugliness; which shall build up rather than tear down; which shall constantly plan and labor, and co-operate with those who are planning and laboring, to make this world a better and happier place to live in, both for the poor and the wealthy, for the unlearned and the learned, for the weak and for the strong.

This is not mere rainbow painting. It is a real and definite program, based upon strong convictions and practical plans. We know that there are many splendid men and women who are in sympathy with this program and want to see it carried out. They know, as we know, that there is a positive cure in sunshine and fresh air. The poisonous, ill-smelling places often can be purified and made beautiful just by letting in the sunlight and the sweet winds of heaven. No man can remain a pessimist who will open his eyes and his heart to the good and the beautiful around him. All he need do is to give it just a fair share of his attention. It will surely sweeten his blood, cheer and lift up his heart, lighten his step, brighten the glance of his eyes, and inspire him in his work. There is plenty of evil to fight, and it calls for strenuous and constant effort, but the man who sees nothing but the evil will never be able to overcome much of it. You who will help to support and boldly develop and broaden the work of THE CIRCLE Magazine, until its influence is felt in countless American homes, satisfying the great need, recognized or unrecognized, of American life—you who will help to accomplish this will come closer to the hearts of multitudes of people and do more universal and lasting good than can be done in any restricted field. No single instrument within the grasp of any group of men can be so effective as this great, clean, purposeful magazine in bringing to pass that "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men," for which the world has been waiting for so many centuries.

This is a business enterprise. We want to make money for ourselves and for our stockholders, and we shall do so; but this business enterprise—this sound, common-sense, money-making enterprise is inspired with an ideal; this corporation has a soul.

Men of long and successful experience in the magazine and book publishing business and in financial affairs make up the Board of Officers and Directors of The Circle Publishing Company. No magazine in the world possesses more of the real elements of large business profit and immense usefulness to society than does THE CIRCLE. The magazine itself shows tangible evidence, month by month, of the truth of these statements.

We trust you will join with us—that you will write quickly and reserve five, ten, fifty, a hundred or more shares of the Preferred Stock, and so have a part in THE CIRCLE work and THE CIRCLE success. Write at once, if possible, filling out one of the blank forms below.

NEW YORK YACHTS REACH WEST CHOP

Idler and Intrepid Probable Winners in the Auxiliary Classes.

RACE TO PORTLAND TO-DAY

Commodore's Cups to be Competed for in Longest Sail of Fleet in Annual Cruise, 152 Miles.

Special to The New York Times.

OAK BLUFFS, Mass., Aug. 9.—The result of to-day's race of the yachts of the New York Yacht Club squadron from the Brenton Reef Lightship off Newport to the West Chop, off Vineyard Haven, must be given from unofficial reckoning, as up to a late hour the regatta committee had not made up its mind as to who had won.

Unofficial figures indicated that the Idler and the Intrepid had won in the auxiliary classes; that the Elmina had outdistanced the big schooners of her class; that the Muriel had won over the small schooners; that the Istalena was victorious over the big sloops and yawls, and that the Eleanora had outsailed her rivals of the small sloops entry. There were in all thirty-one starters to line up for the start.

Owing to the thickness of the weather, which held several of the yachts in harbor, the start of the New York Yacht Club race, which had been set for 10:30 A. M., was postponed until 11:25. The auxiliaries were the first sent over the line, Henry T. Sloane's Idler leading her class, and close behind her were the Seneca, Intrepid, Arolita, and Alcyone. In the wake of these was the flagship Aloha, carrying every stitch of canvas that she owns, even to royals and topgallant sails. These latter seemed more impressive than useful and soon after crossing the line the sail was hauled down and the boom rigged in.

After the Aloha was well over the line, Visitor II. made her way across it, and then came Wilson Marshall's Atlantic, the superb schooner which had achieved the splendid triumph of outdoing all of her rivals in the international race across the Atlantic for the Emperor's Cup. No wonder she looked as though she were a trifle bored with her present company and a bit blasé over this dinky little race from lightship to lightship.

Seven of the forty-six-footers next lined up for the start. This class, which came to the line well bunched, was led over by the Eleanora. Behind her came the others in the following order: Adventures, Dorwina, Avenger, Cleoni, Polaris, and Lasca.

In the next flight the six sloops and yawls of the K class were led over the line by the Winsome, the Aurora, Vigilant, Windward, Weetamoe, and Istalena, traveling close behind the leader. Then came the small schooners of the D class, the Muriel, Irolita, Dervish, Miladi, and Taormina.

Last of all came the big schooners. There were five of these, and in the five were those eager rivals Queen and Elmina. The Elmina was a bit too expeditious, and in her hurry to be first over the line she went to it before the starting signal had been given. As a result she had to go back and try again. Meanwhile the Queen, gathering up her skirts and muttering something about some yachts she knew of being no better than they should be, swept haughtily to the line and across it. The Ariel daintily picked her way across, the Corona gliding after. Then same the Sea Fox, to keep the Elmina company as she went over the line for the second time.

The course was east-southeast. The wind at the start was from the southwest, which made the first part of the race a broad reach. All of the yachts crossed on the starboard tack, and each flung to the breeze every sail that would draw. A thick haze blew with the wind, and soon the flying racers were half lost in the mist, faint little patches of white that came and went as the mist cleared and thickened. The score or more of steam craft which had been hovering about the start set their engines ahead as the last of the yachts went over the line, and, churning down the course, kept company with the racers. In the cortège were the North Star, Christiania, Diana, Felicia, Oneida, A. L. Tereus, Idalia, Virginia, Scout, O-We-Ra, Celt, Isoquena, Haouli, Electra, Sultana, Winchester, and others.

All of the schooners carried balloon jib topsails, balloon main topmast skysails, and as they neared Vineyard Sound Lightship set spinnakers to starboard. The three-masters also carried mizzentop skysails, fairly smothering them with canvas. The Vigilant held well to the southward and was followed by Elmina and Weetamoe and a few others. The Queen, Istalena, Avenger, Aurora, Ariel, Adventuress, Polaris, Intrepid, and Ariadne all sailed a fairly straight course for the lightship. After passing the lightship this contingent set a straight course up the Sound. The yachts, which had held to a southerly course, fetched in close under Gay Head, and, instead of setting spinnakers, reached along under their balloons.

The Vineyard Sound Lightship, first mark in the course, was reached by the leader at 1:27, unofficial time. This leader was Henry T. Sloane's Idler, the auxiliary which had led her class over the line. The Queen was the first of the large schooners to reach the lightship, the Dervish the first of the class of small schooners. Of the class in which were entered the big sloops and yawls, the Vigilant was the victor to this point. The Avenger led the small sloops to the lightship.

The wind held steady from the southwest until Tarpaulin Cove drew abeam, when it suddenly shifted to the northwest. A short time later it veered again, coming this time from the southward.

The run to-morrow will be the longest of the cruise. The fleet will start at 10:30 from off West Chop and race to Portland, Me., 152 miles distant. The special prizes for this run are the Commodore's cups, two for schooners and two for sloops and yawls. The race will probably finish at Portland some time on Wednesday.

CANNON IS NOT TO RETIRE.

Speaker Says When He Gets Ready to Step Out He Will Say So.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon stopped off in Chicago last evening on his way home to Danville and disclaimed any intention of retiring from public life, as reported in New York dispatches.

"When I get ready to step out of office I will say so, but up to date I am making no such announcement," declared the Speaker. "Also, when my constituents get ready to have me retire they will no doubt say so. However, they have not given the word so far.

"I am going back to Danville for a good rest," he remarked, tilting a fresh cigar at the familiar angle. "There is no place like Danville, and none of your Chautauquas for me. They have wanted me to make the rounds with a speech this Summer, but I have declined with thanks. I shall get well rested up and then go back to Washington in the Winter and run a little Chautauqua of my own."

Aeroplane Beats Auto in Race.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 9.—His sixteenth successful flight with the Curtiss aeroplane was made to-day by C. Foster Williard. Keeping close to the ground, he essayed to make a circle about a mile and a half in circumference, but was not able to complete it on account of unexpected elevations and trees. He made five long curved flights, however, at high speed. In one flight Mr. Williard had an interesting race with an automobile. At the rate of forty miles an hour the motor cut straight across the circle, while the aeroplane followed its arc. The areoplane reached the landing place first.

If you are in the market for a second-hand car you will find it listed in the Automobile Exchange columns of next Sunday's New York Times.—Adv.

FORM A SUFFRAGE LEAGUE.

New York and Greenwich Women Elect Miss Adelaide B. Hyde President.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Aug. 9.—At The Maples, now one of the Summer hotels here, prominent New York and Greenwich women formed to-day an equal franchise league. There were twenty-two charter members, who elected officers.

The meeting was addressed by Miss Adelaide B. Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hyde. Miss Hyde is a graduate of New York University and New York University Law School and a member of the New York bar.

The officers elected were Miss Adelaide B. Hyde, President; Mrs. Edward O. Parker, First Vice President; Miss Louise Willard, Second Vice President; Mrs. Henry L. Cammen, Third Vice President; Mrs. William B. Bracken, Secretary; Mrs. Edwin N. Chapman, Treasurer; Miss Elizabeth Beley, Chairman of Press Committee. Most of the members are wives of prominent New York brokers, lawyers, and business men.

Among the members are Mrs. Grace Gallatin Seton, wife of Ernest Thompson Seton; Miss Ely, Mrs. Bracken, Mrs. Charles B. Reed of New York, Mrs. C. T. Thompson, Miss Louise Willard, proprietor of The Maples; Mrs. Catherine Wilson, Mrs. M. Marshall, Mrs. Howard Hinton, Mrs. Edward O. Parker, Mrs. Victor Muller, Mrs. Henry L. Camman, Mrs. George P. Sheldon, Mrs. F. O. Hilliars, Mrs. Henry M. Hitchcock, Mrs. Norman Talcott, Mrs. Edwin N. Chapman, Mrs. Thomas Wells, Mrs. Worthington Miner, Mrs. Lee M. Hurd, and Mrs. Joseph H. Hunt.

The members agreed to register next Friday to become voters on school questions.

MAY HOLD RIVAL 24-HOUR AUTO RACE

Report That Buick Company Will Fight Motor Racing Association.

BARRED FROM BEACH RACE

Counter Attraction Is Set for This Month, and Strang, Chevrolet, and Burman Will Probably Drive.

The recently published reports that the Buick Motor Company was to back a twenty-four-hour race, to be held on the Empire City track in the near future, caused considerable comment along Automobile Row yesterday, and much speculation on the part of the trade not affiliated with the Buick interests.

The attitude of the public and of that part of the automobile trade not connected with the Motor Racing Association, it is conceded, has been such since the recent twenty-four-hour race at Brighton Beach, where sporting interests seemed to be subordinated to financial greed, that much color was lent to the rumored intention of the Buick Company to present a rival attraction.

That the present is the psychological time for such an enterprise is agreed on every hand, and for a minute there was a disposition to credit the Buick forces with having seized the obvious opportunity. Inquiry from Empire City officials, however, revealed the fact that no automobile races are scheduled for that track.

There is some foundation for the Buick rumors, however, and it is almost certain that in the near future, possibly this month, there will be a rival twenty-four-hour race run on a track very near Manhattan, and the three crack Buick drivers—Strang, Chevrolet, and Burman—will be among the drivers entered. In fact, it can be stated authoritatively that the approaching twenty-four-hour race at Brighton Beach will not be the only automobile event to be held within convenient distance of Manhattan this month.

It has also been stated that the Buick Company, its cars barred from the event of the Motor Racing Association by price limitation, will probably protest against the granting of a sanction for the next twenty-four-hour race at Brighton Beach. It is not likely that the protest will be heeded, and the Buick team will be a leading factor in the rival twenty-four-hour race.

The date, location, or nature of the rival attraction to the Motor Racing Association's event cannot be announced at the present, but the statement was made yesterday by a man prominent in automobile circles that the promised event will exceed in number of cars entered, in reputation of the drivers to appear, and in the suitability of the track on which it will be held, the last twenty-four-hour race at Brighton Beach.

KINSELLA WILL RECOVER

But His Chauffeur Is in Critical State and Will Always Be a Cripple.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Aug. 9.—Frederick Mond, the chauffeur, who with his employer, Clinton W. Kinsella, a New York builder, dashed into a tree on Sunday morning near Mamaroneck, and wrecked a 90 horse power machine, while traveling at the rate of sixty miles an hour, is still alive in the New Rochelle Hospital. His condition is critical, and if he recovers he will be a hopeless cripple, as his legs were broken in four places and both knee caps were turned completely around.

The man lay in the broiling sun for two hours suffering excruciating pain before the ambulance arrived from the New Rochelle Hospital. His employer, it is said, will recover. His worst injury was a shattered pelvic bone.

Spectators reported to-day that Mr. Kinsella was running the machine at the time of the accident. He was on his way to Welleck's Point, Conn., to join his wife and three children, who are in camp there. The machine at first "threw a tire" and then skidded on the sharp curve near the pumping station of the Mamaroneck Water Works. It ploughed its way through a pile of large boulders, and then hit the hickory tree and tore it up by the roots.

Two and Three-Piece Parlor Suits

Over three hundred new designs. Many of them solid mahogany and mahogany-finished; tastefully carved. These frames will be covered with tapestry, satin damasks or panne silk in the color you select.

There isn't an old, shopworn suit in the lot. A decrepit in the ranks of these spick-and-spans would be out of place. Prices? Their story is told in unvarnished figures:

PUT CAPTAIN IN HOLD.

Crew of Schooner Overpowered Him When He Became Violently Insane.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 9.—Suddenly becoming demented, Capt. Walter Small, owner and master of the schooner Nettie A. Dobbin, was so violent yesterday, according to the crew, that they were obliged to lock him up in the hold. The schooner, which is bound from Boston to Milbridge, put into this port to-day, and the mate sent for the police.

The mate said that before the Captain was overpowered he flourished an axe and chased the mate and one sailor about the deck. Small was under the impression that the crew was stealing his vessel.

ARE YOU GOING DEAF?

I have made a discovery in the treatment of head noises and deafness which I consider an important one. My discovery does away with the necessity of passing instruments into the ear tubes, which measures have proved unsatisfactory, are painful, and instead of curing the disease have often forced it further up into the ear.

Here is who I am and what I have done: I graduated in medicine in New York in 1879. I was the prize winner of my class. I won in competitive examination the position of Physician to Bellevue Hospital, where I served in 1879 and 1880.

I have made a specialty of diseases of the throat and ear for thirty years. I decided the best way I could tell the people who I was and what I had done was to advertise in the daily papers.

The following interview with Professor Loomis will explain what he thought of me:

(N. Y. World, Sept. 2, 1894.)

"Professor Loomis of the University of New York, the great specialist, said, in alluding to medical men who advertise: 'Dr. McCoy, for instance, is an able man, well educated, a thorough scientist and a first-class physician. He is a graduate of Bellevue Hospital. He advertises, does an immense business and is doing much good.'"

Among the first upon whom I tested my new method for head noises and deafness was Mr. W. P. Frazier, a gentleman who was 64 years of age at the time he sought my aid in my Chicago office. Mr. Frazier and his brother are manufacturers of high grade light vehicles. Mr. Frazier consulted me nearly two years ago. The story he told me then was as follows:

"Over twenty years ago I began to have trouble in my left ear. I gradually lost my hearing in that ear until I could not hear a watch tick with it unless it was held right close to the ear. I got along pretty well until the fall of 1906, when I had an attack of grippe that attacked my other ear—the right. My right ear got so I could only hear a watch tick that was pressed up against it. I had sounds in my head like frogs croaking and crickets singing."

Mr. Frazier was a good patient and visited my office regularly. I put him under the new method I had devised and in three months' time Mr. Frazier was cured. At that time he said:

"I can now hear a watch tick when three feet away from my right ear. The noises are all gone, and with the ear that has been deaf for twenty years I can hear as well as I could before it became affected."

Mr. Frazier has had no trouble with his ears since I treated him nearly two years ago, excepting a slight return of the head noises, which a few days' treatment cured. His place of business is 371 Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

I only mention this case to show what can be done by proper treatment in many cases of deafness and head noises of long standing in persons well advanced in years.

If you think my training and experience should make me a good ear doctor, I should be pleased to have you visit my offices. It will cost you nothing for an examination and advice. If your ears have been so neglected that treatment will not restore your hearing, I have the best instrument ever invented to make deaf people hear. It is called the Baker Microphone. I will be pleased to give you an opportunity to test this little device free.

THE CROP REPORT.

The Government crop report for August is good enough to make it difficult to maintain prices for foodstuffs, and the security speculators were so impressed that they sold on the good news, in the manner which students of intrinsic conditions never quite grasp. However, the main significance of the report is not whether prices rise or fall upon it, but whether the country is to have plenty of stuff to eat, and the railways to transport. The prospects are excellent on both heads.

For Winter wheat this is the last word until after the bushels are physically counted. Its condition improved so much during July that 23,000,000 bushels are added to the estimate, and the promise is better than last year at this time, and far above the 400,000,000 line, which may be taken as a basing point. That is doing well for a crop which started almost disastrously. Spring wheat deteriorated somewhat in condition during July, but its quantity is in excess of last year, owing both to greater acreage and better condition. Almost a fortnight has elapsed since the date of the report, and the crop has so far matured that disaster to growth is unlikely, and a bad harvest a remote chance. The aggregate yield will almost certainly be above 700,000,000 bushels, and the third to pass the round number.

Corn will be a bumper crop, three billion bushels, more or less, according to the method of ciphering. The deterioration of July is normal or nominal, and the promise of a month ago is now almost a realization. The crop has passed the tenderest stage, in which the dreaded hot winds do their worst. With the plant in the maturing stage, it revels in heat which would scorch it when the kernels are in the milk. Oats will exceed a billion bushels for the first time, barring only unlikely misfortunes. Who would not be a farmer this year? He is the real plutocrat, and keeps us all busy filling his pocket as we empty his barns. If only we had a sensible currency system it would be a labor of love to finance all this new wealth. As it is, the difficulty in making the physical payments, although the currency is redundant, is almost the only cloud on the outlook, so far as the crops affect basic conditions.

SENATOR DIXON'S PLOT.

Senator Dixon of Montana is a youngish man with no very great experience in politics, and he is even more innocent than he is young. Otherwise he would not have launched out in so preposterous a defense of himself and his course in the Senate as he has sent to the Republican editors of his State.

To begin with, you never would catch a grown-up Republican Senator from the East admitting that there is any "grief over the unpopularity of the tariff bill." Of course there is a lot of grief, and it is pretty well spread, as is the unpopularity, over all parts of the country, but a trained politician would not confess it. In the second place, a shrewd politician would not permit himself to say to Western editors that the metropolitan newspapers can spread a false impression of facts, which the Western press cannot prevent or correct. That is not flattering to the pride of the local press. It is also contrary to the fact. In a public matter like the tariff bill, the newspapers of New York, were they all to combine to repress the truth and publish a lot of lies, could not deceive the people of the West, or, for that matter, of the East either. Their conspiracy would be exposed promptly, and they would have nothing but disgrace for their pains.

In the next place, "the great metropolitan papers" did not, as a matter of fact, follow all the same course toward the tariff bill. The Tribune, for instance, gave all the news it could get favorable to the party view of the bill. Most of the other papers gave from day to day what was most interesting. The Times tried to give the news as fully as possible during the time the bill was pending, and when it was passed published it in full, every single item of it, from beginning to end, with a careful comparison of each item with the corresponding provision in the Dingley tariff. So it comes down to this, that Mr. Dixon publicly accuses the New York papers of a conspiracy to misrepresent and suppress news about the tariff, which they could not have carried out, if they had wished, which they never tried to carry out, and which is in direct and notorious contradiction to what these papers actually did.

Meanwhile it is amusing to note the theory of tariff legislation on which Mr. Dixon says that he and his senior colleague proceeded in the late session:

> The Montana Senators, in common with those from every other Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast State, felt, as a matter of self-protection, that if we are going to have a protective tariff it should cover all articles produced in this country, and that when you singled out one specific article for slaughter it meant the tumbling down of the whole list.

Of course, as a matter of fact, Mr. Carter and Mr. Dixon did not follow any line of conduct quite so absurd and silly as he describes. They put oil on the free list, and they did not put a duty on raw cotton. But they probably would have done just what he describes had they been left to their own intelligence. What they did do, good or bad, sensible or foolish, was for the most part done in obedience to the lead of Mr. Aldrich. Mr. Dixon at least would, according to his own account, have made a dreadful mess of it, if he had acted on his own unguided and unaided judgment. As to his plot among the newspapers to suppress news about the tariff if the duty were not taken off printing paper, we fear that some of "the prominent Washington correspondents" have been having fun with him, and, really, his innocence must be very tempting.

A LATER REPORT NEEDED.

Cannot Mr. John Williams, this State's Commissioner of Labor, get out a Labor Bulletin that will supply us with news less than four months old about conditions of employment? Mr. Leonard W. Hatch, the editor of the bulletin published yesterday, tells us gleefully that on March 31 last only one wage earner out of five was unemployed, which is, assuredly, a better record than that of the corresponding date last year, when over one in three of the working population was idle. But times have changed considerably in the quarter for which no figures are supplied. Wages, which have maintained the same high level throughout the financial depression, mean more now, in that practically all the workmen who were discharged in order that wages might be maintained have been restored to their jobs. The reports which The Times published on Sunday from the editors of the trade journals of the country gave the news of an extraordinary business revival—the oncoming of another undoubted season of prosperity.

But it is worth while considering what things have contributed to this new era of production. As in the case of external wars, when intestine broils cease, capital and labor composed their differences, and joined in what Prof. Sumner calls a bond of "antagonistic co-operation." It is to be presumed that wherever the competition by small rivals of the cutthroat variety obtained this, also, ceased, and the large corporations grew more rapidly out of their peacemaking. The employés who were retained either feared discharge or were of the more faithful kind; they gave more labor, and of a better quality, for their wages. Expense accounts were watched more carefully, and superfluous expenditures prevented. New economies were evolved under pressure of necessity. Thus the effects of the panic were wholesome.

But the great world losses which were the underlying cause of the hard times are not yet made up—the process is but beginning. It can continue only by the unremitting efforts of all classes. The best that can be said is that the Nation has girded its loins, and girded them well. But we do not know this from labor records that are musty when published.

THE RIVAL SUBWAY PROGRAMMES.

Mr. Shonts opens the consideration of the merits of the subway plans competing for public favor by declaring what his company offers, and what it will do in the event that other plans are preferred. This is called a "threat," and various motives and considerations are marshaled regarding the policy to be adopted which have nothing to do with the merits of the rival plans. Each plan may have advantages for limited numbers in especially close relations with the plans respectively. The choice should not turn upon any such narrow view as that. The controlling consideration should be the greatest accommodation to the largest numbers, and the benefit to the city considered as a whole.

Mr. Shonts offers to complete a symmetrical system, as laid out years ago, and along the lines begun with satisfaction to most users of the Subway. His new plans are old plans essentially, with unimportant additions. His road is the city's road, something which many are too prone to forget. He offers a complete system on both the east and west sides, with 5-cent fares, universal transfers, additional routes to Brooklyn and Queens, and opportunities to change cars at the level in the manner already familiar but to be improved upon. At Canal, Forty-second, and 149th Streets it is proposed to allow passengers to go north, or south, or east, or west, without climbing stairs when once in the Subway. Every section of Manhattan can be reached, and every borough except Richmond. These are facts, not opinions, and have nothing to do with the personal merits or demerits of anybody, or any regrettable incidents connected with the stock market. The simple question is whether or not the Subway has "made good," and whether it will do as well in the future as in the past.

On the other hand is the proposal of the Public Service Commission, which is most frequently associated with contractors not known in connection with Subway operation. They may be assumed to be substantial, and the mystery regarding their sources of capital may be dispelled. It is not necessary to depreciate their offer to expend, say, $100,000,000 of their own money. It would produce a great addition to existing facilities. The question is whether it would produce as great an addition as the same amount spent on the extension of the present Subway. It would remain an east side line, with no west side proposal in the present or future. However considerable in itself, it could offer no transfers. It would not serve Queens County. It would serve Brooklyn only after the expenditure of perhaps $50,000,000 of city funds, and then not for a 5-cent fare. It would either leave out the Pennsylvania Station and the social and theatre district, or reach them only by the device of a spur, which is a fresh irritation at each use. And the changes from express to local trains would be by a double-deck contrivance, which means stair climbing by millions forever.

These also are facts, not opinions. Each potential passenger should appraise the facts for himself, for the appeal is now being made to public opinion. Not a single word which is argumentative has been written. Unless it were a fact of record, it would tax credulity to believe that the latter plan is the product of a Public Service Commission, and the former plan the proposal of a heartless monopoly, aided and instigated to efficiency by the mercenary consideration that otherwise there is nothing in it for the proposers. Their stake is too great to be abandoned. Profit by operation, not by construction, is their motive. It is otherwise with the rival plan. Profit by construction is the main feature, for profit by operation is not within their experience. This suggests what might be the city's situation if the option to purchase became a necessity to purchase. In either case the city would be competing with itself. The logic of the situation would compel ultimately the physical connection and operation of the two systems, but under less favorable conditions than the execution of the plan for extending presently the city's system, so that it may be as strong and valuable as possible when the city takes it over.

THE POSITION OF FRANCE.

The recent changes in the Ministry of France and in that of Germany have drawn attention anew to the marked modification that has taken place in the position of France, and, in consequence, in the general relations of the great Powers and the prospect of increasingly pacific relations. Much has been said, sometimes thoughtlessly, sometimes with malice, of the levity of the French mind, and of the extreme improbability that the French Nation, under the fluctuating conditions of democracy, could pursue a wise and consistent foreign policy, fitted to secure its own safety and prestige and to promote the harmony of Europe. The history of the republic from its first establishment, and especially the record of the last decade, gives an emphatic denial to these unfavorable and often unfriendly predictions.

Since the consummation of the understanding between France and England in 1904, with the collateral understanding between France and Spain and Italy, France has undergone an experience of difficulty, of complexity, of danger that might well tax the statesmanship of any country. She has emerged from it definitely stronger, with relations generally more favorable, and with a position in European diplomacy that distinctly reinforces the prospect of peace. From the speech of the German Kaiser at Tangier in the Spring of 1905 to the signing of the protocol of the Spring of 1909 by which Germany and France defined their respective rights and obligations in Morocco, the procession of events has been such as sorely to try the firmness, the patience, the foresight, and the courage of French Ministers, and the trial has been met with signal adequacy. The French Government has been accused of having sought the isolation of Germany, and undoubtedly suspicion, possibly conviction, of such an aim has animated the policy pursued by Germany. Whatever may have been true of particular leaders, or of a faction, in France, it is now fairly established that no such purpose has determined the course of the Government, and the ruler of Germany now seems convinced of the fact. That is quite clearly shown by the protocol just referred to and by the general attitude of the Kaiser since its signature. That fact in itself is a conspicuous proof of the essential dominance of the pacific spirit in French diplomacy and of the skill and magnanimity with which it has been conducted.

In a recent article in the Revue des Deux Mondes M. Andre Tardieu, whose authority is generally recognized, traces very clearly the course of events in recent years and the progress that has been made. He closes with the following measured statement of the present relations of Germany and France:

> Too many historic conflicts separate France from Germany to permit them safely to throw themselves in each other's arms in the ardor of thoughtless confidence. Loyal correctness of attitude, which alone is possible and desirable between them, can be a régime of reason only. And it will last only so long as it is inspired by reason. It should not, if it is to remain practicable, demand of either side the sacrifice of traditions, memories, attachments, regrets, joys, and sorrows. It must in no degree imply the abandonment on either side of international engagements responding to geographic and historic needs, to the exigencies of the events of yesterday and of the morrow—least of all the neglect of military and naval readiness. It must aim neither too far nor too high, be content with limited gain and localized advantage, abstain from being ambitious or sentimental, and should consist solely of mutual esteem and consideration in the daily practice of courteous equality.

Though measured, as we have said, this definition of the relations of France and Germany is essentially encouraging. It describes, necessarily, the attitude of the two Governments, not necessarily that of the two peoples. But if the two Governments can maintain "mutual esteem and consideration in the daily practice of courteous equality," the tendency of the two peoples to draw nearer to each other will be unimpeded, and, we believe, will gradually strengthen.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Punishment by Lashing Not Remedial.

We suppose it was due to his horror at the increasing number of wife beaters brought before him that Magistrate House exclaimed, when one of the wretches was haled before him Sunday: "If you were in danger of being lashed at the post, the same as your kind are in Delaware, you would not be so handy with your fists where a woman is concerned." He also expressed amazement that the prisoner's wife, her face a mass of bruises, manifested a spirit of forgiveness toward her brutal husband and declined to press the charge.

Magistrate House need not be amazed, and he should not recommend the whipping post in cases of conjugal assault and battery. Warden Meserve of the New Castle County Workhouse, which is Delaware's sole penitentiary, resigned two years ago because of the State's retention of this ancient mode of punishment, declaring that of the hundreds of white and negro men whom it had been his duty to lash, few had shown signs of reformation. On the contrary:

> I have come to the conclusion that it is all bad. It brings out in a man all that is revengeful and hurtful, and he arrays himself against law, order, and society.

Of course, punishment of a man who beats his wife should be meted out ungrudgingly if it prove corrective. But we have passed beyond the stage when revolting penalties were administered because the crimes they were supposed to deter were revolting. Justice may have to deal with brutes, it is not brutal. Besides, a man lashed for wifebeating would be cowardly enough to revenge himself at the first opportunity by further persecution of the woman whom he considers as his property, to deal with as he likes. For usually the offender of this type is of European birth, and has inherited the mediaeval idea that his wife is his chattel. Though American laws have delivered woman from the power of her husband, he does not know it, nor does she. Unless both can be made clearly to see this difference in the laws of their adopted country, and their duties and responsibilities therein, any punishment for such treatment of his wife as the husband might think fit to visit upon his dog or his horse would be futile.

The Fittest for Survival.

By repeated studies, one of which appears in The Medical Record of Aug. 7, Dr. Charles E. Woodruff, Surgeon and Major of the United States Army, has collated facts tending to show that the blonde members of our population are both the ablest and the most inclined in this climate to degenerate, while the brunettes are the fittest physically to survive. The best in an absolute sense may not be the fittest for survival, Major Woodruff postulates. The parasite may live and flourish, while the tree, a nobler form of life, perishes in the struggle. Unless the blonde Saxon and Northman can acquire an artificial immunity to unfavorable climatic influences, they are doomed to extinction in this land, where the darker races of Southern Europe have begun to predominate.

That the degeneracy of the hitherto superior blonde type is becoming manifest, Major Woodruff adduces from prison records. In Clinton Prison of this State, where incorrigible or habitual criminals are confined, "of the 279 white men whose eye color is mentioned, 144 had blue eyes, 40 gray, hazel, and light brown, and only 95 dark shades of brown." He adds:

> Criminologists are quite of opinion that there is no criminal type, but that there is an instability of the nervous system or neurasthenia which is the basis of habitual crime. Hence in America we find more nervous instability among the blonde types and more of them drift into crime as a result.

The crimes committed by the blondes in Clinton Prison were mostly crimes against property, that is, "the neurasthenic, blue-eyed native criminal cannot stand the stress of the struggle of existence, and resorts to crime to live"; whereas in Sing Sing, where first offenders are confined, the percentage of brunette foreigners is double that in Clinton Prison; their crimes were chiefly crimes of violence, and had little or nothing to do with the struggle for existence. At the Elmira Reformatory 70 per cent. of the young criminals are native born. Over half of them had native born parents, and these came largely from neurotic families. "Out of 4,631 young offenders there are only 68 with black eyes and only 505 with dark brown," Major Woodruff says. Even including the light brown, the dark types constitute at Elmira but one-fourth the total. He notes curiously that "most criminals the world over come from healthy, respectable families."

"Dark and true and tender is the North," Tennyson sang; and it is from the dark climate of Northern Europe that the blonde type, which has since overspread the earth, originated. It must return to its habitat or find artificial shields against its new environments if this rare and conquering type is to survive. Perhaps the acquirement of temperate habits would suffice.

Illogical, but Right.

A correspondent has favored us with this inquiry:

> In your editorial article on "Our Tariff Abroad" is the sentence, "But none know better than the would-be competitors," and so on. I write for information on a point of grammar. Isn't "none" an abbreviation of "no one," and shouldn't a singular verb follow, even though the plural is understood after "competitors"?

There are more things in heaven and earth, and in the constitution of our native tongue, than the grammarians dream of. Speaking logically, of course, our tongue is not a tongue at all, but a language. If we adhered to uniform rules we would be compelled to say that a process was beginned, not begun, and that evil tidings are freighted, not fraught, with woe. But as a language is evolved from usage and not from logic, it so happens that it contains many idioms that reason does not suffice to explain. We suppose that most schoolmarms substitute for the perfectly idiomatic "had better do" the "would better do," which is itself often both incorrect and illogical. As for the use of "none" in its plural sense, we confess that our taste urges us to avoid it whenever we happen to think of it. But it is a use sanctioned in our literature, it is common in the conversation of the best speakers. It may not be adversely criticised. To those purists who would reduce the language to a state of precision we commend the reading of Prof. Thomas R. Lounsbury's recently published essays, for in them, or in Prof. Kittredge's works or Prof. Skeat's, they may be brought to realize something of the magnitude of the undertaking.

TENEMENT OFFENDERS.

Two Difficulties in the Present City Department.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Much has been written and said about the Tenement House Department since the Bureau of Municipal Research published its report, and it is a pleasure to find that it has an able defender in Ira J. Ettinger, whose article appeared in to-day's issue of your paper.

However, there are two points that Mr. Ettinger has left untouched, viz.: The difficulty that confronts the Corporation Counsel in bringing the violators to court and the meagre pay received by the clerical force of the department.

The Municipal Courts as at present constituted are unable to deal with the vast number of cases brought before them by the Corporation Counsel, and as the owners of tenements are aware of the fact that it takes two years and more before a case reaches trial, after they have been served with a summons, they pay little or no attention to the same. I would suggest that the law be amended so as to provide for the election of Municipal Justices at large for the Boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn, whose duty it would be to try city cases only. Such Judges should rotate with the present District Judges so that a charge of favoritism would be avoided. Furthermore, the Police Court Magistrates should be obligated to impose a fine or a term of imprisonment in all cases where it is proven that there has been gross neglect to obey the orders of the Tenement House Department, with power to impose an increased penalty for a second and all subsequent offenses.

Most city departments are divided into small bureaus or divisions, and the heads of the departments are enabled to "fix" the rate of the pay of the clerks far above that of the clerks of the Tenement House Department, who hold very responsible positions.

The Tenement House Department is looked upon as an offshoot of various charitable institutions, through whose instrumentality the law was originally passed, and for that reason the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has several times refused applications from Commissioner Butler for increased appropriations to enable him to grant increases in pay to those of his clerical staff who have been a number of years in his department, and who occupy responsible positions second to none in the city's employ.

That the Tenement House Department under Mr. Butler has accomplished much for the benefit of that class of the city's population for whose interest the law was passed cannot be denied, and I firmly believe a little more liberality on the part of the Board of Estimate and the provision of extra Municipal Court Judges would tend to make the work of the Tenement House Department as near perfect as possible.

Feet.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Would respectfully suggest to the nerve doctors that they look into the strange mental disease which makes people put their feet in unusual and unseemly places.

They put them on the seats in the cars, they drive them into the backs of your chair at the theatre, they rest their heels on the top of the seat backs in open cars, they sit in all kinds of places with their legs crossed and their great feet in the gangway.

At the theatre last night, next to me, a young gentleman sat with one foot resting on his knee, his shoe very nearly in my lap, and so enamoured was he with the shape of his ankle he had to keep twiddling with his shoe string and shifting his foot to get new points of view.

Finally I said, "Pardon me, don't you think you would be as comfortable with your foot on the floor. Your shoes are very pretty, but not bijou enough for me to nurse." Didn't confuse him a bit. He looked at me with darkling scowl as if he didn't know if he would or he wouldn't, reluctantly put down that foot, and elevated the other into the lap of the lady with him, so that I nursed his knee during the performance.

Also in a restaurant supposed to be patronized be civilized people saw a gentleman dining, his legs crossed at right angles, one great foot stuck into the aisle to trip waiters and be wiped by ladies' dresses.

LILLIBULLERO.

An Old Use of the Word as a Refrain.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Arthur Guiterman's "Old Irish Reaping Song" in Saturday's Times was amusing. Scythemen in a field of barley would be funny, but not half as comical as it would be to help them along with an idyl having "lillibullero" for its refrain. Here are a few lines of an old-time "ditty" in which the significance of the phrase is indicated:

There was an old prophecy found in a bog,
Lillibullero, lillibullero,
That Ireland would be ruled by an ass and a dog,
Lillibullero, lillibullero.
And now that old prophecy has come to pass,
Lillibullero, lillibullero,
For Talbot's the dog, and King James is the ass,
Lillibullero, bulleen a la.

The origin or meaning of the word "lillibullero" scarcely admits of its use as a harvest song.

Danger to Brooklyn Bridge.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"Fire Drives Crowd Off Brooklyn Bridge," is the heading in Sunday's Times of the account of a fire in Roberts's ink factory, at Vandewater St. There is a little oil store in North William Street, almost under the bridge, full of great tanks of oil used by printers. If this little combustible place should catch fire not only would the bridge be in danger but millions of dollars' worth of property in the vicinity would go up in smoke. It would pay the Board of Underwriters to buy up this place and move it to New Jersey. Where is the Bureau of Combustibles?

CASTE AT WEST POINT.

Declares Famous Men's Sons Have Harder Time Than Obscurer Cadets.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the words of Mr. Raymond Thompson's letter, West Point "forms, or seems to form, a distinct military class in which the son of Gen. Grant tends to rank higher than the son of Jones." Is it possible, can it be that any one has dared to state his belief in West Pointers' snobbishness, based on an idea so vague and hazy and doubtful as that given form in the sentence just quoted? In the first place, the author of that letter dares say only that "West Point seems to form"; that's just it—without any knowledge of facts West Point seemed to him to form a distinct military class of snobs. As a matter of fact, the son of a general officer has a much harder time during his first year (the most trying of all the course) than any son of "Jones" who ever entered the Military Academy and behaved himself. From the very nature of his father's prominence he is harassed and annoyed vastly more than his fellows. As for the sons of professors stationed at West Point, there were two who, to the personal knowledge of the writer, were in great danger of being obliged to leave the Academy merely because of the molestation that their fathers' prominent positions brought upon them. And examples could be multiplied indefinitely to show how little a man's standing in the corps of cadets depends upon anything but his own personal merit. There may be snobbishness in the army; but when the training and experience of the West Pointer tend to produce it, then may the spirits of Prof. Zueblin and his stanch supporter Raymond Thompson be crowned with glory and placed upon the highest hill to view the shame of the Academy, and gloat "I told you so." But West Point is still, through all upheavals, true to her traditions, and her friends need not yet fear for her reputation and her glory.

THROOP MARTIN WILDER.

New York, Aug. 7, 1909.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Gustave Traft's studious impressions show a condition of mind, nothing more. West Pointers can justly refuse to hobnob with every Tom, Dick, and Harry that wend their way to West Point, willing to be impressed. In this respect they follow the rule of the world.

Few civilians can understand, or try to, the position of the enlisted man in the army. Any seeming animosity, if any, that West Pointers may show for enlisted men is due rather to the needs of the service than any spirit of the largely developed ego.

If West Pointers have a weakness for intoxicants it was probably brought about by reading just such stuff as your hysterical correspondents have written. It's enough to drive any one to drink.

ENGLAND DISCOVERED.

Thinks Rose Stahl Has Found the Real Attitude Toward America.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a loyal Britisher who believes that other nations have only to know us to discover that we are not as black as we are painted, I take off my hat to Rose Stahl, the first American in my experience who has pierced the aura of biased inference which blinds the sense of justice toward England in the minds of average Americans. She has made the greatest discovery of her age! Pecuniary considerations probably moved her to carry her attractive personality to London, and she evidently went prepared to meet as much hostility to America as she was carrying with her toward England. Hostility sedulously fostered by mendacious history, and cultivated by popular preference as the right spirit for "God's Chosen People" to affect toward the country of their origin. Rose Stahl finds to-day she is a much wiser woman, and is generous enough to admit the mistake she has been educated in. She is so impressed with the spirit of fair play and loyalty to kinship she has encountered among the people this country loves to belittle that she ingenuously declares "We Americans do not understand the English. They have no feeling against us. They are even closer than cousins. They love us because we are Americans."

It is quite true what she says. On the other side we have the feeling of kinship for America, and we would stand by her for its sake against the world if necessary, and because she speaks our tongue, and has the same common law. But when we come among you, and experience your unreasoning hostility, your bitter prejudice, and your petty jealousy, shown in your desire to magnify England's troubles, and belittle her achievements, we suffer a revulsion of feeling that not the greatest individual friendliness can offset, and gradually we desire to pay back in the same base coin we receive. What would Americans think of us if we wantonly insulted the Stars and Stripes as they take a pride in insulting our flag? Do those cravens ever pause to think what a miserable spite it is to try and outrage the feelings of a country at peace with them by dishonoring that country's flag? It is the act of a braggart secure in the covert sympathy of public opinion. But it is not the less contemptible. Perhaps since so notable a favorite as Rose Stahl has made the astounding discovery that Americans can make mistakes, she may have paved the way for a more just estimate of England and her people, and again I take off my hat to her!

Cost of Real Revision?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was much interested to read the article in to-day's Sunday Supplement regarding the cost of the recent extra session of Congress. It appears that Uncle Sam will spend about $4,000,000 for this prolonged meeting, while in connection with it Senators, Representatives, and experts have delivered themselves of over 9,000,000 words. That seems to be a prodigious outgo to accomplish what, in reality, has turned out to be a very small thing—namely, the changing of the title of the old Dingley bill. I have examined the schedules closely, as published in The Times, and I believe the few changes made could have been effected very quickly by concurrent resolutions. If we ever have a real revision of the tariff what, judging by the latest fiasco of Congress, will be the expenditure in dollars and words?

How to Catch the Weigher.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Try one of these weight-guessing geniuses with the stipulation that he stand clear of his machine and see how near he comes to your weight. Most likely he will refuse to weigh a person under those conditions, as the writer has been flatly refused on this account. Also be sure that the guesser calls out the actual weight recorded by his machine before you leave it. They have a habit of making incorrect readings and calling loudly for "the next gent" before you have a chance to see for yourself.

AND A PUN AT THAT.

There was a pretty lady,
Most delicious to the eye,
She bore a close resemblance
To a spangled butterfly,
She always used a motor
To flit from store to store,
And often in the country
She drove a coach-and-four.
There too she used to motor
More frequently than not,
And never sought the water
Unless aboard a yacht,
She even motor-cycled
And aeroplaned—gee whiz!
And now we are approaching
The joke such as it is:
TO WIT!
Her walk in life was the only walk that lady ever had,
She thought such locomotion very badly to the bad.
She never sank below
A taxicab—oh! no!
Her walk in life, &c. (second verse on

WEST SIDE ADDITION TO EAST SIDE SUBWAY

Public Service Commission May Submit Plans for Route Up 7th Ave. to 34th St.

REPLY TO SHONTS' DEMANDS

Possible for Firm Competing for Lexington Avenue Route to Have West Side Lines.

The Public Service Commission will in all probability send to the Board of Estimate for its approval early this Fall an addition to the Broadway-Lexington Avenue Subway route which will provide a west side route to form a connection with the new Pennsylvania Railroad terminal at Thirty-third Street and Seventh Avenue. This much became known yesterday. This will make it possible for any competing firm which wishes to bid on the Lexington Avenue route to have the benefit of a west side line, so that if the Interborough does not desire to bid on the routes which will be put forth by the Public Service Commission, a west side connection will nevertheless be formed.

The course of this route is conjectural, at best, and nothing official upon it has come from the Public Service Commission. But from routes that have been laid out by the old Rapid Transit Commission, and others available in the west side section, it is plain that a connection will probably be made at Canal Street and Broadway with the Canal Street route and the Broadway-Lexington Avenue subway and extend up the west side to Thirty-fourth Street, and thence again go east to a reconnection at Thirty-fourth Street and Lexington Avenue with the Lexington Avenue route. The Interborough proposed to come down Seventh Avenue and Varick Street to the Battery.

The first intimation that anything like this is intended came yesterday in an interview given by Commissioner Milo R. Maltbie, who was aroused by the reported declaration of Theodore P. Shonts of the Interborough that unless that company could have what it wanted alone, and without any competition from the Broadway-Lexington Avenue line, the Interborough would not be prepared to do anything.

"Perhaus," said Commissioner Maltbie, "the Interborough will be surprised to learn that the traffic from the Pennsylvania Station and from the westerly portion of Manhattan below Central Park can be cared for by a line built by the city or constructed by a private company independently of the present Subway. Consequently, if the Broadway-Lexington Avenue system were constructed, including a line between the Battery and the Pennsylvania Station, the city would have gained everything proposed by the Interborough, and a good deal more, even though the Interborough should carry out its policy, thus announced, and refuse to proceed with its offer."

The offer referred to the proposition made to the commission some time ago by the Interborough to build east and west connections of the present Subway, if it were permitted to do certain things like third-tracking its elevated lines, and obtaining a Steinway tunnel franchise. Now Mr. Shonts in effect does not want to continue this offer, unless he is assured that the Interborough will have no subway competition in Manhttan. About this statement as reported, Commissioner Maltbie said yesterday:

"I am so astonished at the statements attributed to President Shonts of the Interborough Company that I can hardly believe that he has been accurately quoted.

Says Threats Will Have No Effect.

"It seems incredible that the Interborough Company would attempt to influence public opinion or induce the Public Service Commission to adopt its plans by threatening to refuse to build more subways unless its offer should be accepted.

"Neither the Public Service Commission nor the people of New York will be coerced into adopting any policy by any such statement. The work of subway construction will be carired on along progressive lines and in a direction that will best serve the welfare of the city. Extensions to the present Subway have been needed in Brooklyn and in the Bronx, but the Interborough Company has so far refused to build them or to operate them if constructed. It is not surprising, therefore, that attention has been given to independent lines which will serve the communities demanding transit which they have been unable to obtain from existing companies.

"A careful reading of the interview attributed to Mr. Shonts shows that his contention really amounts to little. It is only stated that 'subway' extensions will not be built if the Broadway-Lexington Avenue route is constructed. The proposition of the Interborough now before the Public Service Commission calls for but three subway extensions in Manhattan, viz.: The Seventh Avenue line south from Times Square, the Lexington Avenue route north from the Grand Central Station, and the Third Avenue line. The Broadway-Lexington Avenue system covers the entire line proposed by the Interborough in Lexington Avenue, and far more. It also includes more of the Jerome Avenue line than proposed by the Interborough. Consequently, if the Broadway-Lexington Avenue line were built every proposition made by the Interborough, and affecting the Bronx and Manhattan above Forty-second Street, would be included in the Broadway-Lexington Avenue system, and there would be no present need for the lines proposed by the Interborough. The only subway in Manhatan and the Bronx which the Interorough proposed to build which is not included in the Broadway-Lexington Avenue system, or the other plans recently put forward by the commision, is the Seventh Avenue line south from Times Square.

"Mr. Shonts is reported to have said that if the Interborough built the lines it has proposed, no one would want to build the Broadway-Lexington Avenue system. That is the nub of the whole situation. If the Interborough's plans were adopted no one else could build the Broadway-Lexington Avenue route, for Lexington Avenue would be occupied by the Interborough above Forty-second Street. Furthermore, the construction of a subway in the Flatbush Avenue extension, as proposed by Mr. Shonts, might very effectually block the construction of the Fourth Avenue Subway and the remaining portion of the loop lines in Brooklyn.

The Question of Transfers.

"The statement is also made that the Broadway-Lexington Avenue line will have no transfer connections. How any one knows this to be the case, I do not understand. The propositions now before the commission indicate that the line will have greater transfer facilities than the present Subway and than those suggested by Mr. Shonts. It is to be noted, too, that Mr. Shonts proposes no transfer between the elevated and subway lines, but merely from one line to another of the subway.

"As the proposition made by the Interborough is being considered by the commission and will be acted upon in due time, I do not care to discuss its merits now further than to say that when any one asserts that such a plan, which affords few new facilities for Brooklyn, so slight an addition to the present facilities in Queens, none in Richmond, and few for Manhattan and the Bronx, 'will not only solve the rapid transit problem for the present, but for twenty-five years or more to come,' he shows a lack of appreciation of the past, present, and probable future growth of the city, of the present congestion of transportation facilities, and of the imperative need that provision be made for additional facilities in every borough and along broad lines.

"The present needs cannot be met by an extension here and there, and within the next twenty-five years there will need to be not one additional system but several additional systems. The population of the city doubles in less than a generation."

WALL STREET FIGHT IN 'THE RINGMASTER'

A Play That Needs a Large Blue Pencil and a Pruning Knife.

FEW INTERESTING MOMENTS

But Action Hesitates and Stumbles—Some Good Actors in the Cast.

THE RINGMASTER, a drama in four acts, by Olive Porter and Francis W. Van Praag, the Maxine Elliott Theatre.

Miss Densmore	Ruth Brolaska
Stevens	Burke Patrick
William Ford	Ralph Dean
Ex-Senator Paul Craven	Edward Emery
Richard Hillary	George Howell
Eleanor Hillary	Laurette Taylor
Rebecca Love	Oza Waldrop
John Le Baron, Jr	Arthur Byron
Mrs. Alice Bradley	Marion Ballou
Kingsley McElroy	Frederick Burton
Peter Stuyvesant Cobb	William Rosell
Benson	George G. Roberts
Steward	Willis Martin
Henry Laddington	Charles D. Pitt
George Stillwell	Lucius Henderson
Office Boy	Grant Clarke
A Confidential Messenger	Vernon Wallace

If among the several persons who "presented," "produced," and "assisted" Miss Olive Porter with her play, "The Ringmaster," there had been one only who knew how to wield the blue pencil and swing the axe! A company containing several excellent actors and a number who were pretty fair did all they could to help it, but the idea it contains and the two or three scenes that get to be dramatic are so buried beneath a mass of unnecessary talk and explanation and inconsequential rubbish that the play drags frightfully. Its second act is wholly extraneous except for one absurd incident upon which the progress of the plot depends. In the other acts much time is wasted building up to climaxes that are obvious from the beginning.

In fact, most of what happens in "The Ringmaster" is obvious, so, having seen John Le Baron, Jr.—"his father's son"—refuse to become the tool of a band of unscrupulous capitalists, you know that it is only a matter of time until the tables will be turned. Of course, the ethics of the thing are good, though not necessarily new. Le Baron's father was one of those men, tender and considerate in his own family, but a veritable tyrant when he reached his desk. Everything and everybody who opposed him went down before his iron will.

After a time the thing naturally got upon his wife's nerves. So she warned her son against the dangers of greed and accumulated wealth, and young John, with his father's example always before him, and with $20,000,000 of his own, had gone abroad to live in idleness and innocence. Strange fortune, was it not, that he should have been inspired to become a man of action by the very young woman whose father he was destined to oppose in an effort to get control of the majority of shares in a Colorado railroad deal? Stranger still that this very woman should have come to plead with him in the moment of success, and that his refusal to yield to father should have stood between their happiness. And yet it would have been more strange if the breach between them had not healed before the final curtain fell. For "his father's son," unlike the man from he inherited the $20,000,000 and his great ability in business, was fighting for an honest cause and not for private gain.

Now all this makes quite a nice little story, of course, and one that may look well on the stage or between the covers of a popular magazine. In fact, we have a vague idea that we have seen things very much like it in both places. But the difference is that on the stage it won't do to hesitate too long about details. In the second act, after John Le Baron, Jr., has announced his intention of taking no part in the scheme to ruin other people's property, he is shown with a company of friends on board the yacht Nomadic, a very nice stage yacht to look at, but one which behaved very badly last night, and which seemed to be noisily going to pieces on the rocks at a time when it should have been placidly see-sawing to and fro so as not to interrupt the plot, though, truth to tell, the plot had arranged to that detail itself.

On the yacht were two very youngish persons who had conceived the idea of having the wireless operator gather in all the vagrant Marconigrams that happened to be floating about in space, no matter for whom they were intended. These the youngish persons translated by means of code books, and at the proper time a message conveniently appropriated was the means of revealing to John Le Baron the financial operations of the enemy. To be sure, John had to be wheedled somewhat by the heroine before he could see the propriety of reading other people's messages, but, having done so, he lost no time in ordering the Captain into port and announcing that he was "in the game."

After that it required a good deal of running in and out by messengers and office boys, and no end of telephoning of quick orders to buy or sell, before the climacteric point when the two men stood face to face in the struggle for supremacy. And, of course, John LeBaron Jr., won, and it was only a matter of time when, to his financial victory, was added the gentler one of repentance and forgiveness on the part of the woman, who had first inspired him to the struggle.

George Howell and Arthur Byron played the opposing financial operators, both giving clean-cut, virile performances, and though Mr. Byron, with a part that seemed almost endless as to words, occasionally got lost in the verbiage, he managed to blaze a trail apparently without outside assistance. Miss Laurette Taylor was a pleasant, self-contained heroine, agreeable to looks and manner, and Edward Emery played a dry, matter-of-fact business man like one. Frederick Burton, George Rosell, Lucius Henderson, and Marion Ballou played conventional rôles nicely, but after a trilogy of Oza Waldrop, as that persistently cloying youngish person, it would be a relief to see her in another light.

NEW MUSICAL CLUB.

Mrs. Wallerstein Incorporates a Rival Organization to the Rubinstein's.

Real grand opera will be a feature of New York's newest musical organization, the New York Mozart Society, whose President, Mrs. Adelaide Wallerstein, M. D., announced the society's plans yesterday. It is said that the society will spend upward of $10,000 a season for musical talent and entertainments alone.

Incidentally, Mrs. Wallerstein has made a record in club promotion. When discord broke out last Spring among the members of the Rubinstein Club, of which she was President, and overshadowed the harmony of Rubinstein's best musical compositions, Mrs. Wallerstein determined to have as popular an organization, and only two months ago she set to work to organize the new musical club.

In this short time, with the added handicap of Summer weather, when so many prominent women are out of town, she has completed the club's organization, and expects to have it on its feet for a Fall opening. She has visited many of the women she wished to reach in the country, and as a result of these conferences is now at the head of a musical club with a generous treasury and a membership of nearly four hundred of New York's best-known women patrons of music.

The home of the society will be the new grand ballroom in the Hotel Astor. Fifty boxes at $25 each have already been disposed of for the coming season. Arthur Claassen is to be the society's musical director, while Mme. Alma Webster Powell will have charge of the afternoon musicales and operas.

The operas to be sung during the season, complete, with scenery, costumes, and an entire professional cast of grand opera artists, are Mozart's "The Rescue from the Serail," garden scene from "Faust," "Le Barbier de Seville," "Don Pasquale," "The Secret Marriage," by Cimerosa, and a new opera to be announced, which has never been heard in this country. The society's choral will consist of more than seventy-five young voices, specially trained, and will contain among its members the well-known Manhattan Ladies' Quartet. Besides the choral, well-known soloists have been engaged for the series of concerts to be rendered during the season.

To preclude all chance of dissensions such as have occurred in several women's organizations recently, the new club has been organized on the plan of a stock company, and is incorporated under the State laws.

Aside from the musical features of the club, many brilliant social functions will be given during the season, including a dinner dance to be given by Mme. Alma Webster, a theatre party to be given to boxholders by Mrs. Charles D. Pearce, a reception and dance to be given by Mrs. Wallerstein, and other functions.

The first of the six musicales of the Winter to be given by the society will be held on the afternoon of Nov. 6.

The officers of the society, besides Mrs. Wallerstein, the President, are Mme. Alma Webster Powell, First Vice President; Mrs. Arthur L. Holland, Second Vice President; Mrs. Charlotte B. Wilbour, Third Vice President; Mrs. Claude Montague Rivers, Fourth Vice President; Miss Ella Louise Henderson, Treasurer; Mrs. Judson G. Wells, Recording Secretary, and Mrs. F. MacDonald Sinclair, Corresponding Secretary. The Directors are Mrs. Clarence Burns, Mrs. A. J. Wells, and Mrs. William Wilson Crossley.

NEW RUNS FOR OLD PLAYS.

Several of Last Season's Successes Again on Broadway.

Several of last season's plays were started on a second New York engagement last night. At the Lyceum Theatre Marie Doro appeared in "The Morals of Marcus," the play founded on W. J. Locke's novel, which was produced at the Criterion Theatre two years ago. In the company are Edwin Arden, Fred Tiden, Fred Eric, William Postance, Guy Bragden, Mary K. Taylor, Mildred Beverly, Marie Wainwright, Marion Abbott, Mrs. Fred Eric, Ethel Morrey, and Pauline Cushman. The play will run a week.

At the Gaiety, which has been remodeled and redecorated since it closed, J. E. Dodson and his company revived for a short New York engagement his success of last season, "The House Next Door," by J. Hartley Manners.

"Havana," the musical comedy which furnished James T. Powers a successful vehicle last season, reopened last night at the Casino. The cast remains almost the same, but the production has been touched up considerably.

From the Aerial Garden on top of the New Amsterdam Theatre "The Gentleman from Mississippi" was shifted back to the Bijou Theatre, the scene of its original production. Thomas Wise and Douglas Fairbanks continue to head the production.

Despite the heat all the houses had large audiences.

END OF CHILDREN'S THEATRE.

East Side Playhouse Dissolved Because of Lack of Funds.

Supreme Court Justice Goff yesterday granted the motion for the dissolution of the Educational Theatre for Children at Jefferson Street and East Broadway, which was opened in 1907 in connection with the Educational Alliance. The President of the Board of Managers was Samuel L. Clemens ("Mark Twain") and among the members of the Board of Directors were Robert J. Collier, the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, and President Stanley Hall of Clark University.

It was expected to carry the enterprise along on voluntary contributions, but they were not forthcoming, and the matter of dissolution came up some weeks ago. There was no opposition to the decision of the Court yesterday.

On November of last year Mr. Clemens took several hundred of his friends to the theatre where they witnessed a performance of "The Prince and the Pauper," a dramatization of his story. It is said that of late Mr. Collier has contributed most of the funds toward maintaining the theatre.

NEW SHUBERT THEATRE.

Plans Filed for Playhouse in Thirty-ninth Street—To Cost $125,000.

Plans were filed yesterday with Building Supt. Murphy for the new theatre to be built for the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre Company, of which Lee Shubert is the head, to be erected opposite the Casino Theatre, on the site of the old Mystic flats, owned by the late President Fish of the defunct Marine Bank.

The theatre building is to be seven stories, with a frontage on Thirty-ninth Street of 59 feet and a depth of 90.9. Part of the building will be fitted for occupancy as studios. The theatre is to be of the Italian Renaissance type from designs by William A. Swasey, as architect, with Charles B. Meyers as associate, and will be constructed of brick trimmed with terra cotta and limestone.

The auditorium will have two balconies. The building is estimated to cost $125,000, and is to be called The Shubert Theatre.

The Albany Misses a Trip.

The steamer Albany of the Hudson River Day Line was obliged to omit her up-river trip yesterday because of a slight accident while backing into her slip at Desbrosses Street preparatory to taking passengers aboard. The overhang at the stern crashed into the bulkhead and was somewhat damaged, and the boat's steering gear was put out of commission. Repairs will probably take a day or two. The Chrystenah is taking the Albany's place on the trip to Poughkeepsie.

"The Florist Shop," a three-act farce which Oliver Herford adapted from "Glueck Bei Frauen," by Alexander Engel and Julius Horst, kept a big audience in roars of laughter at the Liberty Theatre last night. If the play lacked dash and ginger in the original, Mr. Herford in his reconstruction of it, managed to supply the deficiency in generous measure.

It ought to keep the patrons of the theatre in good humor. While the play is tenuous there are many funny situations and bright sayings.

The plot of the piece is built around the establishment of Claudine Benoit, who calls it the Innovation Florist Shop. She has hit upon the clever idea of substituting hosiery and lingerie for American beauty roses and carnations which young men order sent to their women friends, the former, of course, being no parties to the deception.

Consequently, when the Rev. Cadwalader Cope orders several floral pieces sent to three of his maiden parishioners and Miss Benoit sends them elegant pairs of hosiery instead, there are bound to be some humorous complications. These situations are further enhanced when an opportune mouse forces the young women to reveal the fact that they didn't throw the presents out of the window, as they said they did.

There are also a lot of complications over the fact that Angelica Perkins was anxious to marry a man with a past, while her friend, Irene Baxter, preferred a young man for a husband whose absolute innocence was his shining quality.

Somehow the records of the bridegrooms got reversed, and Clarence Perkins, the studious author of "Pastelles of Passion," had to deceive his bride into thinking that he was a regular rounder, while Richard Baxter, the fashion leader and man about town, whose bathing suit even, as he said, "got a whole page in the Sunday paper had to make his bride believe that he abhorred cigars and fizz water.

"Why," said Mr. Perkins at one point, "all I know about love is what I have read in my own books."

Out of a spirit of dare-deviltry and a desire to see what her husband's former bachelor apartments look like, Mrs. Perkins takes Mrs. Baxter on a trip of investigation. They enter the apartments a few minutes after the Rev. Cadwalder Cope has purchased them, and get caught by Mr. Baxter's former butler, who mistakes them for female burglars. He locks them in a room and goes for the police.

Mrs. Perkins dextrously climbs through a transom, and the two escape for the time being, only to catch their husbands, who have gone to the apartment to have a good time. Josiah Perkins, Angelica's uncle, also appears at the apartment in his effort to escape from his wife, a suffragette.

Here explanations take place.

Lionel Walsh played the part of the innocent Mr. Perkins amusingly. Richard Sterling was a capital "reformed" husband in disguise. Marion Lorne won much favor by her characterization of the gushing bride with the hankering for the husband with a dark past, while Louise Drew, as the other bride, received hearty applause. Nina Morris played the part of the proprietress of the up-to-date florist shop with a true French accent. Richard Freeman was a funny enough uncle, while his wife, Miranda, was cleverly portrayed by Anna Bates.

CRISIS IN BELLEVUE AFFAIRS.

Absence of Trustees During City's Inquiry Causing Much Feeling.

Unless four members of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals return unexpectedly from their vacations in Europe, the charge of misconduct made at last week's meeting against Michael J. Rickard, the veteran Assistant Superintendent, will not be taken up until the first week in September. The board members absent are Dr. John Winters Brannan, President of the Board; Secretary Paulding, and Messrs. Stern and Farley. Only four members are left to conduct a meeting, and the law requires five as a quorum. The scandal involving the supplies for Bellevue has already resulted in the dismissal of an auditor and the suspension of Mr. Rickard.

There has been considerable comment in and about Bellevue regarding the absence of Dr. Brannan and his three associates during what may develop into a crisis. The discharge of an auditor for neglect of duty and the suspension of Mr. Rickard leaves the responsibility of the bookkeeping, supply and purchase departments on the shoulder of Dr. W. H. Smith, the General Medical Superintendent. General dissatisfaction on the part of many connected with Bellevue was not smoothed away when it was learned that a dozen male nurses from the Mills Male Training School had been dismissed for misconduct. The step was taken by the authorities upon the receipt of a round robin signed by a number of other nurses in the training school, who declared that the actions of their fellow-workers reflected seriously upon all the pupils and graduates.

It was said at the office of the Commissioner of Accounts yesterday afternoon that a preliminary report upon a ten months' investigation of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals would be presented to Mayor McClellan upon his return from his vacation. The complete report is to be presented upon completion of the investigation into another city department.

Another investigation may be instituted by the District Attorney's office. At the office of the Commissioners of Accounts it was said that officials and employes of Bellevue had violated several sections of the Penal Code. No names were mentioned, but the positions occupied by the men under suspicion would point to the nature of the offenses charged.

Trustees Stern and Farley left the city in the latter part of June, while charges were being drawn up against two employes in the bookkeeping department. Secretary Paulding absented himself two weeks before that time. Inability to make a quorum in the board has not been found before since it came into existence, seven years ago.

$1,000 FOR CURING RHINO.

Mogul a Costly Patient for Bronx Zoo if Dr. Van Mater Collects.

Dr. George B. Van Mater of 682 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, who operated last January on the right eye of Mogul, the big rhinoceros of the Bronx Zoo, appeared before Justice Crane, in the Special Term of the Supreme Court, yesterday in a suit he has begun against the New York Zoological Society to collect his fee of $1,000 for the operation. Madison Grant, Secretary of the society, the legal guardian of Mogul, is made defendant in the suit.

Mogul was said to have been almost blind in his right eye. He could hardly distinguish the limits of his cage. Since the operation by Dr. Van Mater, however, the rhino is said to be getting along nicely.

Dr. Van Mater alleges that he operated on both of Mogul's eyes in May, 1908, giving his services that time gratuitously because he believed that the benefit he would get from the advertisement would compensate him. But when called in a second time, in January last, he says, there was no understanding that his services were to be given free, and he sent a bill for $1,000 to Dr. Hornaday, the Zoo's curator.

Mogul's custodians refused to pay the bill, and the attorneys for the society, Miles & Johnson of 11 Wall Street, got an order from Justice Crane yesterday to take the testimony of Dr. Van Mater preliminary to the trial. Reuben L. Haskell of 44 Court Street, is counsel for Dr. Van Mater.

The suit will come to trial in the Fall.

BLAZE ON HELICON HALL SITE.

Lawyer C. H. Blake's Unfinished House at Englewood Set Afire.

An attempt was made last night to destroy by fire the new and nearly completed home of Clinton H. Blake, Jr., a former member of the Englewood City Council and a lawyer at 2 Rector Street, Manhattan, which the attorney is erecting upon part of the site of Helicon Hall, Upton Sinclair's co-operative colony in Englewood, N. J., which was destroyed by fire some time ago. The blaze was discovered by a passer-by who noticed that three candles had been ignited among a lot of rubbish in the cellar.

The Englewood Fire Department turned out to fight the fire and managed to put it out after about $1,000 damage had been done. There is no clue to the incendiaries.

Miss Day to Wed Percy Jackson.

The engagement is anounced of Miss Alice Day, daughter of Mrs. John C. Day of 28 Fifth Avenue and formerly of Hartford, Conn., to Percy Jackson of this city. Miss Day is a granddaughetr of Mrs. Isabella Hooker of Hartford and a grandniece of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe. The marriage will take place in the Autumn.

MOREIRA—JONES.

The marriage of Miss Anita MacNeven Jones to Señor José Maxwell de Ipena Moreira took place in London at the Brompton Oratory on July 29 last. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, E. Powis Jones, and the best man was Señor Alberto de Moreira, a brother of the bridegroom. Following the wedding there was a breakfast at Claridge's, at which many persons prominent in New York and London society were present.

Miss Jones is the only daughter of the late E. Powis Jones and Señor de Ipena Moreira is the son of the Chevalier de Moreira of Paris and Rio Janeiro.

Among those present at the ceremony were Señor Regis de Oliveira, the Brazilian Minister to the Court of St. James's; the Hon. Edmund Sandys, the brother of Lord Sandys, and Mrs. Sandys, an aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Purdy, Chevalier and Mme. de Martino, the Hon. Alfred Nelson Hood, Theodore Maxwell Jones, and Creighton Webb.

DON'T WED TOO YOUNG, SAYS LADY CARDIGAN

Widow of Balaklava Hero Declares Schoolgirls Cannot Fill Men's Hearts.

MAY SUTTON STARTS TALK

English Papers Busy with Broken Engagement Because Woman Under 25 Should Not Marry.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The action of Miss May Sutton, the ex-champion woman tennis player, in breaking her engagement, on the ground that no woman should marry before she is 25, has provided the papers here with an excellent subject for mid-Summer discussion, and many interviews on the topic have been printed.

The most interesting of these is given by the Countess of Cardigan, who was married in 1858 to Lieut. Gen. the Earl of Cardigan, hero of Balaklava, and the Earl having died in 1868, became, in 1873, the wife of Count de Lancastre Saldanha. As Count Lancastre died in 1898, Lady Cardigan and Lancastre is twice a widow and entitled to an opinion. She is also incidentally the patroness of ten livings, and has estates in Leicestershire, Northampton, and Yorkshire, while her amusements, faithfully recorded in Who's Who, where her exact age is glossed over, are riding, fencing, music, and painting.

"My opinion," said Lady Cardigan, "is that no girl knows her own mind in her teens. At least girls did not when I was young. It is all very romantic and charming at 18, but no girl really knows the heart of man until she is in her twenties. A man at 28 is 48 in experience, and how can a schoolroom beauty permanently depose the adorable she who has filled the happy youthful years of this man's life?

"Cynics scoff at these turned down pages, but, believe me, they are the most sacred of any. The perfect marriage comes when after years of disappointment the man meets the one woman who gently knits up his lost ideas and bids him forget. Not that forgetting brings happiness, but it brings repose.

"I married the most chivalrous and popular hero of the Crimean war. I had known him when a mere girl, and my girlhood's admiration gradually ripened into love. Lord Cardigan never disappointed me. I was no longer intense, but with loss of the first glamour of youth there came the appreciation of maturity. I could recognize the salient points of a man far more than ever, could judge them from the critical standpoint of a girl who has nothing to forgive.

"My advice is, never marry too young. The chain of love becomes intolerable when it is hampered with links of doubt and disillusion which cling round a later love. Far better it is to meet on common ground as mutual sympathizers, each eager to forgive the other's faults and say let us begin again, than to begin hoping and live unsatisfied."

SEIZE BAD-BILLMAKING PLANT

Monta's Alleged Partner in Counterfeiting of $1 Certificates Also Caught.

Nicholas Monta, who is charged with having attempted to pass a one-dollar counterfeit silver certificate on Frank Rosner, a storekeeper on the lower east side, was held in $1,500 bail by Commissioner Shields yesterday for examination to-morrow. Secret Service Agent Fred M. Tate, who makes the charges, says Monta is a follower of Emmanuel Ninger, the "pen and ink" false billmaker, who operated for eighteen years before he was finally trapped by Secret Service detectives. Ninger's bills were executed with great skill, while Monta's were clumsily made.

After his commitment to the Tombs Monta made a statement in which he admitted that he was not alone in the production of bills. He explained that while the certificates appeared to have been made by "pen and ink," that plates had been used in the early stages of their manufacture.

Acting on his information Secret Service Agents Tate and Thomas yesterday afternoon visited a furnished room at 205 East 117th Street, where they found a young Roumanian named John Ciceiu, who first denied all knowledge of Monta. The detectives searched the apartment and discovered a small hand press, leaden plates, and about twenty counterfeit silver certificates in various stages of manufacture. After this discovery Ciceiu admitted that he was Monta's partner, and he also was arraigned and held for examination on Wednesday.

Obituary Notes.

ROBERT SCOTT, divorced husband of Patti Rosa, a singer, and prominent years ago as an actor, died in Honolulu yesterday. He was recently employed as an Inspector of the Honolulu Board of Health.

WILLIAM C. FARNSWORTH of Harrisburg, Penn., and New York, a well-known corporation lawyer and former State Corporation Clerk, died suddenly at his home in Harrisburg of heart disease yesterday. Two years ago he was nominated by the Democratic and Prohibitionist Parties of Dauphin County for State Senator, but retired before election time on account of sickness. Mr. Farnsworth gave the Farnsworth Cup which resulted in the organization of the Tri-State Baseball League.

Ex-Police Captain J. ADDISON CORWIN, for twenty-five years a member of the old Brooklyn police force, who retired six years ago, died at Greenport, L. I., his native place, on Sunday, aged 68 years. He served in the civil war and was mustered out as a Lieutenant. He is survived by his widow, one son, and four daughters.

MICHAEL ALBERT, a veteran of the civil war, who had lived in Orange, N. J., for fifty years, is dead at his home, 157 Hickory Street, Orange, following a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Albert was born in Germany seventy-seven years ago.

SUIT OVER NEW CAR BARNS.

Brady Company's Answer to Fireproofers' Complaint Upheld by Court.

Supreme Court Justice Brady handed down a decision yesterday compelling the Dillman Fireproof Construction Company of 225 Fifth Avenue to accept the answer as made by Ellison, MacIntyre & Davis, counsel for John T. Brady & Co., general contractors at 103 Park Avenue, defendants in a suit now pending in the Supreme Court.

The Brady Company had the contract for the construction of the new car barns of the Metropolitan Street Railway in Fifty-eighth Street, and the Dillman Company had the contract for the fireproofing to the amount of $85,000. The terms of the fireproofing contract called for its completion by Sept. 15, 1908, and for every day's delay on the part of the Dillman Company the Brady Company was to receive $100 liquidated damages, the former to be paid 85 per cent. as the work progressed and the balance on the completion of the contract.

The contract was not completed within the specified time, although the Dillman Company went ahead with the work. About this time, it is said, they got into financial difficulties with some of their sub-contractors, who threatened to file liens. The Brady Company, it is said, paid some of these contractors in response to an appeal from the Dillman firm. Later the Dillman Company abandoned the work, which was completed by the Brady people in April at a loss of $4,500. In addition to this amount, the Brady Company claims $27,000 liquidated damages.

In the following May the Dillman Company filed a mechanic's lien, claiming $55,000 to be due it. This compelled the Brady people to file a bond of double the amount of the lien, or $110,000, within twenty-four hours, which they did. The Brady Company then forced the Dillman Company to commence the action, filing at the same time a counter claim for $31,500 and denying that it owed the Dillman Company anything.

It was this answer which the Dillman Company alleged to be insufficient, and which Justice Brady now compels it to accept.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

The Court Street Theatre, Brooklyn, formerly known as Hyde & Behman's, will be opened Saturday by Al. H. Woods, the new lessee, with "On Trial For His Life." In the future the playhouse will be devoted to high-class melodrama instead of vaudeville.

William Hodge reached New York yesterday, after an automobile honeymoon trip through New England. He went at once to the Astor Theatre, where Liebler & Co. had called rehearsals for "The Man From Home," which will enter upon its second year at the Astor next Monday evening.

E. M. Holland was engaged yesterday by Liebler & Co. for the part of Mr. Baxter in "Foreign Exchange," the new comedy by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson.

One hundred officers and men of the Third Division of the New York State Naval Reserve attended the reopening of James T. Powers in "Havana" at the Casino Theatre last evening.

Edith Kelly has been engaged by the Schuberts for a prominent part with Sam Bernard in his new production of "The Wizard," by Hartley Manners and Julian Edwards.

The name of the new play by Edward Peple, in which Mrs. Leslie Carter will open her third season under her own management, will be "Vesta Herne," the name also of the character Mrs. Carter will enact. It is a strictly modern drama in four acts, telling an unusual love story.

At Atlantic City last night Jack Norworth and Nora Bayes made their reappearance in vaudeville at Young's Pier. Both sang several new songs.

Charles Frohman has decided that Billie Burke shall resume her season in "Love Watches" at Des Moines, Iowa, on Sept. 6. Miss Burke will play as far West as San Francisco, returning to Chicago for the month of November. Her engagement at the Lyceum Theatre here will follow the engagement of Miss Marie Tempest. Vernon Steele will be Miss Burk's leading man.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in the New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

Yankees Win Again and Tie with Chicago for Fifth Place in the Race.

CLEVELAND ERRORS COSTLY

Wild Throws by Ball and Perring Contribute to Their Team's Defeat—Yankee "Subs" Play Well.

Climbing the Yankees are indeed, for yesterday, by making it three straight from Cleveland, they tied Chicago for fifth place, and this morning finds them only thirty points behind the Naps. A little more success will take them into the first division, and with Detroit, Philadelphia, and Boston fighting it out for the leadership of the League, there's no telling how high the Hilltoppers will stand at the season's end. When it is borne in mind that a year ago the Toppers were the tailenders, with a percentage of only .333, and that to-day their showing is .480, with the pennant among their possible assets, it must be admitted that G. Tweedy Stallings has worked wonders. Manager Stallings has devoted much thought and Frank Farrell no little money to getting together a team so big and so well selected that there must be championship form in it somewhere.

Warhop again triumphed over his critics in yesterday's battle. Unpopular, antiquated, unnatural his underhand curves and slants and raise balls may be, but they serve. His is not pretty pitching, and at times it's almost as tiresome as Joe Doyle's, but spectacular effects are not the chief end of ball. Winning of games is every pitcher's aim, and Warhop certainly wins them. He held the usually hard-hitting Naps to three bingles, and as he walked only two men and didn't send a wide one into anybody's ribs, he retired them runless in every round. Only six visitors got to first base, and only two of those to second, while none reached third. Warhop was supported admirably. The regular first and second basemen still were absent on account of injuries, but their positions were covered excellently by Knight and Orth. Stallings would do well to give Ray a little extra morning practice in stopping short outfield hits. There seemed to be no excuse for the youngster's fumble of Stovall's single to left centre in the ninth.

Falkenberg's boxwork in behalf of the Forest City team was good. The 3-to-0 shutout Cleveland suffered was not his fault. Every run New York got was due directly or indirectly to an error. Lajoie's men made only two misplays, but those two were fatal. One of them—Neal Ball's—let in the second tally, the other—Perring's—was partly responsible for the third count. But, though the Westerners committed only two bungles, little praise is coming to them. Much of their playing was listless. They were far from teamy, and most of them plainly went to bat without instructions. Manager Larry appeared to be indulging in a large grouch. His own work, with the exceptions of a bunt and a good stop of Warhop's grounder in the fifth, was very bushy, and seemingly he didn't care to take the trouble to spur his men.

Hinchman's double to left in the opening round was the game's first hit, but it came when two were down, and he got no help from the great Lajoie, who popped to Orth. Demmitt started the fun for the locals with a bunt between the box and first base, and he went to third on Keeler's leaguer. Wee Willie stole second. Engle's high one was taken down by Birmingham, but Ball, in handling Elberfeld's grasser, made such a wild throw that Demmitt and Keeler scored, and the Kid went to the far turn. Falkenberg, undismayed, fanned Orth and knocked down Knight's bounce for a hurl to Stovall by Ball.

Then the game dribbled into a pitcher's duel. True, Kleinow gets credit for a triple, but that was because the ball bounded over Birmingham's head, turning a single into a three-bagger. And Honest Jack cooled his heels on third fruitlessly, since Warhop was thrown out by Ball and Demmitt put up a soft one for Perring.

Warhop's own fielding had no little to do with his triumph. He took full advantage of four chances, and his left-hand stops of hot cracks from Ball and Falkenberg in the fifth and eighth won much applause.

Keeler's bunt, Perring's wild throw in fielding it, Engle's hit, and Elberfeld's sacrifice fly accounted for the last run. The score:

Tigers Blow Up, Athletics Win.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—Philadelphia easily defeated Detroit this afternoon by 7 to 1, the victory giving the home team two victories in the series to Detroit's one, and making the battle for first place more exciting than ever. A crowd of 16,746 persons, the largest on record for a Monday game, excepting on opening day, turning out. Detroit played very bad ball in the field, being charged with eight errors of commission and offending on numerous occasions when they appeared to be badly rattled and failed to take advantage of opportunities offered them. In the third inning the home team scored two runs on four errors without making a hit. Pitcher Donovan of Detroit to-day was served with a notice of suspension by President Johnson for disputing a decision in last Saturday's game, while Manager Jennings was sent off the coaching lines for arguing with Umpire Evans this afternoon. DOYLE'S TRIPLE WINS FOR GIANTS

New Yorks Capture Third Successive Game in the St. Louis Series.

BREAK TIE IN TENTH INNING

Brooklyn, Through Bell's Fine Pitching, Shuts Out Chicago with Two Hits—Pirates Win.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 9.—A three-base hit by Larry Doyle after two men were out, with Schlei on first, won to-day's game from the Cardinals in ten innings by 4 to 3. This gives the Giants three straight games to their credit here. Raymond and Crandall pitched for the Giants and Backman worked for the Cardinals. Raymond was taken out in the eighth when the bases were full, and Doyle, besides his three-base hit that won the game, got two other hits.

Neither side scored until the sixth inning, though the Giants missed a grand opportunity in the second. O'Hara led off with a hit, but Devlin, Bridwell, and Merkle were not there with the pinch hits. In the fifth Doyle singled to right after Schlei popped out and Raymond walked. The latter was caught trying for third on Larry's single. Then Seymour singled to right, scoring Doyle. Raymond gave the Cardinals a run in the same inning when he passed Ellis, who got to third on Koney's single and then scored when Evans forced Koney.

O'Hara counted the second run in the seventh, getting to second on a right field hit, which was booted. He took third on a bad throw to catch him off second and was brought home by Bridwell.

In the eighth Schlei walked, took second on Raymond's sacrifice, stole third, and tallied on Doyle's long fly to left field. Then the Cardinals tied up the score. Ellis scratched a hit to Doyle, Phelps walked, Koney singled to left, scoring Ellis. Raymond was then benched and Crandall went to the mound. Evans forced Koney and Phelps moved up to third, scoring on Delehanty's sacrifice. The ninth was runless, and after Merkle was out on a line drive, Schlei singled to centre, Crandall fanned, and Doyle dropped a triple almost to the fence, scoring Schell. The score:

Superbas Outplay and Beat Cubs.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Chicago was outplayed in all departments of the game to-day. Bell's great pitching and perfect support prevented Chicago from scoring. A pass, a sacrifice, and McMillan's single scored for Brooklyn in the second. A wild pitch and two errors scored the other run. Score:

California League in Bad Shape.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 9.—The State Baseball League was badly crippled yesterday by desertions and dismissals from the Sacramento and Stockton clubs, and local sportsmen believe that the league will collapse before the end of the week. To-day most of the Sacramento State League players are seeking positions with the Pacific Coast League and Eastern leagues. There is similar dissatisfaction in the Stockton camp, and it is freely predicted here that the two teams will disband immediately.

Stinger Loses to Kline.

Patsey Kline of Newark and Kid Stinger of Philadelphia furnished the wind-up of ten rounds last night at the Bedford Athletic Club. The contest was a fast one, marked by several rallies. Kline devoted his attention to Stinger's face, while the majority of the latter's blows were delivered on Kline's ribs and stomach. Kline held the lead from the start, and finished well up with a good margin to spare.

COAST CHAMPIONS BEATEN.

Alexander and Hackett Win Tennis Doubles in Straight Sets.

Frederick B. Alexander and Harold H. Hackett, the National doubles champions, appear destined to retain their holding of the title because of their straight-set victory over the challenging pair of Pacific Coast champions, George Janes and Maurice McLaughlin, yesterday. On the turf court of the Knollwood Country Club, at White Plains, Alexander and Hackett defeated the challenging pair, 6—1 and 6—4.

In every way the competition was most unusual. Never before in lawn tennis history has the pair of challengers met the holders of the championship previous to the famous opening contest of the All-Comers' National tournament on the Casino courts at Newport, R. I.

Calhoun Cragin of the West Side Tennis Club yesterday defeated G. Lorraine Wyeth of the New York Lawn Tennis Club in the postponed series of the Metropolitan League championship. Cragin won by the final score of 7—5, 6—8, 6—3. The result of this contest leaves each of the clubs as having scored one point on their series. The deciding point will be determined in a match between Karl H. Behr, playing for the West Side Club, against T. R. Pell, New York.

POLO FOR SENIOR TITLE.

Dedham Defeats Bryn Mawr by Margin of One-Half a Goal.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 9.—The match for the senior championship in the Point Judith Country Club polo tournament was played at Wild Field Farm to-day, the rival fours being Dedham and Bryn Mawr. The match was won by Dedham by a score of 6¼ to 5¾, after a closely contested game.

The clever riding and well directed drives across field by Forbes and Shaw counted much for the Dedham team. The line-up:

DEDHAM.—No. 1, Allan Forbes; No. 2, L. A. Shaw; No. 3, Joshua Crane; back, P. W. Wren.

BRYN MAWR.—No. 1, Alexander Brown; No. 2, R. E. Strawbridge; No. 3, C. Wheeler; back, M. G. Rosengarten.

Referee—Hugh Drury. Timers—H. B. Kane, W. C. Marrow, Henry de Coppett.

POLO BY SQUADRON A.

Whites Defeats Reds After Close Game by 3 to 2½ Goals.

In an exciting polo game yesterday at Van Cortlandt Park the Red and White teams of Squadron A played evenly up to the last period of the contest, when the Whites won by the score of 3 to 2½ goals. The rival quartets played without handicaps, and put up one of the best contests witnessed this Summer. Hunt, who scored three of the four goals for his team, excelled in mallet work and riding, while Rand and Strong appeared to advantage for the losing team. Three penalties were inflicted during the game, two on the Whites and one on the Reds. The line-up and summary:

WHITES.	REDS.

2—L. Neilson.	2—R. F. Strong.
3—I. H. Hunt.	3—B. Rand.

Brannigan and Goldman Draw.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Aug. 9.—According to public opinion, the best that Patsy Brannigan was entitled to at the end of his six-round go here to-night with Charley Goldman, a local boy, was a draw. The lads fought fast and cleverly. Goldman was up and coming every round. Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland easily outpointed Happy Davis of Brooklyn.

Jones Defeats Brown.

Willie Jones of Brooklyn last night defeated "Knockout" Brown in a ten-round bout before the Olympic Athletic Club. Brown was wild and missed many swings, while Jones landed a number of effective blows on the face. In the eighth round Jones floored Brown, and the latter was very weak and clinched during the remaining rounds.

Capt. Foster changed his tactics yesterday and steered the Angler for Long Beach, where it was stated that fish was in abundance. Between 200 and 300 deep-sea fishermen took the trip, and they enjoyed the best sport of the season. Seabass and porgies were plentiful, catches of from twenty to twenty-five being of common occurrence. Andy Kiesel of Avenue A got the biggest mess, thirty-one bass and twelve porgies, while Thomas W. Lott of Brooklyn landed nineteen bass and the same number of porgies. The performance of Mrs. Schreiber of 341 Avenue C, New York, was the sensation of the trip. With a drop line and skimmers as bait, she caught eighteen bass, four porgies, and one conger eel with the skill of the most expert angler.

At the Raunt, in Jamaica Bay, yesterday weakfish and seabass were caught without any trouble. One of the best hauls of the day was made by James Hawkins, who landed fifteen weakfish and eight bass. Catches of from eight to ten weakfish were numerous.

Capt. Allen took a big deckload of fishermen on the Taurus to the Cholera Banks yesterday, and nearly one-half of the seabass that were caught were humpbacks, running up to six pounds each. William Cobb landed twenty-two, including ten humpbacks, three of which scaled more than five pounds each. C. Mars got nine big ones, two weighing six pounds each. Among the other successful fishermen were F. Cella, F. Horn, J. Buhler, A. Johnson, J. Connell, B. Anderson, and K. Takenaka, who got messes of from four to twelve seabass, half of which were humpbacks.

MAY RIVER WINS HANDICAP AT SPA

Kentucky Derby Winner Wintergreen Outclassed in Big Field at Saratoga.

CHASERS LAPPED AT FINISH

Sandy Creeker Gets Home First, with Commodore Fontaine Second—Marksman Set Back for Foul.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 9.—The big stables had but modest representation in the events of to-day's racing card, but at that New York horses captured six of the seven races, with the feature event, the handicap at seven furlongs, going to Richard T. Wilson, Jr.'s May River. The field in this was the best of the day, with the Kentucky Derby winner Wintergreen making his first appearance in the East as the top weight. Wintergreen and Thomas Hitchcock, Jr.'s High Range, lapped, went on together in front for five furlongs, and then May River came on from behind as Wintergreen began to stop. The race at the finish was between May River and High Range, May River running into the lead at the last sixteenth and drawing away for a few strides. Then High Range made a last effort, and closing at the end drove May River to his best to win by a head.

The steeplechase produced a remarkable finish, with three horses abreast, all whipping in at the finish with Sandy Creeker, which came from the rear with a nicely timed rush, the winner by a scant length from Commodore Fontaine and Marksman, second and third as named, while Selectus, which led in the first round of the field by nearly a furlong, was a poor fourth. The rider of Commodore Fontaine made complaint to the stewards that Simpson, on Marksman, had fouled and hampered him through the last six furlongs of the race, charging that Simpson had even whipped Commodore Fontaine on the head to keep him from passing Marksman. The offending rider was suspended for the meeting and his case held over for investigation, while Marksman was disqualified and Selectus was placed third in the third disqualification of the meeting.

The change of the place of selling winners of selling races, from the judges' stand to the paddock, has been approved by the officials of the Coney Island Jockey Club, and at Sheepshead Bay for the Fall meeting a sales ring is to be constructed in the paddock, where selling race winners may be offered at auction, the form followed on the English turf.

For the Middle States Regatta.

The success of the New York oarsmen at the National Regatta put all the delegates of the Harlem Regatta Association in good humor at their meeting at the Harlem Casino last night. The meeting was called to further the interests of the Middle States Regatta Association races, which are to be held under the auspices of the Harlem Regatta Association over a one-mile straightaway course on the Speedway on Labor Day, Sept. 6. The entire charge of the regata was turned over last night to the Regatta Committee of the Harlem association, which is composed of E. W. Keinnelberg, Chairman; Richard Sturcke, David Brown, Jack Nagle, and James G. Tighe. There will be eighteen events decided, with James Pilkington as referee and Henry Penn Burke of the Malta Boat Club of Philadelphia as starter.

A communication from C. L. De La Verne, asking the co-operation of the Harlem Regatta Association with the regatta of the Hudson-Fultn Association, which is to be held at Yonkers on Sept. 29, was referred to the Regatta Committee, which will hold a meeting on next Monday night.

Some Questions Answered

We are daily in receipt of inquiries from people, regarding the Martinolar Method, which show that we haven't reached all the people yet, in spite of a continuous campaign of advertising extending over a period of six years.

Here are some of the commonest questions:

Q. Do you plant teeth in the gums?

A. No. There is no implantation, no cutting or boring into the gums, no SURGERY at all, and no pain about the work.

Q. If all the teeth are gone, can you supply those that are gone?

A. No. We require two or more teeth in either jaw to work from.

Where all the teeth are gone we supply the finest fitting removable plate known to Dental Science, because of the great skill of our operators.

Q. My teeth are loose, can you use them in your method of restoring the missing teeth?

A. We should have to make a careful examination of your mouth before we could answer.

The nature of the Martinolar Method is to tighten loose teeth and make them tight and firm in the gums.

We wish to assure our friends that the success of the Martinolar Method is based on its adherence to natural laws.

We try to imitate nature in so far as we are able. When the new teeth are in place we say, use them, but don't abuse them. Keep them clean. Don't try to crack nuts or bite nails with them. In short, treat them like good teeth deserve to be treated, and they should last as long as you last.

Our book explains the Martinolar Method in detail.

You should read this book, which we send you free.

Wedgwood Ware Is Held to Be Undervalued and Must Stand Higher Duty.

Wedgwood earthenware came in yesterday for advances in value, as the result of an investigation conducted by Eugene G. Hay of the Board of United States General Appraisers. It appears that Wedgwood & Co., Limited, of Tunstall, England, invoiced crown royal blue ariel plates and teacups and saucers at prices deemed too low by the local appraising officials.

The Appraiser of the Port held that plates invoiced as having a value of 1s. 1d. per dozen should have been set down as 2s. 9d, and duty at the rate of 60 per cent. collected on the value of the importation. The tea plates entered as worth 1s. 6½d. a dozen were advanced by the local Appraiser to 3s. 8d. per dozen. Other goods are also advanced. General Appraiser Hay in his decision affirms the finding of the Appraiser of the Port that the merchandise was undervalued.

A dispute between various importers of moving-picture films, which has been dragging along for some time, was disposed of yesterday, when Sub-Board 3 handed down a decision holding that films brought to this country from Paris, Milan, Genoa, and Turin must stand duty on the basis of the higher values imposed by the local Appraiser at the time of importation.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

L. W. DAY & CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against L. W. Day & Co., (corporation,) tailors, on the credit plan at 27 Maiden Lane, by these creditors: Morris Florea, $800; Moses Frank, $1,000, and S. Rosenberg & Co., $100. It was alleged that the corporation was insolvent and made preferential payments of $2,000. Judge Hough appointed William Blau receiver with a bond of $2,500. Liabilities are reported to be $20,000 and assets $11,000, consisting of merchandise, $2,500; fixtures, $1,000, and outstanding accounts, $7,500. It was stated that the officers of the corporation had abandoned the business, leaving it in charge of clerks. The corporation was incorporated May 8, 1908, with a capital stock of $100,000. On March 1 last a petition in bankruptcy was filed against the corporation by Isidor Dilloff and Frederick C. Mann, minority stockholders, which was dismissed on March 15, when it was stated that a settlement had been made with the creditors in full and that the minority interests had bought out the majority interests. Mr. Dilloff became President and Mr. Mann Secretary and Treasurer.

SAMUEL A. CUTNER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Samuel A. Cutner, manufacturer of passementerie and trimmings at 105 Greene Street, by Rosa Monsheimer, a creditor for $1,500. It was alleged that he was insolvent, made preferential payments of $1,500, and transferred merchandise and accounts of $1,500. Judge Hough appointed Francis H. Griffin receiver with a bond of $1,000. Liabilities are $10,000 and assets $2,000 in machinery and accounts. The business was started many years ago by A. S. Ellison, and Mr. Cutner was employed there from boyhood, became a partner in 1887, and succeeded to the business in 1905, when he claimed to have a capital of $30,000. The trouble is attributed to "dry rot."

JOHN F. DAVIS.—John F. Davis, confectioner, of Yonkers, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,331 and no assets.

AUGUSTUS L. REYNOLDS.—Judge Hand has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy, filed on May 14, against Augustus L. Reynolds, grocer, of Mount Vernon, on the ground that he was not insolvent when the petition was filed. Liabilities were $10,986 and assets $28,396.

DOOLEY & CO.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Dooley & Co., tailors, 107 East 125th Street, show liabilities of $775 and assets of $298, proceeds from the sale of the stock and fixtures at auction.

GRAHAM & HOWE.—Judge Lehman of the Supreme Court has appointed Edward V. Nicholson receiver for the partnership assets of Graham & Howe, who have a moving picture show at 77 West 125th Street, in a suit brought by Alida E. Howe against Henry Graham for a dissolution of the partnership, which was formed on June 1, on account of a disagreement between them. The bond of the receiver is $2,500.

Out of Town.

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed to-day by William H. Kauffman of Athol, Mass., a satinet and mattress stock manufacturer. His liabilities amount to $11,159.47, of which $4,557.43 is unsecured. The assets are given as $6,741.48, which includes real estate of a value of $5,000.

Judgment Against Troy Railroad Company.

A judgment for $13,205 was entered yesterday against the Troy, Rensselaer & Pittsfield Railroad Company, in favor of A. William Sperry, for balance due for work, labor, services, and materials on the railroad in Lebanon Springs Township, from Nassau, N. Y., to the Massachusetts State line, between Sept. 30, 1907, and June 15, 1909. The summons was served on A. W. Paige, President of the company, at 30 Church Street.

CANADIAN PACIFIC REPORT.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—A dividend of 2½ per cent. on the preferred and 3 per cent. on the common stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the half year ended June 30 last was declared to-day at a meeting here of the Board of Directors. An additional payment of one-half of 1 per cent. will be made on the common stock from the interest on proceeds of land sales.

Gross earnings for the fiscal year were $76,313,321; net earnings, $22,955,573. The net income from steamships and other sources was $2,306,488, and the total net income, $25,262,061. The net revenue available for dividends, after deducting fixed charges, amount transferred to the steamship replacement fund and contribution to the pension fund, is $14,955,028. The surplus carried forward, after payment of all dividends, is $3,847,161.

EXCELLENT CROP REPORT

Stock Exchange Selling on the Showing—More High Records—Rise in Day-to-Day Money.

Yesterday's Government crop report covering conditions as of Aug. 1 was fully up to the expectations which had been formed of it. As a result of excellent weather throughout the month of July Winter wheat matured safely and a harvest of nearly 433,000,000 bushels is assured. A decline of less than 1 per cent. in the condition of Spring wheat from the July figures holds out the promise of a crop of above 270,000,000 bushels, so that the total yield of wheat this year should be approximately 700,000,000 bushels, as against 664,000,000 bushels last year. The best feature of the situation with wheat is that the crops are so nearly harvested that only small loss from the present promise can occur. In corn there was a decline of nearly 5 points in condition during the month of July, but much of the loss occurred in Texas and Oklahoma, and the acreage is so large that even on the Aug. 1 percentage there is a prospect of a final yield of above 3,000,000,000 bushels. Corn has still to pass through a number of trying weeks before the crop is safely made, but there is so much margin in the present outlook, the promise exceeding that of a year ago by nearly 400,000,000 bushels, that a crop far above normal can be harvested in spite of any considerable loss. On grain markets the natural result of such an exceptional showing in wheat was a decline of a cent or more a bushel in all options. Corn prices were relatively firm. This August report of the Government taken as a whole settles the question of this year's crops. They are to be bountiful in all departments, and their harvesting and the distribution of the immense amounts of money to be realized from them not only justify all the progress which business has made in the past six months but hold out every inducement for its further expansion.

On the Stock Exchange there followed the appearance of the Government's report a professional selling movement very much like that of last week, when the Tariff bill was signed by President Taft. It led to rather sharp recessions in prices. In the last hour of business, however, recoveries ensued and at the close of the day quotations as a rule were up to those of Saturday. Profit taking was heavy throughout the day, but an accumulation of buying orders, which appeared to represent public participation, made absorption relatively easy, and in the course of the day new high records were made by a half score of stocks, including Reading, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Great Northern Ore, and United States Steel. In other words, the general character of the market was unchanged from that of last week. Additional railroad earning statements of a most satisfactory kind were turned in during the day, and the new impulse to manufacturing concerns from the reviving business of the railroads was reflected in the placement by the Pennsylvania of an order for 8,000 cars and by the Hill lines for some sixty locomotives.

The feature of the day's money market was an brupt upturn in call rates to 2½ per cent. This advance presumably reflected Saturday's bank statement, but while it was made much of on the floor of the Stock Exchange it is difficult to adjudge it an excessive rate for money at this season of the year. The banks reported a substantial gain from the Sub-Treasury and have received on balance from that source $500,000 since Friday last, where a week ago they had lost at this time above $2,000,000.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Trading at the opening reflected to an extent the strength of the Wall Street market, and quotations on the initial sales were on a par with or above Saturday's closing prices. Subway attracted attention by its activity, and seemed to be about the most active share. Swift also was active at an advance of ⅛ point, receding on later sales. Can common and preferred, Sears-Roebuck, and Booth Fisheries were slightly in advance at the outset, while Street's showed a loss of ⅝.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Strength Shown in the Industrial Issues, Though General List Is Inactive.

COPPERS ARE SLUGGISH

Prices Show Some Gains Despite Falling Off in Activity—Bond Trading is Well Diversified.

The most active among the industrial stocks traded in on the outside market yesterday were the Southern Iron and Steel issues, the common being traded in between 20½ and 21½, closing at the latter figure, and the preferred between 57¼ and 58½. In the mining list the coppers were fairly strong, although the volume of trading was small. Miami sold only 500 shares, closing even with the opening at 16⅞. Nevada Consolidated sold 800, dropping from 24¼ to 24. Cumberland-Ely reported transactions of 1,500, gaining 1-16 on the day's business. Gila Copper was one of the few stocks to make a substantial gain. The close at 9, after transactions of 3,000, was ¾ above the opening. Trading in the bond list was well diversified, although individual issues were comparatively inactive.

The principal transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—Lehigh Navigation trust certificates were the feature of the local stock market to-day, advancing 3½ points over Saturday's closing. The stock sold at a gain of 3 points in the same time. Electric Storage Battery also displayed strength after the opening and sold at 62½, a gain of ⅝ of a point, before it weakened a fraction and sold at 62. Traction issues were a shade weaker this morning, and Cambria Steel sagged a little with little stock in supply. At the end of the session prices were inclined to weaken, and Cambria, which closed at 46 on Saturday, fell through 45 to 44⅝, while the other stocks declined small fractions.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Activity and Strength Concentrated.

So far as the general market was concerned, no one took any particular pains to analyze the movements of individual stocks. Several of the important issues were strong and this gave the color to the entire market so that the ordinary explanation of the market was that it was very strong. That description goes just as well as any other, but the real strength or the real advances were in a few stocks. Steel common, Reading, Union Pacific, Smelters, and Great Northern Ore were sufficiently intrusive because of their greater or less activity and strength to give the impression that the entire list was similarly affected. As a matter of fact the entire list did not share in the enthusiasm influencing these particular stocks. There was no sign of weakness anywhere, but brokers on the floor were questioned by customers as to why this or that stock did not assume a responsive attitude to the general upward movement, as the queries were usually framed. Inasmuch, however, as most dog-day markets are made up of a few stocks the fact that the entire list did not rush forward held no special significance and professionals were content to accept the workings of the veteran issues as conclusive.

⁂

Market Prophecies Mixed.

Speculative sentiment is very much mixed, as would appear from the casual talk of operators on the floor, the market letters of more or less important houses, and the attitude of customers in brokerage offices. The continued strength of the market neutralizes bearish talk. In other words, if the market were even slightly reactionary, the attitude of those who are now opposed to higher prices would be of material influence in shaping the actions of many traders. They cannot reconcile, however, the acceptance of theories which appear to be entirely at variance with the actual possibilities of the market. The talk of the professionals is of the usual indefinite kind. It is not bearish, but rather conservative, implying a belief that a reaction is a possibility. The fact that these professionals are long of stocks detracts from the weight this conservatism might otherwise have. The man who is really at sea is the customer in the brokerage house.

⁂

Still Taking Profits.

Profit taking was again suggested by those analyzing yesterday's market, but the way in which the market acted in the face of this profit taking only added to the speculative puzzle. While it was asserted generally that there was profit taking it was not specified who were selling stocks. Certainly no one was willing to assert that the so-called insiders were handing out stocks, while at the same time the market was advancing. Profit taking by the small fry would necessarily have little influence, nor would it be sufficiently important to be characterized as a definite influence in the market. Around the brokerage houses there was nothing to indicate concerted selling by the semi-professional traders who foregather in such offices, and many brokers asserted that there was considerably more buying by their clients than selling. Reports from the floor are not necessarily accurate, inasmuch as the selling of a block of stock may have given to it a significance which is entirely unwarranted or selling at other times may be ignored when it is really a reflection of a definite trend in the general market. Nevertheless, there was the general talk of profit taking, which, if the market had been weaker, would be described as liquidation.

⁂

Odd-Lot Speculation.

There is a house of more or less importance in the financial district—not an odd-lot house itself—which does a considerable business in small lots. According to one of the members a few months ago the customers of this house had purchased and were carrying a very large lot of stock in odd lots. This was gradually sold on the advance until about six weeks ago the total commitments were small. Then there was another evident period of buying, but this time the purchases were made not because of investment possibilities or for the purpose of carrying them to very much higher prices, but for scalping purposes. There has developed more or less of a speculation in odd lots, it being obvious that the traders in these limited amounts were not impressed with the possibility of very much higher prices, but were fairly well convinced that the market would not react, and that, temporarily at least, advances would be made from the prices at which they purchased.

⁂

Crop Report's Influence.

It is a question whether the Government crop report has quite as much effect speculatively nowadays as it used to have. Certainly it is not watched for in the average stock house with the same interest that was manifested, say, two or three years ago. For example, yesterday the crop figures were of less interest than the probable doings in Union Pacific, Steel, Reading, and the more or less mysterious Ore Certificates. The wire houses, doing a combination business in grain, cotton, and stocks, naturally watched the Government figures, particularly in view of the fact that most of them make estimates of their own, and they like to see how close they have come to the official figures. Should the Government figures verify their early estimates, there is an air of supreme satisfaction. Should the Government figures be at variance with the amateur estimates the Government bureau is quietly held up to contempt. But the stock market does not appear to be directly and vitally influenced by figures which do not vary in any extraordinary way either from the casual estimates, the more or less complicated figures of the private experts, or the general impression of what the harvest yield may be.

WINTER WHEAT YIELD 432,920,000 BUSHELS

Crop Report Indicates This Total, 4,988,000 Bushels Below Final Estimate of 1908.

AVERAGE CONDITION 90.3

Last Year 90.1—Corn Average 84.4, Against 82.5 Last Year; Oats 85.5, Against 76.8.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The crop report issued to-day by the Department of Agriculture shows an indicated total Winter wheat yield of 432,920,000 bushels, compared with 437,908,000 bushels finally estimated last year; an average condition of Winter wheat of 90.3, against 90.1 a year ago; an average condition of corn of 84.4, as against 82.5; an average condition of Spring wheat of 91.6, as against 80.7, and an average condition of oats of 85.5, as against 76.8.

The comparative figures for corn include 89.3 last month and 82.6 as the average on Aug. 1 for the last ten years. The preliminary returns for the Winter wheat yield indicate about 15.5 bushels per acre, compared with 14.4 as finally estimated last year. The condition of Spring wheat is compared with 92.7 last month and 81.1 the ten-year average on Aug. 1. For comparison, the oat crop averaged 88.3 last month and 83.1 for ten years on Aug. 1.

The proportion of last year's oat crop in farmers' hands on Aug. 1 was about 3.3 per cent., or 26,323,000 bushels, as compared with 5 per cent., or 38,000,000 bushels, of the 1907 crop on hand Aug. 1, 1908, and 6.3 per cent., or 53,000,000 bushels, the average proportion on hand for the last ten years on Aug. 1.

The average condition of other crops on Aug. 1, as compared with a year ago and the ten-year average, respectively, follow:

Barley, 85.4 and 83.1 and 86.1.
Rye, 89.1 and 88.3 and 87.9.
Buckwheat, 86.3 and 89.4 and 91.7.
White potatoes, 85.8 and 82.9 and 86.7.
Tobacco, 83.4 and 85.8 and 82.3. The condition on Aug. 1 in important tobacco States was: Kentucky, 84; North Carolina, 75; Virginia, 86; Tennessee, 85; South Carolina, 85; Ohio, 91; Wisconsin, 77; Pennsylvania, 83; Connecticut, 90, and Florida, 87.
Flax, 92.7 and 86.1 and 87.7 for six years.
Hay, 86.8 and 92.1 and 87.

The acreage of buckwheat is estimated as about 0.1 less than that of last year, or about 2,000 acres less than last year.

The preliminary estimate of the acreage of hay is 45,581,000 acres. This is 1.9 per cent., or 905,000 acres less than last year.

The following is the report by States of the corn condition on Aug. 1, 1909, and the ten-year average, respectively:

Illinois, 91 and 84; Iowa, 85 and 84; Texas, 60 and 76; Missouri, 88 and 80; Nebraska, 93 and 83; Kansas, 90 and 78; Oklahoma, 63 and 82; Indiana, 94 and 85; Georgia, 90 and 86; Ohio, 90 and 85; Kentucky, 87 and 84; Tennessee, 78 and 82; Alabama, 76 and 82; North Carolina, 78 and 87; Arkansas, 76 and 81; Mississippi, 69 and 78; Louisiana, 88 and 80; South Carolina, 84 and 81; South Dakota, 92 and 86, and Virginia, 77 and 88.

The following are preliminary returns of Winter wheat, giving by States the production in bushels and the quality, per cent.:

Kansas, 85,478,000 bushels and 88 per cent.; Indiana, 34,241,000 bushels and 82 per cent.; Nebraska, 42,040,000 bushels and 95 per cent.; Missouri, 28,562,000 bushels and 92 per cent.; Illinois, 33,721,000 bushels and 91 per cent.; Pennsylvania, 25,551,000 bushels and 93 per cent.; Ohio, 23,278,000 bushels and 86 per cent.; Oklahoma, 14,848,000 bushels and 94 per cent.; California, 12,096,000 bushels and 92 per cent.; Tennessee, 8,133,000 bushels and 85 per cent.; Virginia, 8,758,000 bushels and 86 per cent.; Maryland, 11,034,000 bushels and 83 per cent.; Michigan, 14,232,000 bushels and 94 per cent.; Texas, 6,133,000 bushels and 87 per cent.; Kentucky, 7,800,000 bushels and 81 per cent.; Washington, 16,951,000 bushels and 98 per cent.

The condition on Aug. 1, 1909, of the Spring wheat and the ten-year average are, respectively:

North Dakota, 93 and 78; Minnesota, 92 and 82; South Dakota, 92 and 82, and Washington, 90 and 85.

The condition of oats on Aug. 1, 1909, and the ten-year average by States are, respectively:

Illinois, 90 and 81; Iowa, 81 and 85; Minnesota, 89 and 86; Nebraska, 80 and 79; Wisconsin, 84 and 88; Indiana, 92 and 82; Ohio, 91 and 87; North Dakota, 92 and 80; South Dakota, 91 and 88; Michigan, 81 and 90; New York, 80 and 90; Pennsylvan'a, 79 and 89, and Kansas, 88 and 67.

The Government crop report, as analyzed by New York authorities, shows a gain in the Winter wheat crop of nearly 23,000,000 bushels over the prediction last month, and although corn is 4.9 per cent. off in condition and the prospective crop reduced by 207,000,000 bushels, the yield of this staple as predicted remains a record. Oats also, according to the estimates made from the report of condition, will produce a bumper crop. Altogether the returns from the cereals for August, which is the most important report of the season, are unprecedentedly favorable, wheat being the only important cereal which does not establish a new record.

With the reported condition of 84.4 the Produce Exchange statistician estimated yesterday a corn crop of 2,954,063,000 bushels by the method of calculation which has been in use for the last two seasons, taking into account the average deterioration between now and harvest for the last five years. This compares with an estimate last month of 3,161,174,000 bushels and an actual crop last year of 2,668,651,000 bushels. On Aug. 1, 1908, the estimate was 2,686,494,000 bushels. The August estimate last year exceeded the actual harvest by 178,430,000 bushels.

Winter wheat, according to yesterday's estimate, which was that of harvest, will yield 15.5 bushels per acre, which is 1.2 better than last year's acreage return. The late season, according to crop authorities, deceived the Government reporters, who in July did not look for better than a yield of 14.7 bushels per acre. The Government report of 15.5 bushels per acre indicates a better Winter wheat harvest than has been cut in many years. In 1906, when a bumper crop of 492,888,004 bushels was produced, the yield was 16.7 per acre. The yield this year, according to the Produce Exchange statistician, will be 432,920,000 bushels, and according to the Government will be 432,520,000.

Spring wheat, which since the last Government report has declined only 1.1 in condition, will yield, according to the Produce Exchange figures, 270,348,000 bushels against last month's prediction of 253,796,000 bushels. The actual crop last year was 226,694,000, and the bumper crop of 1905 was 264,516,657.

The total wheat crop is now estimated at 703,268,000 bushels. This compares with the bumper crop of 1906, which totaled 735,269,000.

Oats, according to the Produce Exchange estimate, will total 1,027,000,000 bushels against an actual crop last year of 911,347,000 bushels. The 1906 crop was 964,904,522 bushels.

UNION PACIFIC STOCK SALES.

Ore Certificates, Northern Pacific, and Great Northern Liquidated.

The Union Pacific has sold its holdings of Great Northern ore certificates, it was learned yesterday, and has practically completed the liquidation of its holdings of Northern Pacific and Great Northern. The sale of the balance of the Union Pacific holdings of these stocks is in pursuance of the policy it adopted upon the liquidation of the Northern Securities Company.

Since it got back from this company large blocks of Great Northern and Northern Pacific the Union Pacific has been selling them when favorable opportunity presented, each annual report having shown substantial reductions in the amount of these stocks held by the Harriman system. This liquidation has now been practically completed, which means that the Union Pacific has sold the balance of these stocks still shown on its book on June 30, 1908, the date of the last annual report.

Included in the Union Pacific's stock holdings on that date were 77,164 ore certificates, $3,578,000 of Great Northern preferred, $1,914,400 of Northern Pacific, and $724,900 of Northern Securities Company stock.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—The local copper market opened generally steady, with trading moderately active and orders well distributed. Around noon the market showed increased strength. Superior Copper was the feature of the copper shares, advancing over three points. The close was strong in anticipation of a favorable statement by the Copper Producers' Association.

HAWLEY NOW AFTER THE HOCKING VALLEY

Controlling Interests, However, Oppose His Plans for an Outlet to the Lake Ports.

FIVE LINES AGAINST HIM

The Pennsylvania Against Further Extension of Hawley's Power—Harriman's Influence May Figure.

Edwin Hawley, in behalf of the Chesapeake & Ohio, control of which is held by the Hawley syndicate, has recently made efforts, it was learned yesterday, to obtain control of the Hocking Valley, which would give the Chesapeake & Ohio an outlet to the lake ports and serve to connect the Chesapeake & Ohio with the other Hawley roads, including the Toledo, St. Louis & Western.

In this effort Mr. Hawley has encountered opposition from some of the railroads which now hold control of the Hocking Valley, the Pennsylvania interests, it is believed, being unwilling to see Mr. Hawley's power in the Eastern railroad situation increased to the extent to which it would be added to by his obtaining for the Chesapeake & Ohio absolute control of the Hocking Valley. The latter road, besides being an important coal road, would serve to round out the Hawley system of roads. In this connection it was recalled yesterday that soon after Mr. Hawley acquired the Chesapeake & Ohio an effort was made to get it away from him.

Control of the Hocking Valley now lies with five other roads, each of which has an interest in a majority of the common stock. The Chesapeake itself has a one-sixth interest, the Panhandle of the Pennsylvania system has a two-sixths interest, and one-sixth interest each is held by the Lake Shore, the Baltimore & Ohio, and the Erie. These five roads between them hold $6,924,200 out of the Hocking Valley's $11,000,000 of common stock.

There is also outstanding $15,900,000 of Hocking Valley preferred, which has equal voting rights with the common, but the preferred is subject to call at par. There is a minority interest in the common stock amounting to a little over $4,000,000. Were it possible for the Hawley syndicate to obtain this stock it would give the syndicate, along with the Chesapeake's own holdings, about $5,200,000, or almost as much as is held by the other four roads, any one of which co-operating with the Chesapeake and the Hawley syndicate would give control of the Hocking Valley.

It is not known whether or not the Hawley interests are disposed to continue efforts to obtain the Hocking Valley, even if the Pennsylvania interests should persist in refusing to sell out their Hocking Valley, but it is noted with interest in this connection that, with the exception of the Panhandle, the roads which hold Hocking Valley, outside of the Chesapeake, are more or less closely allied now with the Harriman interests, and between Mr. Hawley and E. H. Harriman very friendly relations are believed to exist.

THE FOREIGN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Money was in stronger demand on the market to-day for payment of $15,000,000 in Treasury bills. Discounts were steady. The Bank of England secured the bulk of the $3,000,000 in gold available.

On the Stock Exchange the mining carry over commanded the chief attention, but the tone of the markets generally was good, with rises in foreigners, Kaffirs, and gilt-edged securities under light support. Home rails were neglected, and Copper shares were easy.

American securities opened from ⅛ to ⅝ of a point over parity, but later the active issues declined on realizations, and at noon the market was quiet, with prices from ⅛ to ¼ below yesterday's New York closing. Irregularity developed later, but New York bought moderately in the late trade.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1¼@1⅜ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for three months' bills is 1 7-16@1½ per cent.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm.

Closing, 3 per cent. rentes, 98f. for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f. 18c. for checks.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—The trading on the Boerse to-day was hesitating, and the tendency downward, owing to the uncertainty regarding the Greco-Turkish situation.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Judd Stewart, long associated with Guggenheim enterprises, has been elected a Director of the American Smelters Securities Company.

At a meeting of the Superior Water, Light, and Power Company Directors, held at Superior, Wis., the following officers were elected: William R. Merriam, Washington, D. C., President; Robert R. Dunn, St. Paul, Minn., Vice President; Victor M. Watkins, St. Paul, Minn., Treasurer; W. H. Winslow, Superior, Wis., Secretary.

N. W. Harris has purchased for the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, of which he is President, the plot from 140 to 146 Monroe Street, Chicago, on which a twenty-one-story building, to cost $1,500,000, will be erected. The bank will occupy the first two floors.

COPPER DISPUTE AT BUTTE.

Controversy Between Clark and Amalgamated Interests Over Ore Bodies.

A controversy which has arisen between the Amalgamated Copper Company and Senator W. A. Clark over the ownership of certain ore bodies upon which the Clark mines at Butte have been working, was brought to Wall Street's attention yesterday in dispatches from Butte which told of the conflict of claims over these ore bodies.

Senator Clark is now in Montana and officials of the Amalgamated did not care to discuss the matter for publication. From authoritative sources, however, it was learned that there is a disposition on both sides to settle the matter amicably. That such is the spirit of the controversy is indicated by this statement made by a man in a position to speak for the Clark interests:

"Senator Clark is now in Butte and one of the objects of his presence there is to help settle the dispute with the Amalgamated. There is no legal questions at issue, it being rather a case which requires the definite determination of the geological facts upon which to base an intelligent decision as to whether that ore belongs to the Amalgamated Company's mine or to the Clark mine. The matter is not one in which the United Verde Company is interested. Its mines are in Arizona, while this controversy is on property at Butte."

Differences of opinion between the Clark and the Amalgamated interests over the ownership of these ore bodies began to arise a good while ago, but very little has been heard of them in the financial district and until now it has not been known that the matter has been of the importance which seems to be attached to it by those familiar with it. The adjustment of the controversy depends upon the settlement of certain geological questions there being no difference of opinion between the two interests regarding the law.

RAILWAY EARNINGS INCREASE.

Average Per Mile $100 Better in May This Year Than May, 1908.

The summary of 849 reports of railroads made officially to the Inter-State Commerce Commission for May, covering a total of 332,190 miles of line, has been issued by the commission. The figures show the sources of the country's railroad earnings for the month of May and their disposition as follows:

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—Most of the trading yesterday previous to the Government report at 2 o'clock represented an adjustment of accounts for the report. There was considerable selling at the start in response to a break of 1@1¼d at Liverpool, large receipts at Chicago, and prospects for an increase in the visible. Immediately following the report prices dropped a cent per bushel. The interior movement consisted of 1,401,000 bushels, including 353 cars at Chicago, against 1,533,000 bushels last year. Berlin was 1⅜c net lower. The domestic visible increased 586,000 bushels, while Canada decreased 466,000 bushels, a net increase of 120,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 824,000 bushels last year. Rain in Northwest harvesting sections caused some apprehension early. Cash wheat in New York closed weak. No. 2 red, $1.11¾ nominal in elevator, and $1.11¾ free on board afloat, prompt, both new; old No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.37¾, and new No. 2 hard Winter, $1.10⅝ free on board afloat. Exporters took ten loads.

CORN.—Owing to hot, dry weather in the Ohio Valley, prices had a firmer opening yesterday, but later met selling on the decline in wheat and larger primary receipts until the Government report appeared, when prices steadied. The visible supply decreased 340,000 bushels. No. 2 yellow corn in New York was quoted 79c nominal in elevator and 80c delivered for domestic; No. 2 corn, 61¼c free on board afloat, Winter shipment, for New York.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Slumps on Rains in Texas—Closes at 15 to 19 Points Net Loss.

Cotton ruled generally lower, with prices reaching lowest since the August Bureau. July contracts sold at 91 points under the high figure of the previous Monday. A slight rally occurred toward the close, which was steady at a net loss of 15@19 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 13@19 points in response to lower cables and rain reports from the Southwest.

Detailed Texas weather reports showed that rains had been quite general, ranging from a trace to little less than two inches.

Contract prices follow:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Sat. Close.
August	..	..	11.88@11.90	12.07
September	11.88	11.82	11.83@11.85	12.01
October	11.87	11.74	11.80@11.81	11.98
November	..	..	11.80@11.81	11.98
December	11.92	11.80	11.85@11.86	12.02
January	11.91	11.79	11.84@11.85	12.00
February	..	..	11.84@11.85	12.00
March	11.92	11.80	11.85@11.86	12.01
April	..	..	11.85@11.86	12.01
May	11.95	11.86	11.88@11.89	12.03

Spot cotton was quiet, 20 points lower, at 12.40 for middling upland and 12.65 for middling Gulf. Sales, 1,700 bales; delivered on contract, 2,400.

Southern spot markets were telegraphed as follows: Norfolk steady, unchanged, at 12⅛c; sales, 9 bales. Augusta steady, ⅛c lower, at 12½@12⅝c; sales, 157 bales. Houston quiet, unchanged, at 12¼c; sales, 79 bales. New Orleans steady, ⅛c lower, at 12¼c; sales, 500 bales. Memphis quiet, unchanged at 12⅛c; sales, 25 bales.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Riverside Drive and 158th Street Corner Bought for Improvement—Church To Sell West 119th Street Property—Few Transfers Recorded.

Lewis B. Preston has sold for Arnold Schramm the plot of about three lots at the northeast corner of Riverside Drive (Boulevard Lafayette) and 158th Street. The site, on which the new owner will erect a twelve-story apartment house, has frontages of about 60 feet on 158th Street and 24 feet on the drive. Upon the completion of the building Mr. Preston will have charge of the property.

Church to Sell for $80,000.

The Lenox Avenue Union Church has been granted leave by Justice Brady to sell its property, 41 West 119th Street, to the Congregation Mount Zion, for $80,000.

Upper Eighth Avenue Corner Sold.

Louis Cowan sold for a client the southwest corner of Eighth Avenue and 154th Street, a six-story brick tenement with stores on lot 37.6 by 100.

William Horn has sold to Dennis O'Brien 143 West Ninety-second Street, a three-story brownstone dwelling on lot 20 by 100.

Easy Day for the Register.

As reflected in the filing of papers in the Register's office, real estate trading reached a low ebb yesterday, there having been recorded only nine transfers and twenty-three mortgages.

The property at the northeast corner of Broadway and Seventy-fourth Street has been mortgaged by the Recometre Company of America to the United States Mortgage and Trust Company for $100,000, due in ten years and bearing 6 per cent. interest.

Buyer for 103d Street Tenement.

Arthur F. Du Cret & Co. have sold for a client 205 and 207 East 103d Street, a six-story tenement, 37.6 by 100. The same brokers have also a farm of about 160 acres at Windham, Greene County, N. Y.

New Building in Harlem Leased.

The new three-story building which is to occupy the block front on the east side of Fifth Avenue, between 125th and 126th Streets, and for which plans were recently filed, has been leased for a term of years to two tenants by Jesse W. Powers, the owner. The structure will occupy a plot 200 by 85 and is to cost $50,000.

The entire 125th Street half of the structure together with the store floor of the 126th Street end has been taken by the Buckley-Newhall Company, furniture dealers, who now occupy space in the small building on a part of the property. The two upper floors of the northerly end have been leased to Woods's Business School, which has also been located for many years in the upper floors of the building at the 125th Street corner. The Buckley-Newhall Company recently acquired the property at 145 and 147 West 125th Street, with the intention of erecting a building for its own use, but this has been abandoned.

London Firm on Fifth Avenue.

William Hall's Sons have leased the southerly store in their new building at the southwest corner of Fifty-first Street and Fifth Avenue, to Crichton Brothers, gold and silver smiths, as a branch of their establishment in Bond Street, London. The lease is for a long term of years.

Pease & Elliman report the following leases: 5 East Fifty-third Street, for the Pyle estate; 219 West Seventy-ninth Street, for Dr. Dougal Bissell; 150 West Ninety-fifth Street, for B. McKeon; 130 West Seventy-first Street, for Clarence S. McKune; 204 West 100th Street, for F. B. Taintor, and 57 East Seventy-second Street, for Mrs. L. F. Folsom.

The McVickar-Gaillard Realty Company has leased to John Palmer, for a term of years, the store and basement at 86 Maiden Lane.

Dwellings Leased East of Park.

José Aymar has leased for a term of years to Dr. William H. Thomson, the five-story American basement dwelling, 70 East Fifty-fourth Street.

Mrs. F. Bianchi has leased her residence at 29 East Seventy-sixth Street, northeast corner of Madison Avenue, a four-story dwelling, for three years.

Huberth & Gabel have leased for Thomas J. Nealis to Susanna O'Connell the four-story dwelling, 22 East Thirty-second Street.

Purchase on Woodycrest Avenue.

George A. Bagge, of the firm of Neville & Bagge, has sold his residence at the northeast corner of Woodycrest Avenue and 164th Street. It is a two and one-half-story brick and frame house, occupying a plot 50 by 100, and was put up by Mr. Bagge a few years ago.

S. J. Taylor has sold for a client a two-family house, on lot 25 by 100, on the south side of 236th Street, 75 feet east of Oneida Avenue, Woodlawn Heights.

Good Demand at Westfield, N. J.

The H. C. Lockwood Company reports a substantial increase in the demand for property at Westfield, N. J. This company has subdivided two tracts in Westfield comprising 250 acres. These are now being developed in a substantial manner. H. C. Lockwood, President of the company, reports sales of fifty plots and eight houses valued from $4,500 to $5,250 each.

Lot Buyers on Long Island.

The Dunton Lodge Realty Company has sold three plots on Van Wyck Avenue, at Dunton Lodge, L. I., to Emil Roschli, August Wissel, and Frank Jolly.

GOOD HELP

Help Wanted advertising in The New York Times costs slightly more, for the reason that help obtained through The Times is of the better sort, and is therefore worth more. Good help is obtained only from the better and more intelligent class of people, and The New York Times, with its daily circulation exceeding 175,000 copies, reaches more such people than any other New York newspaper.

CONFERENCE SEEKS TO ROUSE DEMOCRATS

E. M. Shepard Declares the Saratoga Meeting Aims at Rallying the Entire Party.

MANY VOTERS DISSATISFIED

At Present No Intention to Overturn Machine, but a Reform of Party Conditions Will Be Tried.

The real object of the proposed conference of leading conservative Democrats of the State, to be held at Saratoga on Sept. 9, was explained yesterday by Edward M. Shepard, who will be one of the principal conferrees. According to him the conference means nothing more than an attempt on the part of the sincere element of the party to awaken an interest among all Democratic and other voters, in opposition to the Republican Party, in the coming municipal and State campaigns.

Mr. Shepard would not touch definitely upon that phase of the question which has been supposed to imply direct opposition to the present established State "machine," but hinted that considerations of this kind might enter into the deliberations of the conferrees.

"It is true that I have, with Judge O'Brien, Judge Parker, Thomas M. Osborne, S. S. Menken, and other Democrats of the State, joined in the movement for a Democratic conference at Saratoga in September," said he. "The dominating reason for the conference I understand to be essentially the same as that which, with the approval of the Democratic General Committee of Kings County, brought about the recent appointment of a special and representative committee of Democrats in that county.

"The reason is found in the abnormally large extent to which the citizens of this State, who are in sympathy with what they have considered the doctrines of the Democratic Party, are, nevertheless, out of relation with—or even in hostility to—the organized representation of the party within the State.

"The present movement is not one for another Democratic organization—at least nothing of that kind has as yet been even mooted, and very many, I assume most, in the movement, would disapprove such a programme—nor is the movement due to hostility to any particular man or set of men. It has a far larger scope; it represents a widespread and unmistakable discontent of Democrats with Democratic party conditions.

"That discontent has been borne by the abstinence in late years from political activity of Democrats to an extent, which has been harmful and has brought defeat to their party, and has been no less harmful and injurious to the cause of good government. The conference will doubtless express its hostility to a political system which has prevented adequately able, systematic, and practical presentation of the Democratic creed to the voters of the State.

"What the Republican Party and its leaders, from Presidents Roosevelt and Taft down, have done or left undone, has made it clearly important that the opposition in New York ought to be so organized as to attract, and not to repel, all the constituency of Democratic and independent voters, who will not support and who ought to oppose the Republican Party. It is always the support of the independent constituency which in this State determines the issue of political success or defeat.

"It has seemed lamentable to many that even the great and burning issue of the tariff should have produced so meagre an expression from New York Democrats. To a large body of Democrats in this State it is clear that something should be done—and be done promptly—to make the machinery of political primaries work to the end of an honest representation of party opinions, and that the law should be so amended as to promote in State Conventions the honest representation of the will of every Assembly district of the State and to make an end of those abuses in the unseating of truly elected delegates, which have led to such disastrous strife within the Democratic Party.

"In short, we hope that it may be made easy, and not difficult, for self-respecting Democrats to vote on the Democratic side. The coming conference will, I have no doubt, ask the loyal co-operation of the Democratic organization in a better, a more honest, and a more thorough representation of the Democratic sentiment of the State."

GAS SETS TENEMENT AFIRE.

Girl Risks Her Life to Save Canary—Two Firemen Are Hurt.

Herman Glickman of 86 Osborne Street, Williamsburg, went last night with a lighted candle to the meter in the lower hall to find a leak. There was an explosion. Glickman recovered his senses on the sidewalk, after having been blown through the front door.

Some of the gas had got into the walls. The explosion rent these and started a fire, which immediately began to eat its way up through the walls and airshaft. The house was empty in a few seconds, and the tenants gathered in the street to watch the firemen stop the blaze.

Fireman Arthur Shaw of Truck 70 tried to reach the meter to turn off the gas, but was overcome, and Fireman Langdon of Engine 131, who discovered and rescued him, was burned about the face and hands in doing so. Then Mrs. Joseph Talley screamed that her 12-year-old daughter, Rose, was missing.

A moment before the child had been on the sidewalk with her parents. She had suddenly remembered her pet canary, which was still in the Talley flat on the second floor. Policeman Cordes of the Brownsville Station ascended a rear fire escape and found the child in a faint on the floor of her room. He rescued her and the canary. The fire was put out quickly, with only slight damage.

FAST TRIP BY MAURETANIA.

Cunard Liner Equals Her Best Previous Eastward Voyage.

A cable was received yesterday at the office of the Cunard Line in this city announcing the arrival at Queenstown of the Mauretania after a passage equaling her best previous eastward voyage. She passed the Ambrose Channel lightship here at 11:49 A. M. on Aug. 4, and arrived yesterday at Queenstown at 10:10 A. M., making the voyage in 4 days 17 hours 21 minutes.

On Aug. 6 she logged 605 knots in twenty-four hours, and the average hourly speed attained was 25.89 knots, or one-one hundredth of a knot faster than her previous best hourly speed.

SPURNS HUSBAND, HE SHOOTS.

Mrs. Kavanagh Then Caresses Man Who Shot Himself.

Frank J. Kavanagh of 99 East Eighty-first Street shot his young wife and then himself yesterday afternoon in a Chinese restaurant at 3 Pell Street. He is one of the sons of Theodore Kavanagh, who in 1859 established a real estate business at 955 Madison Avenue. It is now conducted by Theodore Kavanagh, Jr., his brother, and his uncle John Kavanagh. The elder Kavanagh lives at 951 Park Avenue. Frank J. Kavanagh told the police yesterday that he was a steam fitter.

Some time ago—different accounts place the time anywhere between six weeks and a year—Frank J. Kavanagh and his wife, Louise, quarreled and separated. It appeared yesterday that the husband suspected her of disloyalty. She has been living at Pine View Farm, in Belmar, N. J., and he has evidently been staying at Newburg, N. Y.

Yesterday at 12:30 o'clock the couple walked into the Oriental Restaurant, at 3 Pell Street.

At 2:30 o'clock there came two loud shots from the third floor of the restaurant, and the Chinese stampeded into the street. Then another shot was heard. By that time Policeman Farrell was leaping up the stairs. Just as he turned into the room he saw Kavanagh place the pistol to his right temple and fire the fourth shot. Capt. Galvin and Detectives Gleason and Quinn arrived on the scene about that time.

An ambulance was summoned from the Hudson Street Hospital. While it was coming Kavanagh murmured, according to the police:

"Oh, I don't care. I came down here to do this, anyhow. What's the difference?"

Dr. Ames ordered that the young husband and wife be taken at once to the hospital. The policemen carried Kavanagh, who was only semi-conscious, down to the ambulance, and then led down the young wife. Though they had been separated, the woman held his head in her lap and kept his right hand to her lips all the way to the hospital.

There Kavanagh lapsed into unconsciousness. It was said there last night that most likely he would not live. Both bullets went in his right temple. One bullet had gone into the right cheek of the young woman, ranging around behind her ear, but not touching the brain. She will live.

In the neighborhood of 951 Park Avenue, where the elder Kavanagh lives, and 99 East Eighty-first Street, where Kavanagh's only brother lives, the family is well known. It was learned that after the young couple broke up housekeeping at their own home they lived for a while with Theodore Kavanagh, Jr. When told of the shooting yesterday afternoon he telephoned a priest to go to see his wounded brother, and then he hurried down there himself. He refused to make any statement.

CRAIG TO DROP CASE.

Soldier Brother to Aid of Woman Who Shot Lawyer in the Waldorf.

A tense moment broke the droning round of police cases in Jefferson Market Court yesterday when William B. Craig, a lawyer of 2 Rector Street, who accuses Mrs. Mary Scott Castle of having tried to shoot him in an elevator in the Waldorf-Astoria last Tuesday, was confronted by Mrs. Castle's muscular brother, Henry Harrison Scott, who is a Captain in the United States Coast Artillery. It came out at the close of the afternoon that Craig will probably drop his charge against Mrs. Castle.

With Lawyer Fuchs and Mr. Dean Capt. Scott entered the courtroom promptly at 9 o'clock, and, walking down the long aisle between the rows of court lawyers and prisoners' friends stepped inside the railing and took a seat on one of the benches. It was almost 11 o'clock when his sister was brought in by a uniformed policeman. As soon as he saw her the Captain went over to her and began to chat in low tones.

Mrs. Castle was hysterical and almost fainted when her lawyer was pleading for an adjournment, which the magistrate granted. Her brother consoled her.

Craig and Capt. Scott had a conference in the court room after the court proceedings.

The lawyer and the Captain spent the whole afternoon until the court adjourned, at 4 o'clock, trying to find some one to go on Mrs. Castle's bond for $3,000. Magistrate Butts would not accept bail from a bonding company, and one bondsman who was found merely owned property under freehold, but later, David Manus, a shoemaker, gave as bail two Brooklyn lots.

It was announced, unofficially, by the lawyers in the case, that Craig would not press his charge against Mrs. Castle this morning, and that therefore the case will drop.

Mrs. Castle was treated for mental unsoundness in a sanitarium on Lexington Avenue for ten days two years ago. Capt. Scott, her brother, is 33 years old. He was appointed a Second Lieutenant in the United States Coast Artillery from California in 1901, and was promoted to a first lieutenantcy in 1905. He is not a West Pointer, but was graduated from the Coast Artillery School at Fort Monroe.

RELUCTANT WITNESS CAUGHT.

Detectives Get Mrs. Wright, Who Accused Chauffeurs, Following Husand.

Mrs. Irene Wright, the young woman who caused the arrest of William B. Curzon and William H. Young on last Friday, alleging that they had both attacked her in a taxicab on Thursday night after having driven her into Central Park, and who, since then, has avoided testifying in court, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Haggerty and Barber and locked up as a material witness. Mrs. Wright said that she had remained away from court out of sympathy for the parents of Young, who had pleaded with her not to prosecute their boy.

The case of Curzon and Young was called in the Tombs Court on Friday and Saturday of last week, and again yesterday, and at no time was Mrs. Wright present. Yesterday, therefore, a summons was issued for Mr. Wright, and served upon him at his office in Rose Street. The detectives followed him when he left the place, hoping he would go to his wife, who has not been living at her home, 213 East Sixty-sixth Street since the arrest of the chauffeurs.

The detectives were not disappointed, for Wright met his wife at Third Avenue and Fifth Street, and there she was arrested. She said she had been living with her mother at 329 Fifth Street.

3-YEAR-OLD DROWNS AT PLAY.

Son of J. J. Crawford Was Left Alone and Fell Into Lake Mohegan.

The family of James J. Crawford of 259 South Fifth Street, Brooklyn, returned grief-stricken yesterday from their Summer home, at Lake Mohegan, N. Y., with the body of their three-year-old son, Edward William Crawford, who on Sunday was drowned in the lake in front of their cottage.

The child was left playing alone on the lawn between the cottage and the lake on Sunday after breakfast by his nurse. He had been in the habit of being taken down to the boathouse float by his father. He apparently wandered down there and fell in. When the child's disappearance was first discovered Mr. Crawford thought the boy had been kidnapped, and, driving into Peekskill, sent out a general alarm and offered $500 reward. During the afternoon four men dragged the lake with grappling irons and recovered the child's body in twenty feet of water. Both Mr. and Mrs. Crawford and their daughter were so overcome that relatives had to be summoned from Brooklyn. Mr. Crawford for many years has been Secretary of the Iroquois Democratic Club of the Fourth Assembly District in Brooklyn, and is manager for W. S. Gray & Co. at 76 William Street, Manhattan.

Eighty-Cent Gas Refund Report.

United States Commissioner Shields, as custodian of the gas refund accounts, reports that during the twenty-three weeks of the distribution of the overcharge money on 1,046,203 vouchers, $9,538,021.72 has been returned to consumers. Last week, on 36,476 vouchers, $134,595.05 was paid back to patrons of gas companies in Manhattan and the Bronx, and of this amount the disbursements made by the Consolidated Gas Company were $70,346.88, of which approximately 71 per cent. was from the fund and 29 per cent. was paid by the company direct.

MAGISTRATE DEFIES THE HUNDRED TO ACT

Barlow Demands Specific and Individual Charges If Justice Is Lax.

BOARD MAY TAKE ACTION

Committee Replies That the "System Is Rotten," and Says the Mayor Is Responsible for It.

Peter T. Barlow, President of the Board of City Magistrates, last night took issue with the Committee of One Hundred, which organization, in a statement printed yesterday, had declared that miscarriges of justice in the Magistrates' courts were so frequent as to breed anarchy.

Magistrate Barlow, in reply, said in substance that the One Hundred didn't know what it was talking about, and challenged that organization to bring charges against individual Magistrates, instead of making blanket charges against the Magistrates' bench.

The challenge will not be accepted by the Committee of One Hundred.

Magistrate Barlow when seen by a TIMES reporter last night in the Night Court said:

"Both as President of the Board of Magistrates and in my individual capacity I am tired of the abuse heaped on the Magistrates by unthinking, unintelligent people who do not know the facts. This talk about frequent miscarriage of justice is preposterous. There isn't a Magistrate on the bench to-day who fails to give his cases the utmost attention so far as I know. The question of anarchy being bred by the practices in the police courts is based on a quotation from a professional reformer who, if he would pay a little more attention to construction than to destruction, might be of some service to the community.

"In the matter of police court finances," the Magistrate went on, "these are thoroughly investigated by the Commissioner of Accounts. The police court clerks keep the fine moneys on deposit as such.

"In regard to the 'days off,' which Judge Whitman is quoted as saying are too many, I only wish to say that no such complaint was made by him while a Magistrate. It is my personal belief that no man can properly do the work in these courts without a long period of rest between terms.

"Bernhard Rabbino, attorney for the Legal Aid Bureau, has had peculiarly ill-luck. Perhaps if he spent more time in the Magistrates' courts and less time in trying to establish a Court of Marital Relations, of which he himself, presumably, would be a member, he might have accomplished better results.

"The statement that laxity in the Magistrates' courts is responsible for the failure of cumulative sentences is equally absurd. If these be a failure—and I doubt it—the blame rests not with the Magistrates' courts, but in the handling of the prisoners after they reach the Workhouse. No method is supplied by the city by which the Magistrate may be guided in sentencing to the Workhouse under the cumulative sentences law.

"In regard to the enforcement of the compulsory education law, the liquor tax law, or the law relating to disorderly women, if the gentlemen of the Committee of One Hundred have the courage of their alleged opinions, why don't they prefer charges against Magistrates individually, rather than seek newspaper notoriety by covert accusations blanketing all Magistrates in unjust, insincere, and, in most cases, untrue statements?

"How many of these gentlemen have ever visited a Police Court? I invite any reasoning member of the Committee of One Hundred to sit with me on the bench and see for himself how the work of my court is carried on."

Magistrate Cornell, sitting in the Essex Market Court, said:

"For myself, I say emphatically that this statement by the Committee of One Hundred is unwarranted, untrue, and a gratuitous insult to the great majority of City Magistrates. I cannot stand silently by while such serious, yet unfounded, charges are made against the courts of justice."

Magistrate Frederick B. House, sitting in the Harlem Court, said: "It doesn't interest me enough to waste time talking about it."

Magistrate Daniel E. ("Battery Dan") Finn, whose appointment to the Police Court Bench by Mayor McClellan was declared in the committee's statement to be most reprehensible, is on a vacation which he is spending in Saratoga.

In reply to the statement of Magistrate Barlow, the Committee of One Hundred last night authorized this:

"Magistrate Barlow evidently misunderstands the purpose of the Committee of One Hundred in attacking the system under which so-called justice is delivered from the Police Court Bench in Manhattan. We are not preferring charges against individual Magistrates, as he suggests we should do, because it is a system we are attacking and we attack it at the root.

"The appointing power—the Mayor—is responsible for the general character of the Magistrates' bench, and for its rottenness. To level attack at individual Magistrates would be foolish. It would mean a hearing before the Appellate Division, and possibly the removal of the Magistrate, but the way to get complete reform is to elect a better sort of Mayor, and that is what we have engaged to do in this campaign."

MRS. SIEGEL BAILS STRANGER.

He Was a Chauffeur Who Had Raced Her Driver to Escape the Dust.

Dust, according to two chauffeurs arraigned yesterday morning in the Morrisania Court before Magistrate Herrman, caused them to exceed the speed limit. One of them, John F. Slimey, who was driving Mrs. Henry Siegel of Mamaroneck, declared that as he was going along the Boston Road, his employer told him to let the machine out, as she could not stand the dust thrown up by another automobile just ahead.

"But that's exactly why I went so fast," replied the other chauffeur, Baily Follensberg, who was driving alone the machine of C. Webber of New Rochelle. "I couldn't steer for the dust the other fellow kicked up."

Bicycle Patrolman Remington said that he chased the two cars for over a mile this morning until he caught up with them at Boston Road and White Plains Avenue. They were going, he said, at the rate of twenty-two miles an hour.

Magistrate Herrman held both chauffeurs for Special Sessions in $300 bail. Mrs. Siegel offered her residence at 26 East Eighty-second Street, as security for Slimey's appearance.

Follensberg looked blue, as he realized that, having no one to bail him out, he would be locked up. Mrs. Siegel noticed his dejection and asked if she could go on his bond also.

"Certainly, Madam," replied Magistrate Herrman.

Mrs. Siegel than signed the second bail bond, giving the same security. The house is valued at $400,000. Mrs. Siegel had never seen Follensberg until his arrest.

LIGHTBOURNE MAKES DENIAL.

Says He Has Nothing to Do with Dr. Johnson's Candidacy in the Ninth.

Earle L. Lightbourne, a lawyer, and a voter of the Ninth Assembly District, denied yesterday that he had any connection with the proposed candidacy of Dr. P. A. Johnson for leader of the district against Michael H. Blake, the present executive member in the Republican organization.

Mr. Lightbourne stated that his name had been used without his permission, and that so far from being connected with any movement against Mr. Blake, he did not even know that such a movement was contemplated until he read of it in the newspapers.

The story as published stated that it was the intention of the negro voters of the district to place one of their own number in the position of leader, and that Mr. Lightbourne was assisting in the movement.

FIGHTERS GO FOR POLICEMAN.

Quit Hitting One Another to Pummel Cooney, the Jiu-Jitsu Man.

When young Thomas Cooney of 500 West 133d Street finished his probation and was appointed a policeman on July 14 Deputy Commissioner Woods complimented the strapping young man upon being the most adept among his pupils in the arts of boxing, wrestling, and jiu-jitsu. Cooney never had an opportunity to exhibit his skill until yesterday afternoon, however.

Then he was walking along Amsterdam Avenue on his way home. He was not in uniform and when, at 125th Street he saw two big plasterers squaring off at each other to begin a fight he remonstrated with them. One hit him in the right eye and the other in the neck.

He hit the sidewalk, but bounded to his feet and went at his assailants in jiu-jitsu fashion. The plasterers went for him. Lack of practice probably made Cooney lose his cunning. When he awoke the two plasterers, friends again, were grinning at him from the platform of a rapidly receding car.

Cooney exhibited his eye at the West 152d Street Police Station last night and reported sick.

WIFE HALES BOYD TO COURT.

Accuses Former Superintendent of Public Works of Non-Support.

Mrs. Sessa M. Boyd of 62 West Fifty-third Street summoned her husband, Charles S. Boyd of 58 West Fifty-seventh Street, to the West Side Court yesterday to charge him with failing to support her. She told Magistrate O'Connor that under Gov. Odell her husband served two terms as Superintendent of Public Works, and that for many years he has enjoyed an annual income of $15,000.

"For some time after we were married," said Mrs. Boyd, "I was forced to buy my own clothing, and some of his, too. By June of last year our bill with the Hotel Maryland, in West Forty-ninth Street, was $600. I was forced to leave the place for fear of being arrested. My husband got me to invest $10,000 of my money in a realty venture, and I have had a hard time getting any interest. Since June of last year he has continually refused to give me money, but once he said he would take me to a hall room in Brooklyn if I paid my own board."

Mr. Boyd, who is said to have rowed on the Columbia 'Varsity crew of 1877 with ex-Gov. Odell and to have been a close friend of ex-President Roosevelt, told the court that in the financial panic of 1907 he lost nearly all his money, and that his income fell to $3,600 a year. He said that he hasn't had since that time sufficient money to look after his wife, but would take care of her if he did get it.

When it came out that Mrs. Boyd has $1,200 a year income of her own, Magistrate O'Connor discharged Mr. Boyd.

Mrs. Boyd was the daughter of Francis A. Moran of Brooklyn. In 1888 she married Nathan Lee Smith, but divorced him and married Mr. Boyd at Atlantic City on April 27, 1906.

Mr. Boyd is a mining engineer by profession, and a member of the Calumet Club.

WHO PICKS THE SCHOOL?

SOME schools appeal only to the boy. Others aim only to please the parents. St. Paul's is a school which appeals to the boy and pleases the parents. To such parents and boys as desire a school with the fullest equipment, where special attention is given to the happiness and comfort of the boys, but which is managed for the boys and not by them, we commend our catalogue dealing in detail with the school.
